FOREWORD

WITH the coming of each new school year a new Prattonia Board settles down to work with one fundamental aim, a better Prattonia. In publishing this issue of our annual, our theme is modern throughout to keep pace with the progress of our Alma Mater.

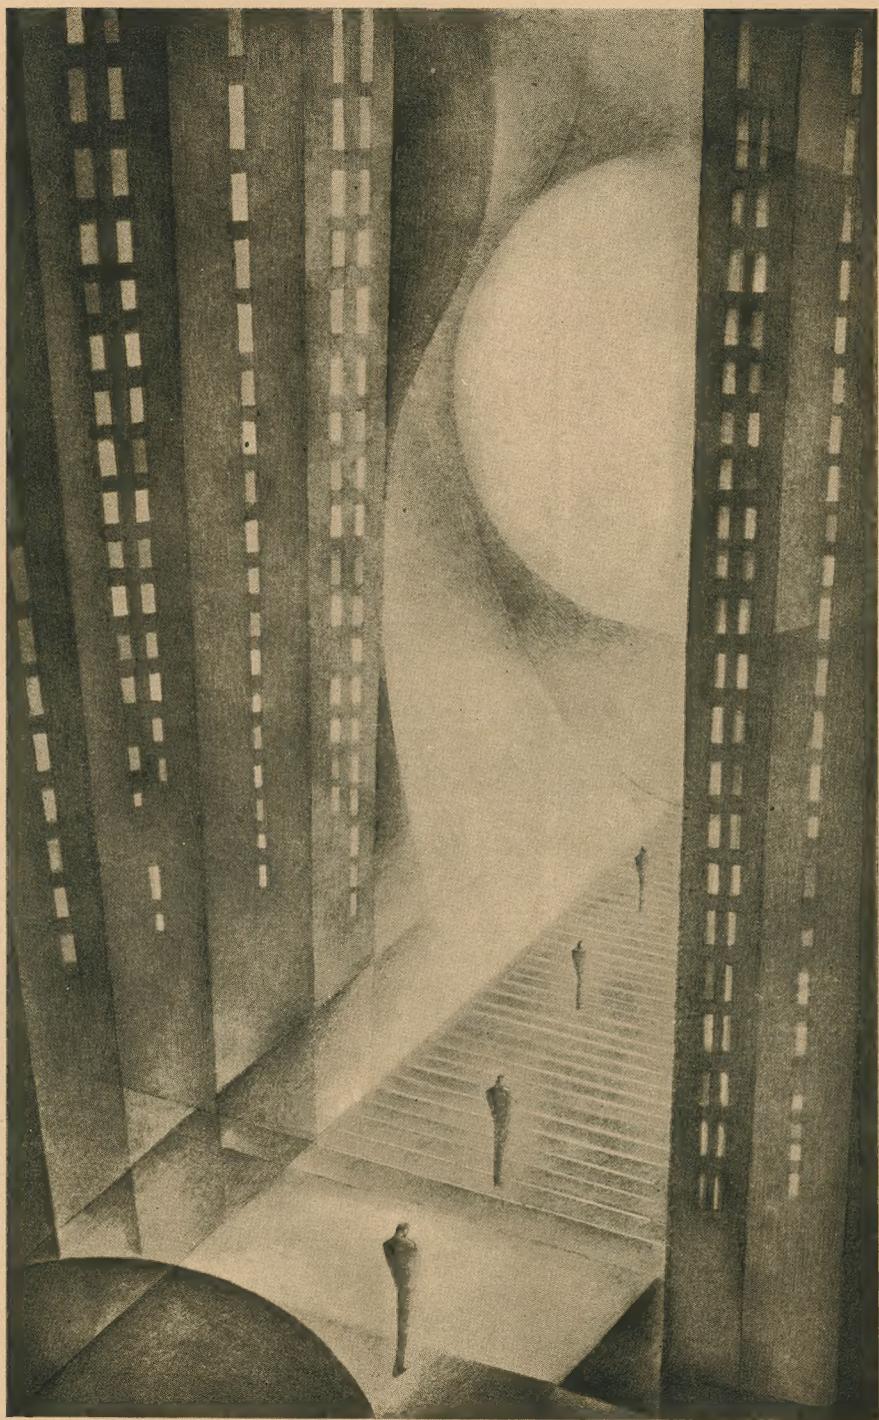

To the student body of Pratt Institute we submit this book, our earnest endeavor to leave the old and go to the new. May we call to your attention the Futura type face and Duotone ink which have been used as a means of expressing memories which we wish to preserve? The Art work necessary to carry out our theme has been a strenuous task, worthy of much gratitude. The literary content between these covers was faithfully read and checked, to reduce errors to a minimum. The result is our very best effort and we hope it gratifies your expectations.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

IN offering this volume to the School family, the Prattonia Board beg to express their sincere gratitude and indebtedness to the many persons who have cheerfully given their time and skill that PRATTONIA 1930 would serve to keep in remembrance the memorable years at the Institute.

We are particularly grateful to our faculty advisors, Mr. Petersen, Mr. Gordon, Miss Duntz, Mr. Harper and Mr. Stevens, for their professional advice and assistance.

The General Faculty and school secretaries have contributed to the fulfillment of our problems, and the class representatives by their contact with the student body have earned enduring laurels.

SCHOOL HISTORY

IN THE year following the founding of Pratt Institute, Mr. Charles Pratt was asked what led to the establishment of the Institute and he wrote the following in reply: "It is so easy to be misunderstood I almost hesitate to answer your question as to what led to the establishment of Pratt Institute. If you will accept hasty dictation, I will give you the inside so far as I am able to tell it.

In my early youth I had to struggle, as most young men do, for a living. At first I worked on a farm but finally learned a trade, and then at about 19 years of age went into commercial business. Twenty or more years ago, when I began to have a family ready for school, I felt the need of a place for their education, which led me to become connected with the school to which they went—the Adelphi Academy. My connection and acquaintance with the working of the institution for the past twenty years and my interest in the young led me to feel, as soon as my business promised a competency, that I would try and do something for young people situated as I had been. In a word, I thought I could derive more satisfaction in the use of money by helping other people than I could by giving all my energy to its accumulation. Those who know my life for the last thirty years will know that my actions have been consistent with this thought.

It has required no little courage to undertake the establishment of this enterprise. Any person who has been successful in his business hesitates to start in untried enterprises. I had theorized for many years as to the kind of scheme I would like to work out, but did not see the way clear to its organization and management. Finally, however, I decided to buy the ground and begin the construction of buildings, saying nothing in particular to any one as to what I intended doing, so that no one need to share in the disappointment should the enterprise not meet with success. I am glad for the success which has attended it, and have great pleasure in contemplating what I believe to be its future. I want Pratt Institute to be a model, and to do the experimental work of this kind of education for the people of this country. All the plans, all the work we have is at the disposal of any individual or institution that would like to start a similar work.

So far as the endowment is concerned, I have made no promises. * * * The quality of the work will be a better estimate of the value than promises of large amounts of money.

The examples set by Peter Cooper, George Peabody, and many others before and since their time have been an inspiration and help to me, and my hope is that what I have done, so far as it may go, will be an inspiration and help to other people who have means (while they have their health, and are in possession of their faculties) in creating a desire to devote their means and energies in a similar direction.

As to our capacity for students: with day and evening classes (where people take one or two lessons per week in specific work) in connection with regular students who are there every day, you will see the difficulty of answering your question, but we have hoped that we would be able to accommodate from 4,000 to 5,000 students each year."

In his first Founder's Day address in 1888 Mr. Pratt said, "In the departments the enrollment has grown from a beginning of twelve to a total, in day and evening classes, of 631. It is my earnest desire that this number may grow until we tell it by thousands and that each department shall send out strong, helpful, sincere men and women prepared to do efficient work and unwilling to do less than their best. It is right here from you, young men and young women, that I look for the success of the Institute. I believe in the spirit of fellowship, in that unity of thought and action which tends to make others better. Many people will be looking to us because of the novel features of our Institute. I have come to the conclusion that people are estimated pretty justly. It is not necessary to go through the streets blowing a big horn for ourselves. Our Institute will be judged by the men and women whom it turns out. Let the work here be earnest and good. Despise sham and deception. Everything connected with the organization must be genuine and true, and nothing done for effect."

The standards that Mr. Charles Pratt established for Pratt Institute have been maintained by the Trustees, his sons and grandsons. Mr. Frederic B. Pratt and Mr. Charles Pratt in their work at the Institute have given the inspiration for the continuance of that spirit.

At the Twenty-fifth Anniversary reunion in 1912 Mr. Charles R. Richards said, "Pratt Institute was founded not to glorify a name, but for the highest thing in human life: for service. It was simply an honest effort to help the other fellow."

ALMA MATER

Towering far above her neighbors,
Shop and mart and hall,
Stands the home of student-labors,
Noblest of them all!

At each meeting, give her greeting,
Raise the proud salute!
Hail to thee our Alma Mater,
Hail Pratt Institute!

In our hearts her precepts linger,
Her example gleams,
Showing with unerring finger
Guerdon of our dreams.

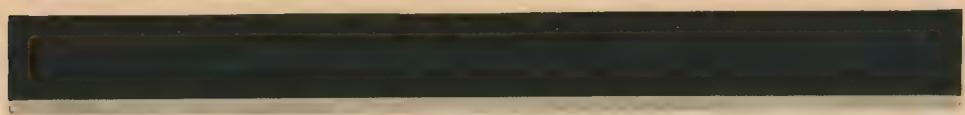

At our meeting, for our greeting,
Bring her noble "fruit,
Hail to thee, our Alma Mater,
Hail, Pratt Institute!

Round the world the chain extending
Each to other binds,
All her honored name defending,
Hearts and hands and minds.

At our meeting, give her greeting,
Raise the proud salute!
Hail to thee, our Alma Mater,
Hail, Pratt Institute!

FORGIVENESS

Every moment nature forgives you . . . All your hours
Are crowded with rich penitence unknown
Even to you. Shot birds and trampled flowers
And worms that you murdered with a stone
In idle sport, yea! and the well whose deep
Translucent green and solitary sleep
You stirred into harsh wrinkles with a stick.
Red mud that you bound into a brick
Old wood that you have wrought into a barque,
Flame in the street-lamp held to light the dark,
And fierce red rubies chiselled for a ring . . .
You are forgiven each hour by everything!

THE SCHOOL OF SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

The day classes in the School of Science and Technology comprise Pratt Institute's long established, but still pioneer, two-year engineering courses, namely, Industrial Mechanical Engineering, Industrial Electrical Engineering, and Industrial Chemical Engineering. These courses, which parallel in a more intensive and more practical form this country's conventional four-year engineering college, have been gradually perfected through many years' evolution at Pratt Institute for the purpose of making available a thoroughly adequate higher technical education within the shortest time consistently possible. We have found that the best of teachers, facilities, and administration are essential to the accomplishment of this purpose. Furthermore, the students must be notably above the usual college entrance level in maturity and purposefulness, and likewise in experience and appreciation of the practical requirements and conditions of the occupational field for which these courses are designed to be their final preparation.

Our graduates from courses of this type total several thousand, the annual rate now being about two hundred. Nearly all apply their Pratt Institute training at once to technical employment in industry. Their successful careers—comparing very favorably with those of graduates of this country's best schools and colleges of engineering—reflect the high efficiency of their education.

INDUSTRIAL ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING, 1930

TRULY, it is history that nearly two years have passed since a motley group gathered together in that part of Brooklyn called "DeKalb and Ryerson." Though history, and unwritten at that, it will never be forgotten by the members of that group.

Thus, they assembled, but for what purpose? Ah, they wished to be electrical engineers. As a result, a two years' war began, supplying the surrounding territory with the battle scars of education and of student fun and labor.

The first battle started with a crash, ammeters across the line, sparks, sweat and what have we? Why, a bundle of dazed, scratchy-headed, electrical men.

As time went on there were skirmishes on the field, court, ring and floor. These represented the tone for the battles by the light of the midnight oil or perhaps, electric light.

This lively band of vagabonds were barely able to hold their own during the first year of such tearing odds, but nevertheless, hold their own they did, until a truce of some two months' duration was declared.

Following this lull, battle was formed anew. Back came the band, refreshed and eager for the fray. Though they felt the hurt of some of their comrades who had fallen back in the field of endeavor, they went forward hoping that their memory and future inspiration would be carried back to help those on to the end.

Now, accustomed to this old battle ground, the warriors plugged in earnest, with astonishing results. Until now, nearing the day of armistice, they leave behind marks that may be looked back upon with pride; achievements that will hold poignant memories of happiness, comradeship, and human hope.

Thus, the class of '30, leaving the banner to another worthy band, reviews its sojourn at Pratt, hoping and trusting that the highest quality of association realized from its stay will inspire its future destiny.

Class Soccer, 1929-30; Class Basketball, 1929-30; Captain, 1929; Class Baseball, 1929-30; Class Bowling, 1929.

"Joe" is a boy of many activities and boundless energy. What the dressmakers will do in the future without "Joe" to humor them along is hard to say.

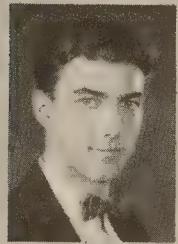

BASIL, LEON B.

Baul

207 Grand Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Baul" certainly deserves a good hand for overcoming obstacles that were obstructing his path to a "sheepskin."

BAUMANN, GEORGE H.

Chubby

Waldwick, N. J.

Class Treasurer, 1929.

"Chubby," we understand, is on the way to be a big Erie Railroad man from L. I. His exploits in design tell us that he is a born interlocutor.

775 Bergen St., Newark, N. J.

A nice, quiet, hardworking chap, who is always very attentive in classes and does his work well.

BELANGER, HOMER A.

Homer

25 Mountain St., Hartford, Conn.

Not bad at all this lad "Homer." If his Greek namesake was anything like him, we wouldn't mind reading the original Iliad. He's there all right.

BRAY, HENRY J.

Hen

185 Naugatuck Ave., Milford, Conn.

Class Swimming, 1929-30.

Much has not been heard or said about "Hen" for he is a quiet chap going around minding his own business, and wishing harm to no man.

Class Soccer, 1929-30; Class Basketball, 1929-30; Class Baseball, 1929-30; Class Swimming, 1929-30; Class Bowling, 1930.

"Bill" is often seen hurrying to class about 9:05 A. M. He says it's because he shaves every morning. "Bill" is one of the musketeers.

BUNKER, RALPH G.

Ralph

75 Nelson Ave., Waterbury, Conn.

"Ralph" is a hard worker who will go far in this world. With that personality, no wonder they all like him.

Class Soccer, 1929-30; Swimming, 1929-30; Captain, 1929-30; Class Baseball, 1929-30; Class Basketball, 1930.

The proud owner of a "trick" knee. However, "Bill" likes to trod the polished floor, and how! Knows his "heat" and has plenty of B. T. U.'s to spare. The other musketeer.

CARSERINO, NICHOLAS A.

Nick

28 Wilson St., Waterbury, Conn.

Class Fencing, 1929; Class Soccer, 1929-30.

"Nick" is O. K., his one error being his attempt to sprout a mustache against the deadly opposition of the Mechanicals. However, he only tried once.

CHANDLER, JAMES E.

CRAMOND, ROBERT B.

Bob

Harriman, N. Y.

Fencing, 1929; Class Soccer, 1930; Class Secretary, 1930; Vice-chairman, P. I. Branch, A. I. E. E., 1930.

A very modest fellow from the back woods of Harriman. We forgive him, though, for he has won himself a place in the hearts of his classmates.

CURTISS, LAWRENCE M.

Larry

232 Duane St., Syracuse, N. Y.

Fencing, 1929; Class Soccer, 1929-30; Class Basketball Manager, 1929-30; Class Baseball Manager, 1929; Class Vice-president, 1930.

"Larry," our family man—he's working hard now and staying in to get in practice—sort of. Well, well, see you again, "Larry."

DOMBI, JOHN

Jack

73 Jennings Rd., Bridgeport, Conn.

Genial "Jack." Always a smile when the work is hard. Keep that smile, "Jack," it will never fail you.

DONAHUE, THOMAS J.

Tom

Cold Spring Harbor, L. I., N. Y.

Class Baseball, 1929-30.

"Tom" is right there when it comes to covering the initial sack in baseball. Throws a good ball and a mean line. Good old "Tom."

ELLETT, ROBERT T.

Bob

Christiansburg, Va.

Yes suh! With his southern drawl, "Bob" will never be forgotten by those who know him. We admit that we kidded him, and couldn't help smiling, but "Bob's" the kind who can take a joke.

Bill

91-11 - 218th St., Queens Village, L. I., N. Y.

Boxing, 1929; Class Pool, 1929; Class Soccer, 1930.

"Bill" was the cause of plenty of excitement when the "Boiler-makers" noticed his derby and misplaced eyebrow.

HENCIR, JOSEPH W.

Joe

Madison, Conn.

Another "Connecticut Yankee," and one whom we are proud to call our friend. Here's looking at you, "Joe."

HENTER, THEODORE C.

Teddy

Gatun, Canal Zone.

Boxing, 1929; Class Swimming, 1929-30.

"Teddy" appears outwardly to be a very quiet chap, but underneath all his seriousness he is full of fun.

HIRMKE, ALBERT W.

Al

647 Barnum Ave., Bridgeport, Conn.

"Al" is in a class all by himself when it comes to doping out difficult problems in "Juice." Always willing to give a helping hand to the needy.

HOGAN, JAMES F.

Jim

Kings Park, L. I., N. Y.

"Jim" is the sort of fellow to likes to mix work and play a bit. He keeps rather quiet during classes, though.

PRATTONIA 1930

HOLZSCHUH, WM. C.

Marcus, Iowa.

The boy who is putting Iowa on the map. "Bill" has always been a conscientious worker and we know he will succeed.

Bill

HUBBARD, WALTER N.

Walt

354 Wall St., Meriden, Conn.

"Walt" usually wakes up in time, in Machine Shop Quiz, to have an interesting debate with Mr. Burley, much to the delight of the class.

HUMESTON, FRED H.

Fred

75 Willis St., New Haven, Conn.

Fencing, 1929-30.

"Still waters run deep," they say. Surely there are few of us who could want a more deeply running river of friendship than "Fred" offers.

GAVITT, HAROLD T.

Harry

221 East Main St., Mt. Kisco, N. Y.

With his keen nose for scenting faults in "Math" and "Juice" problems, we predict that "Harry" will be one of the country's foremost investigators after (x-y) years.

GLASSCOCK, GLEN R.

Glen

Parker, Colo.

Class Vice-president, 1929; Class Bowling, 1929-30; Assistant Editor, Echo, 1929; Editor, Echo, 1930; Chairman, P. I. Branch, A. I. E. E., 1930; Business Manager, Prattonia, 1930.

Always in a hurry. "Glen" is the most active member of our class and has done a great deal to "put-over" the Echo and A. I. E. E. meetings.

FRATERNITY

GOLDING, WALTER E., Jr.

Walt

Quoque, L. I., N. Y.

Class Baseball, 1929-30.

"Walt" is a man of few words, his favorite being, "I don't know." He has been trying to raise something that resembles "sideboards." Hope you succeed.

GOODMAN, BERKELEY I.

Berk

Westhampton, L. I., N. Y.

"Berk" is one of our most brilliant students, and commands the respect of his classmates as well as the teachers.

HANLEY, CHARLES

Han

Naugatuck, Conn.

Class Basketball, 1929-30; Varsity Baseball, 1929-30.

"Han" is one of these inscrutable persons who say little and do much. As a silent and steady worker, there is much to be said for him.

JOHNSON, REYNOLD

Rey

87 N. Fullerton Ave., Montclair, N. J.

A quiet sort of fellow and a friend to all. Has some sort of attraction in Montclair each night. Give her our regards, "Rey."

JOHNSON, ROBERT M.

Bob

70 Cleveland Ave., Binghamton, N. Y.

Varsity Tennis, 1929-30; Fencing, 1929; Class Soccer Manager, 1930.

A nonchalant fellow (does not smoke Murads) well liked by all and from rumors heard around the school, a coming threat to "Bill" Tilden.

KAUFFMAN, LLOYD S., Jr.

Ted

24 Fuller Pl., Brooklyn, N. Y.

As quiet as a mouse. You never realize "Ted" is around, yet his quiet disposition has made him many friends.

KING, CHARLES N.

Pal

20 Polhemus Pl., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Basketball, 1929-30.

Headline—"Brilliant Satirist Returns From Africa." Reports having shot several "Subtle Dubscripts" while in Jungle. Keep it up, "Pal."

KRISTIANSEN, ARTHUR T.

Kris

746 - 43rd St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Kris" is a good scout. When we have any radio and high frequency problems in the future, we'll call him in and he'll be as glad to help then as he is now.

LANDRY, STANLEY A.

Stan

Iron Springs, Alberta, Canada.

For clear thinking and straight acting, we have to hand it to "Stan." He surely can grasp ideas and hold them, even if he did come from the frozen north.

LAWATSCH, HENRY H.

Hank

109 E. Chester St., Kingston, N. Y.

Class Swimming, 1929; Glee Club, 1929-30.

Great lad, this. He's the cause of a good portion of the diversion from what the instructors have to say. Not a nitwit or a notwit, but a real wit.

OPERATIONA 1930

LAWSON, BIRDSALL P.

Bert

49 Elberon Place, Albany, N. Y.

"A great heart behind a great mind." "Bert" outshines them in all subjects and a better friend no man could have. Best of luck to you, "Bert."

LEMBERG, FRIEDRICH

Lem

Lauban, Germany.

Some day there will echo from coast to coast the sound of a great controversy. We will know that good old "Lem" is the cause of it all. And the strange part of it is, he's generally right.

MacDONNELL, SAM I.

Mac

55 Lydecker St., Nyack, N. Y.

Class Baseball, 1929-30.

We wonder where "Mac" gets the heavy drag that lets him in any time after nine o'clock. His fine sense of humor, however, is probably responsible for Mr. Cook's cheery morning smile.

MALMQUIST, CARL L.

Scotty

87 Seabright Ave., Bridgeport, Conn.

Class Soccer, 1929-30; Captain, 1930; Class Baseball, 1929-30; A. A. Council, 1930.

A stocky lad with a keen sense of humor. The "Mammy" and "Sonny Boy" daily episodes are a delight to the class. Incidentally quite an athlete.

McGOVERN, EDWARD H.

Ed

371 N. Main St., Union City, Conn.

Class Basketball, 1930; Class Baseball, 1930.

"Ed" is another vast multitude of "Connecticut Yankees." We haven't noticed a downhearted expression on "Ed's" face since we've known him.

1930

McLAUGHLIN, ROBERT B.

Mac

11 Hunter St., Glens Falls, N. Y.

We often wonder if it's the poetical two-thirds of his name that attracts the weaker sex. "Mac" is right there with his hook-ups in the lab, though.

MENDEZ, DOMINGO P.

Chico

96 Columbia Hts., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Soccer, 1929-30.

An epic of determination is the story of his work at Pratt. Who worked while others slept?—"Chico." Hasta otra vez, amigo.

MITCHELL, WM. J.

Bill

76 South St., Elmwood, Conn.

Class Soccer, 1929-30; Class Baseball, 1929-30; Class Basketball, 1929-30; Class Swimming Manager, 1929; Prattonia Representative, 1929-30.

"A good pal," they say. "Bill" was never seen to be in a hurry. Yet in spite of his slow, methodical motions he has made many friends here at school.

MUNRO, GEORGE M.

George

Kings Park, L. I., N. Y.

"George" is one of those quiet, unassuming chaps who goes about his own business without troubling others. That is a big asset in this world.

NICHOLSON, CONSTANTIN J.

Nick

1865 W. 11th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Nick" with his "ha, ha, ha!" and tap dancing would bring the house down a brick at a time. Incidentally he is a student of philosophy.

GRADUATION
1930

PARISH, WESLEY G.

Wes

Lake Katrine, N. Y.

Boxing, 1929; Glee Club, 1930.

"Wes" ought to be called the "Owl." He is already wise, but seeks more learning in the wee small hours. For a good combination of headwork and perseverance, "Wes" can't be beat.

POPOFF, VLADIMIR G.

Popoff

376 Warwick St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Popoff" has travelled through many strange places. When he tells tales of Russia and Africa, the stories are always told with laughing eyes and low chuckles, that say much between the lines.

QUILL, JOHN J.

Jack

58 Wildwood Ave., Waterbury, Conn.

Junior Varsity Basketball, 1929; Class Basketball, 1930; Captain, 1930.

This is a case where a jackquill is not a flower. "Jack," with his ready smile and likeable ways will soon get ahead of the rest of us.

RAE, NEVILLE O.

Rae

83 St. James Pl., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Soccer, 1929.

"Rae," with his deep desire to find out the "why" and "how" of all subjects, should make a name for himself in the electrical field in the years to come.

RAYNOR, WALTER R.

Walt

Westhampton Beach, L. I., N. Y.

A. A. Representative, 1929-30; Junior Varsity Basketball, 1929; Class Basketball, 1930.

A willing worker always ready to lend a hand. What more could be asked of a friend? If he continues the way he has begun, there is nothing more assured than his success.

FRATTONIA 1930

REDER, ROBERT A.

Bob

358 Willow St., Waterbury, Conn.

A genius in the art of electrical engineering. By the way, his hobby is the reconstruction of discarded voltmeters.

ROCHON, CYRIL G.

Rochon

425 Willow St., Waterbury, Conn.

You may put him down, but you can't put him out. For stick-to-it-iveness, "Rochon" surely delivers the goods.

SCAVRON, GEORGE J.

Scavvy

700 Emory St., Asbury Park, N. J.

"Scavvy" is quite a radio bug, the proud owner and operator of an amateur transmitting station. Anyone wishing to get in touch with him via air way, call "W2ASZ" on 40 meters.

SCHWOLOW, STANLEY E.

Stan

31 Linden St., New Haven, Conn.

Class Baseball, 1929-30; Class Bowling, 1929-30; Manager, 1929; Class Pool, 1929.

"Stan" has "sax" appeal, and how. Can usually be found where the feminine sex are present. Spends his spare time on St. James or Washington Avenue.

SEABERG, ARTHUR L.

Art

24 Stannard Ave., Branford, Conn.

Class Soccer, 1930.

"Art" has been very quiet these past two years, but silence is golden. So when a student is quiet, one would guess that he is reaping golden harvests of knowledge.

YATTONIA

SENK, JOHN J.

Zinc

51 Lake Pl., New Haven, Conn.

Class Baseball, 1929-30; Class Basketball, 1929.

"Zinc's" witticisms and good nature will long be remembered by all of us. His weakness is the reviewing of Burlesque shows from the box seats.

SHERMAN, RALPH W.

Ralph

23 Streit Ave., Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

"Ralph" hails from up the river a piece. We see him daily, but never hear him unless there's something that needs saying.

SHNAERO, HARRY L.

Ikey

31 Abbott Ave., Waterbury, Conn.

Class Bowling, 1929; Boxing, 1929; Glee Club, 1930.

The big noise from Waterbury. One must carry a pair of smoked glasses now-a-days to protect his vision against the red ties sported by "Ikey."

SHOBER, WILBUR M.

Doc

1370 E. 92nd St., Cleveland, Ohio.

One of our most diligent and persistent students. "Doc" will always be remembered for his breath-taking stories. Good luck to you, "Doc."

SNYDER, LEON

Lee

40 Hudson Ave., Glens Falls, N. Y.

Class Soccer, 1929; Class Bowling, 1929; Boxing, 1929.

"Lee" is always seeking the cause and effect of the action. He is a great admirer of Edison, and we hope that he will follow in his footsteps.

SPINDLER, CHARLES F.

Slim

71 Murray St., Binghamton, N. Y.

Class Swimming, 1929-30; Class Bowling and Pool Manager, 1930.

"Slim," our ever present aid when there are terpsichorean problems on hand. Who put our dances over? Why, "Slim," of course.

SPINNEY, VERNON L.

Spin

26 Fourth St., Berlin, N. H.

Boxing, 1929-30.

The cut up of the class, one who never seems to rest. You can hear "Spin" coming before you can spy him with a pair of field glasses.

STANGER, KENNETH H.

Ken

2348 Ivanhoe St., Denver, Colo.

Secretary, P. I. Branch, A. I. E. E., 1930.

Has a diligence and perseverance in his pursuit of extreme exactness, to the extent of the nth number of decimals in his results, much to the aggravation of the gang at "236."

STENSTROM, ALFRED T.

Al

25 Mackay Pl., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Fencing, 1929.

During our two years stay at Pratt we could never find out what the attraction is that keeps "Al" from school so often. Let us in on the secret, "Al."

TERWILLIGER, CLINTON L.

Twig

52 Broad St., Middletown, N. Y.

"Twig" is a man from the wide open spaces or places. Judging by his record, there must be plenty of attraction out in those spaces. Eh, "Twig"?

TRIPP, HOWARD B.

Wilmington, Vt.

Class Baseball, 1929-30.

Can always be seen with his camera. Also owns a Ford, but even a Ford cannot travel the roads of Maine—eh, "Trippy."

UMLAUF, ALFRED

Al

540 N. Grove St., East Orange, N. J.

Slow in words and action, never the less "Al" is alert when it comes to figuring out any difficult problems, especially when it's design.

WALKER, HARRIS H.

Walk

Marcellus, N. Y.

A man who pursues his studies with care and diligence. If "Walk" continues his work in the world as he has done here he cannot help but succeed.

WEINER, IRVING

Irv.

182 Orange Ave., West Haven, Conn.

Class Bowling, 1929-30.

A real hard worker is our friend "Irv" and not afraid of the dirty work, either. He sticks to it till it is done and done well.

WELCHANS, CHARLES A.

Charlie

Lancaster, Pa.

Out from the wilds of Pa. came a small chap who attracted the attention of other fellow students by his pleasing personality. Later he proved to be quite a "whiz" in his studies also.

FRATTONIA 1930

WILSON, DONALD B.

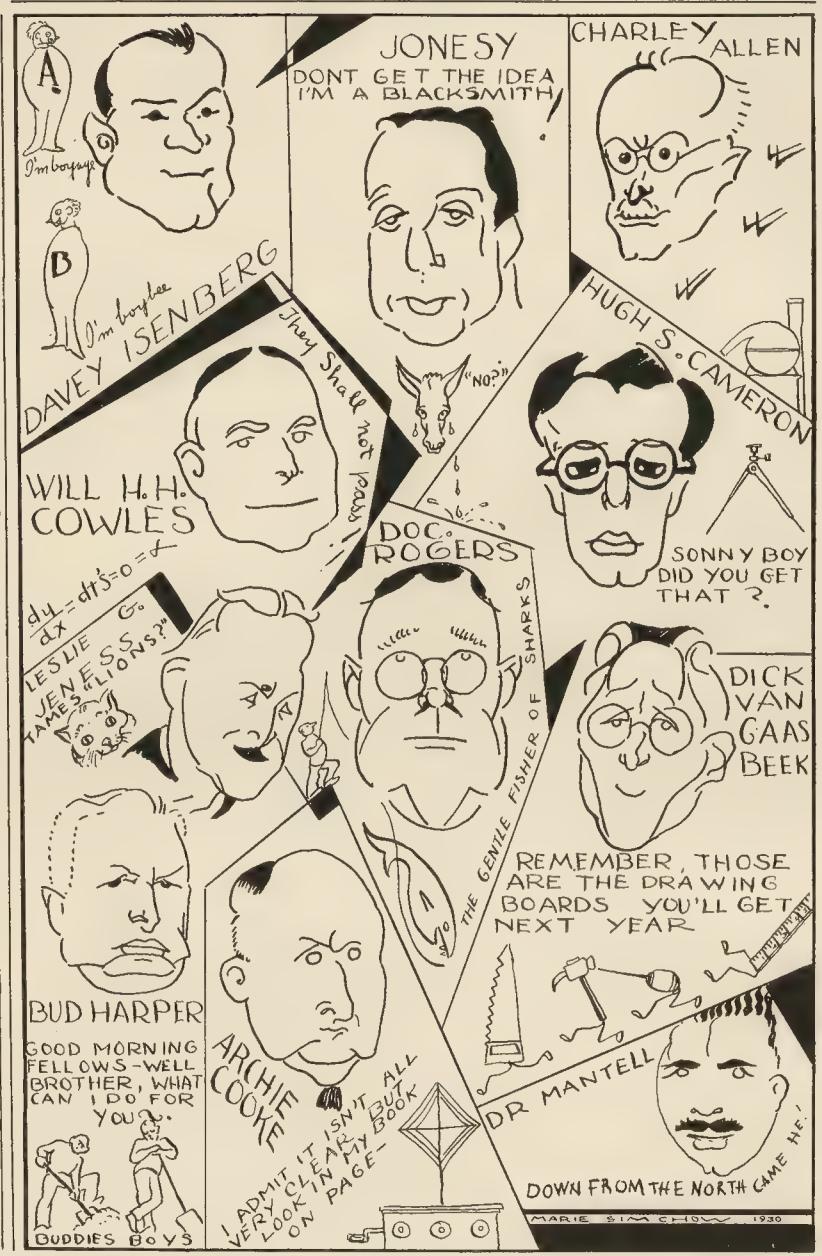

Deacon

211 W. 107th St., New York, N.Y.

Fencing, 1929-30.

The "shining light" in analytical geometry. With his quiet and sophisticated air he is bound to be a success in the years to come.

INDUSTRIAL ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING, 1931

SEPTEMBER twenty-fifth saw ninety-odd men from all parts of the Western Hemisphere gather at Pratt Institute to venture deeper into the mysteries of science, whereby mankind hopes to be benefitted. We soon ran up against many obstacles, but with the help of our ever-willing instructors and the burning of much midnight electricity some of these obstacles were easily overcome, others not so easily, and others,—oh well, you know the old story.

With some expert manipulation of our time a number of us found relaxation in soccer from our persistent studies. The team did not fare so well as not one of the members had ever played the game before, and because there were only three practice sessions. Next year we hope to do better as there is some good material on the team.

Next in the line of sports came basketball. We soon had enough candidates to make up a team and before we knew it we had defeated both the Architects and the First Year Mechanicals. The Second Year Mechanicals were fated to be our next victims.

We also had a Bowling Team which was not so very successful this year, but why bore you with unnecessary explanations.

One of the members of our class organized a Dancing Club, which has been of great advantage to all of the schools. The observers at some of the dances have noticed that the participants are beginning to dance on their own feet.

This year the American Institute of Electrical Engineers has recognized the Pratt Institute Electrical Course and has given us the opportunity to join. Many of the First Year men have taken advantage of this golden opportunity and enrolled.

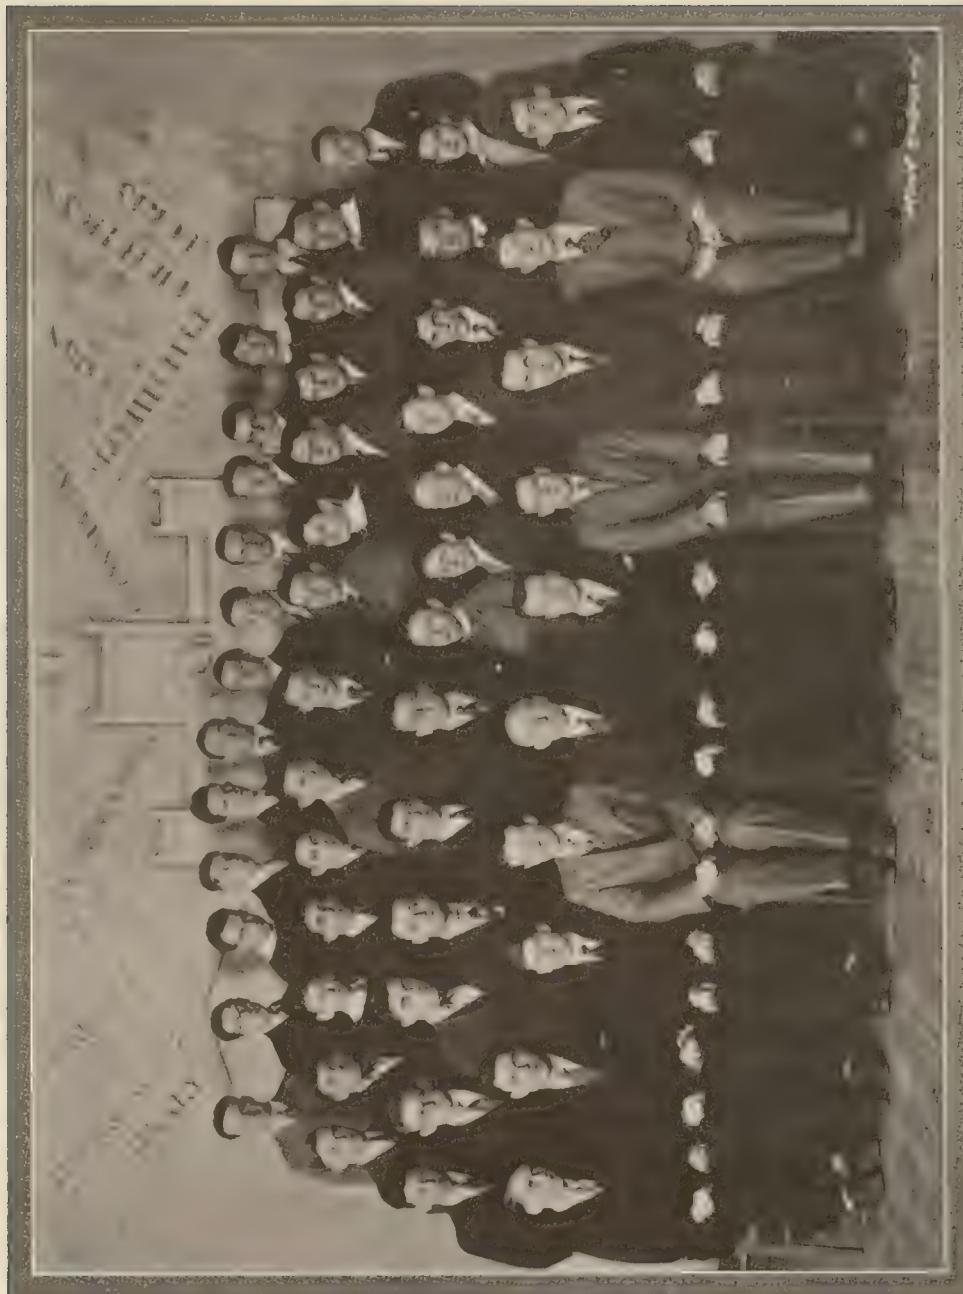

The 1931 Electrical Class has been recognized as one of the greatest classes in the history of Pratt. With this in mind, it is our intention to keep up the standard that so many classes in the past have set and strive to achieve the El Dorado that has never yet been surpassed.

IRRATIONALIA 1930

PRATT ONDA 1930

INDUSTRIAL MECHANICAL ENGINEERING, 1930

THE old fellow with the scythe and whiskers has drawn his line through two more years since we gathered here at Pratt, to learn the intricacies of Mechanical Engineering.

At first we were dazed with the speed at which we were put to work and still more so as the instructors doled out the daily portions of brain food in the form of math. assignments, mechanics and the rest.

Spare time we had memories of; but a show or dance on Friday night became a luxury while a weekend trip home was usually followed by repentance. The demon experiment shadowed us always and grinned as the end of the term approached.

Then came the end of the first year and with it much needed rest. Yet, when the time to return arrived the familiar sights and faces were not hard to look upon.

The new Mechanical class was welcomed and we smiled as they buckled down to work as good Mechanicals should. But the smile became a sickly grin as Calculus, A. C., and other things, of which a nightmare is composed, approached by increments, to do their best to down us.

However, with these obstacles came the enjoyment of soccer games, basketball and the dances which follow. While on the subject of sports, our teams did their best, which was nothing to be ashamed of, especially with the limited time for practice.

As for the dances, well, it's surprising what a little soap and water will do to the grime of machine shop, and the fair sex did not seem to object very strongly to the resulting product.

Yes, two years have passed and as the books are packed and banners taken down we think of the times we have had together, work plenty, but not unmixed with fun. Reckon we'll miss those days of burning gears, the smell of hot oil and steam—and who's to say, "Theorem 26" or "morning, fellows"?

Enough of this, we can at least have those memories with us, and like as not we'll see the fellow who assigned us Theorem 26 and do our best with him to make the wheels go 'round.

ANDERSON, JOHN C.

Andy

114 Russel St., Warren, Pa.

Manager, Class Soccer, 1929.

The "heart-breaker" of the class, and how! Pennsylvania's gift to "Pratt," or perhaps we should say, loan. Dig 'em deep and dig 'em wide, "Andy."

BADE, WALTER

Walt

807 E. 156th St., New York, N. Y.

Class President, 1929; Vice-president, Student Council, 1929; Class Basketball, 1929-30; Class Baseball, 1929-30; Class Soccer, 1929-30; Glee Club, 1929-30; President, Student Council, 1930.

"Walt's" smile and pleasing personality add much to his ability of leadership. "Walt" knows all about the ups and downs of transportation and when better elevators are built he will build them.

BOSLAND, HENRY M.

Henry

145 N. 1st St., Paterson, N. J.

Class Swimming, 1929-30.

Here is a man who has never fallen down on the job. You can bet that anything he attempts is finished and done thoroughly. He has one weakness and it is red-headed! "Good-bye, Henry!"

BRAYTON, ELLERY M.

El

39 Grant St., New Haven, Conn.

Here is one of the hardest workers in the class, both in school and out. "El" is well liked and makes very little noise.

BUTERA, CHARLES N.

Charlie

7 Ann St., Morristown, N. J.

Class Soccer, 1929.

Here's to "Charlie," commuter from Jersey, whose motto is—"Better late than never." He is always ready to lend a helping hand.

CALAMARAS, GEORGE A.

Cal

211 E. 14th St., New York, N. Y.

Class Basketball, 1929-30; Class Baseball, 1930.

A regular New Yorker whose witty remarks helped us to endure the long hours of Machine Design. Well, here's to success, "Cal."

CAREY, RICHARD J.

Dick

2221 Turner Ave., Schenectady, N. Y.

Class Baseball, 1929.

A bundle of energy with creative and consistent results, the issue of untiring labors. Good luck, "Dick."

CARLSON, BENJAMIN F.

Bunny

173 Mechanic St., Forestville, Conn.

Manager, Class Basketball, 1930.

"Bunny" is our bashful little boy from Connecticut. What makes your face so red, Bunny? It isn't so hot here. You're O. K. with us and we wish you success.

CARTER, HOWARD S.

Howard

"Hillcrest," Orange, Conn.

The big "nail-clipper" man from Connecticut. Howard is a hard worker and will surely make his mark.

CHASE, CARL W.

Carl

53 Academy St., Amsterdam, N. Y.

Bowling, 1929-30.

How can you say anything about one who makes so little noise? Still waters run deep, they say, so we're sure you'll make the grade, Carl.

50 Lincoln Ave., Glens Falls, N. Y.

Captain, Class Basketball, 1929-30; Class Baseball, 1929-30; Secretary-Treasurer, Student Branch, A. S. M. E., 1930.

A likeable chap, whose quick smile and ready wit help to make a fellow forget the thorns around the roses of success. Remember Alumni night, "Ed"?

DUNTZE, JOHN A.

Jack

Ocean Beach, N. Y.

Prattonia Representative, 1930.

Our own 3 in 1. A composite picture of the "Virginia Judge," the "Specialist" and one of the two dark corn-pulling birds. Probably the best character actor in the school.

EDWARDS, WILLIAM C.

Clark

Northville, N. Y.

Class Baseball, 1929-30; Athletic Council, 1930.

Not so big and not much noise, but can that boy play baseball! Atta boy, "Clark," hit 'em hard.

ELMENDORF, WENDELL

Wen

2773 Campbell Ave., Schenectady, N. Y.

Class Soccer, 1929-30; Class Bowling, 1929-30; Class Basketball, 1929-30; Varsity Baseball, 1929; Athletic Council, 1929-30; Student Council, 1930.

"Wen" is one of the few upon whom Lady Luck has bestowed one of her coveted smiles. This, combined with a pleasing personality and good sportsmanship, has made him one of the most popular members of the class.

ERTEL, HARRY C.

Harry

RD No. 2, Box 170, Jersey Shore, Pa.

Fencing, 1929; Assistant Manager, Varsity Baseball, 1929; Inter-class Baseball Manager, 1930.

"Harry" used to help make the wheels go 'round on the New York Central. We don't hear much from this boy, but it isn't the whistle that pulls the train.

FOLOKY, NICHOLAS

R. F. D. No. 1, Roslyn, L. I.

Captain, Class Soccer, 1929-30; Manager, Class Basketball, 1929; Class Baseball, 1929; Prattonia Representative, 1929; Assistant Literary Editor, Prattonia, 1929; Circulation Manager, Prattonia, 1930.

"Nick" possesses that rare combination of accomplishing prominence in activities as well as consistently being an "A" student. We are sure that with this combination a successful engineering career is assured.

206 E. 3rd Ave., Altoona, Pa.

Class Soccer, 1930.

"So I sez to Harper, 'Bud,' I sez, 'Don't let me see any more problems like that!'" Then the alarm went off. "Ed" worked overtime Alumni night, too, but ran faster than some of us. Good luck, "Ed."

FULLER, ELBRIDGE W.

El

8425 - 88th St., Woodhaven, N. Y.

Varsity Baseball, 1929-30; Varsity Basketball, 1929-30; Class Soccer; 1930.

A man with a heart as big as himself, whose long arms have proven a barricade to many a basketball. We wish you the best of luck, "El."

GAY, BERT

Bert

18 Barker St., Hartford, Conn.

Class Soccer, 1929-30.

Our refrigeration expert knows more about refrigeration than a cold storage egg. Also shakes a wicked foot on the soccer field.

GRAY, JAMES W.

Jimmie

2433 Campbell Ave., Schenectady, N. Y.

Editor-in-Chief, Prattonia, 1930; Class Soccer, 1929-30; Class Baseball, 1929-30.

"Jimmie" is a quiet sort of fellow and we just naturally like him. A sincere worker—we expect big things of "Jim." I wonder if the mailman has been around yet.

1930

GREEN, VLADIMIR C.

Green

315 E. 10th St., New York, N. Y.

"Green" has seen quite a bit of this world and can while away many an hour with exciting tales of places far away. More than one of us would have been in a bad way in math. without his helping hand to guide us.

GRIFFIN, WICKHAM

Griff

401 Fulton St., Westbury, L. I., N. Y.

Associate Editor, Prattonia, 1930.

Our future marine engineer. Well, "Griff," if you know marine engines like you know math., the shipping firms will sure get a break. By the way, where were "you" Alumni night?

GURSKE, HUBERT J.

Herb

23 South St., Bristol, Conn.

Class Baseball, 1929-30; Class Soccer, 1929-30.

A Connecticut Yankee who sure knows his mechanics. By the way, "Herb," what is the last thing a fellow does before he dies?

HAGUE, ALBERT V.

Al

9 Bosville Rd., Sheffield, England.

Class Soccer, 1930.

An electrical engineer who discovered his mistake during the first year. What would the soccer team have done without our peppy little Englishman?

HAMILTON, HERSCHEL W.

Ham

847 Fifth Ave., A. E., Owen Sound, Ontario, Canada.

Class Soccer, 1929-30; Glee Club, 1929-30; Manager, Class Swimming, 1930.

"Ham" comes from the place where snow is snow, and the thermometer sometimes gets as high as zero. Anyhow, the girls are nice up there. Did she write, "Ham"?

HAWKINS, BENJAMIN F.

Ben

239 N. McNeil St., Memphis, Tenn.

Class Soccer, 1929-30; Class Baseball, 1929-30; Captain, 1929; Manager, Class Bowling, 1930; Interclass Bowling Manager, 1930.

A chap from the "Sunny South," with a disposition to match. His favorite fruit is licorice and pretzels. Remember the Hawkins' Law?

HODGSON, FRANCIS S.

Frank

10 Kenwood St., Verona, N. J.

Generally known as "One Book Hodgson." Famous for coming to class at 9:15 or thereabouts. Anyway, one book or none, he knows his stuff and is sure to make good.

HOFFMAN, FRANCIS L.

Shylock

349 Maple St., Jersey Shore, Pa.

Assistant Basketball Manager, 1929; Junior Varsity Basketball Manager, 1930; Interclass Basketball Manager, 1930.

Custodian of the gym store. "Shylock" may not be able to get blood out of a stone but can get it out of a Pratt student if he doesn't pay his bills.

HORN, WILLIAM F.

Sailor

4 Terry Court, Patchogue, L. I., N. Y.

Class Swimming, 1929-30; Vice-chairman, Student Branch, A. S. M. E., 1930; Champion Whistler of the Mechanicals.

Horn can do more with a slide rule than the fellow who invented it. If intelligence means anything, he'll find room at the top.

HUGHES, WILLARD J.

Willie

1417 Washburn St., Scranton, Pa.

Boxing, 1929-30.

"Willie" worked at the Ryerson and took an I. C. S. course in slinging hash. The last three lessons got lost in the mail. We wish you luck, "Willie."

1930

HUNNS, JOHN W.

Johnny

Middletown, Conn.

Class Baseball, 1929-30; Class Soccer, 1930.

Another chap who spent the night at the Hotel de Korum down on Classon Avenue. John started life on a motorcycle instead of a kiddie car.

JESSUP, ALLEN S.

Jess

105 S. Main St., Spring Valley, N. Y.

Assistant Manager, Varsity Basketball, 1929; Manager, Class Baseball, 1929; Literary Editor, Prattonia, 1930.

Introducing our young boilermaker from the New York woods. The only thing "Jess" can't do is drive a car. He has a weakness for "L" pillars and folding up his ears before retiring at night.

JOHNSON, BURFORD L.

B. L.

2340 N. W. 54th Ter., Miami, Fla.

Chairman, Student Branch, A. S. M. E., 1930.

Efficient pilot of the good ship "A. S. M. E." Has a way about him which causes each feminine heart to flutter wildly. Just like all Floridians, he maintains that the other states can't compare with the old Spanish territory.

JOHNSON, CHARLES H.

Charlie

117 Magnolia Ave., Floral Park, N. Y.

Another wizard of mathematics, usually one jump ahead of the instructor. However, his head is swelled with brains only, and he's liked by all.

KELLERT, RICHARD M.

Dick

245 Walnut St., Waterbury, Conn.

Class Treasurer, 1929-30; Class Basketball, 1929; Class Bowling, 1929-30; Class Pool, 1929.

One of the big men of the class. Well, it takes a big man to extract those dues from the squirming victims. "Yes, a lot of other good bowlers, including Jimmy Smith, comes from Connecticut." "Betcha dough, I'm right!"

KELLOGG, ARTHUR R.

Art

541 Riverside Ave., Westport, Conn.

Auburn may mean a prison to some folks but to "Art" it means the best car in the world. Had to leave last spring but came back for more in the fall. All of which proves a boilermaker never knows when he's licked.

KLEINERT, STUART C.

Stu

76 E. Main St., Waterbury, Conn.

Varsity Baseball, 1929; Class Baseball, 1929-30; Manager, Class Pool, 1929.

Ought to make a good farmer as he has had a lot of practical experience in looking after the stock. "Good-night, boys, I gotta get home; the Mrs. will be looking for me."

KOHLBRENNER, MAX W.

Max

76 Volta St., Basel, Switzerland.

Chess and Checker Manager, 1929-30.

Our representative from the land of the yodel and the cheese; not a member of the well-known navy. "Max" says the girls over there are nice, but one of those in Waterbury has 'em all beat.

LEHNER, JOHN B.

John

69 Fourth Ave., Mineola, N. Y.

John can take a great deal of kidding and come up with a smile every time. His disposition gets him a great way as he goes about his business with as little racket as possible. "Meet Mr. Lehner."

LINDER, GEORGE W.

George

14 Mills St., Bristol, Conn.

Class President, 1930; Student Council, 1930; Bowling Manager, 1929.

If you ask "George," the world rolls on "New Departures." Director of the destinies of the "Boiler-wreckers." And it's no soft job. He has a way and a will of his own.

GRADUATION
1930

LOMBARDI, WILLIAM A.

Billy

Sentinel Hill, Derby, Conn.

Chairman, Dance Committee, 1929.

Derby lost a valuable man when "Billy" hung up his pitchfork and came down to Pratt. He is quite an ambitious worker and seldom finds time for pleasures except for the week-ends he spends in New Haven.

MARBLE, WILLIAM T.

Bill

Ridlonville, Maine

Assistant Manager Varsity Baseball, 1930; Manager Class Baseball, 1930.

The mainstay of Squad E's delvings in the mysteries of steam engines and turbines. "Bill" is right there in Mech. Lab. "Well, fellows, I haven't missed one like this in the last five years."

MARTIN, ROY J.

Roy

142 Parmelee Place, Elizabeth, N. J.

Manager Class Pool, 1930.

"Roy" is one of our younger members and just full of the Old Dickens! We often wonder just how he keeps out of trouble. His influence over a piano is envied by many.

McCABE, CHARLES P.

Mac

924 Bradt Street, Schenectady, N. Y.

Class Secretary, 1929-30; Class Soccer, 1929; Class Baseball, 1929-30; Class Bowling, 1929-30; Assistant Business Manager Prattonia, 1930.

Add perseverance and logic to a congenial disposition and you have a good description of "Mac." On top of this he has a generous heart and we will always remember him for kind acts, too numerous to mention.

MCLEOD, FRANCIS D.

Mac

1072 Van Antwerp Road, Schenectady, N. Y.

"Mac" doesn't make much noise but he gets there regardless. He is, no doubt, destined to be a shining light in the G. E. Frequently seen at the ball games, but not alone.

1930

MODIG, RICHARD A.

Dick

138 Oak Grove Ave., Springfield, Mass.

Class Soccer, 1929-30; Assistant Manager Varsity Baseball, 1929; Manager Varsity Baseball, 1930.

This young lad is one of New England's best offerings to our class. "Dick" is rather quiet and good natured and knows more than anyone thinks. His latest accomplishment is the light fantastic.

MONTAMAT, RAYMOND A.

Ray

711 Highland Ave., Westfield, N. J.

Boxing, 1929-30.

"Ray" is big, good natured, and knows more women than any other member of the class. He's on the boxing team and uses these tactics in the operation of motor vehicles.

MYERS, JAMES L.

Jim

119 W. Milton Ave., Rahway, N. J.

Class Swimming, 1929-30.

Ach! So here's my Myers. This boy has the Hebrew dialect down better than the Hebrews. So you're going to be an insulting engineer? Well, so long and good luck.

NICOTRA, A. PHILIP

Nick

1759 W. 9th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Dance Committee, 1929.

One of the season's best numbers! "Nick's" good nature is envied by many and his smooth appearance by still more. He rates high in his studies and his progress is assured.

OFFEN, LAURANCE C.

Bill

Stamford Ave., New Canaan, Conn.

Bill has the faculty of doing his home work successfully on the train . . . a man to be admired! He is a hard worker and liked by all.

OPERATION N.Y. 1930

OURMANCHEEF, H. K.

Tambov, Russia.

The vile odors of chemicana became too strong so he became a boilermaker. A wise change, ask him! Hails from the wilds of Russia where men are men.

PANANOS, JAMES D.

Jim

289 Front St., Hempstead, N. Y.

"Yes, we have no Pananos!" Another commuter who daily braves the dangers of the L. I. R. R. for his education. "Jim" is a good, little worker.

PEASE, FREDERICK A.

Buggy

22 North Ter., Maplewood, N. J.

Manager, Class Bowling, 1929; Class Basketball, 1930; Class Bowling, 1929-30.

When "Buggy" lets one go down the alley Major Seagrave's "Golden Arrow" looks like the well known "molasses in January." Living proof that human beings still exist in New Jersey. "Let's have the old Maplewood."

PERKINS, FRED E.

Perk

71 Wilson Ave., Rutherford, N. J.

The Atlas of the construction squad. "Perk" is the class sailor-man. "Oh, yes, I recall the time when me and Columbus made our first voyage!" If ambition and ability were measured in degrees "Perk" would register 212F.

POLLACI, NORMAN

Norm

10719 - 107th St., Richmond Hill, L. I., N. Y.

Class Baseball, 1929-30.

Judging from the class room "Norm" stays awake nights thinking up questions to ask in class. Hit 'em hard, "Norm," like you did the old ball bats.

POWELL, FREDERICK V.

Vin

Powell Court, Norwalk, Conn.

One of our commuters; comes in from Connecticut every day. "Vin" is a quiet, unassuming fellow and is well liked around Pratt. Knows his engineering and should go far in the field he chooses.

RAMM, ARTHUR H.

Art

111 Cherry St., New Britain, Conn.

A boilermaker whose avowed purpose is to clear up the illumination question. They say the sea makes a man restless. What say you, "Art"?

RANDALL, WALTER C.

Doc

52 Wait Ave., Salamanca, N. Y.

Class Pool, 1929; Boxing, 1929-30.

A two gun, square shooter from up-state. "Doc's" quiet way and personality are bound to get him there. Well, here's looking at you, "Doc"!

REGELE, CHARLES A.

Charlie

23 Monroe St., Rahway, N. J.

"Charlie" is one of the most prominent commuters from Jersey. His able command of the king's English and ever ready sense of humor have brightened some of our darkest moments.

ROSS, FRANCIS D.

Ross

155 West 111th Pl., Los Angeles, Cal.

Class Swimming, 1929-30; Manager, 1929.

"Ross" was in the Navy and you'd better not say anything against the old U. S. N. while he's around. He barks loud but we're sure he doesn't bite.

FRATTONTA 1930

ROY, ALFRED M.

Al

24 Victoria St., Jamaica, N. Y.

Well known partner of the firm of Roy and Johnson. Our own "Mike" and "Ike" combination—one is never seen without the other. "Al" is liked by all.

SANDS, WARD S.

Sands

37 N. Walnut St., East Orange, N. J.

The "Sands of time" flow slowly on, but not our "Sands," of course, being from New Jersey imposes a certain handicap, but he seems to tour right along just the same.

SANTINELLI, MARTIN

Martin

19 Clifton Pl., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Boxing, 1929.

The way "Martin" cross-examines the instructors stamps him as a first-class lawyer. But he, being the master of his fate, chooses to be a boilermaker.

SENKBEIL, RAYMOND A.

Ray

52 Chadwick Ave., Hartford, Conn.

Class Vice-president, 1929-30; Class Soccer, 1929-30; Class Basketball, 1929.

"Oh, lagging hands hasten to the hour of 12:30, that once again may I meet my beloved at the old trysting place!" Just another good boiler maker gone the way of all men.

SHANNON, FLORIAN H.

Shannon

34 Church St., Oneonta, N. Y.

Varsity Tennis, 1929-30; Class Basketball, 1929-30; Boxing, 1929-30.

The "champ" tennis artist from the wilds of New York. Still an advocate of single blessedness but not for long. "How can I get home quickest, by the 'O and W' or the 'Central,' fellows?"

SHELLEY, LOUIS B.

Louie

518 W. High St., Elkhart, Ind.

Varsity Basketball, 1929; Class Basketball, 1929-30; Class Dance Committee, 1929-30.

The speed demon of the basketball team. Can be in more places at the same time than any other living man. Shares a preference for New Jersey for some unknown reason.

SMITH, PAUL F.

Smitty

1499 East 7th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Varsity Baseball, 1929; Class Baseball, 1930.

"Smitty" was reported to be a Pratt man dead as well as well as bred. However, he popped in one bright morning, thus proving you can't keep a boilermaker down, or up, whichever place boilermakers go.

STENVALL, BERTIL

Whitey

1 Flower St., New Rochelle, N. Y.

The soft-voiced blond from the Rochelle woods. Knows his stuff. "Watch your step in those evil dance halls, Whitey."

STEUDING, ERNEST A.

Stu

43 Hurley Ave., Kingston, N. Y.

Bang! "That's Bob." A big man who'll go a long way. "Yes, sir, fellows, there's no place like Kingston." "Stu" is well liked by all.

STEVENS, WILLIAM H.

Steve

927 Norwood Ave., Schenectady, N. Y.

"Steve" is our rejuvenator of asthmatic motor vehicles. That sure is applying the principles of mechanics before they're entirely forgotten.

GRADUATION
1930.

SYNNOTT, WILLIAM J.

Bill

77 Fleming St., Waterbury, Conn.

A hard worker whose ready smile has made him friends of all. Surely knows his high school Geometry, Q. E. D. If it wasn't for "Bill," Brooklyn would be in the dark.

TOMPKINS, GORDON

Tommy

Downing Hill, White Plains, N. Y.

One of the few men who knows an Essex from stem to stern. Beside an "SX" a "Rolls" looks like a wheel-barrow. His pet phrase is "Essex, the challenger." "Tommy" is a hard working boy.

TRAVER, ALFRED E.

Al

25 Beach St., Rhinebeck, N. Y.

Our own automobile mechanic. "Al's" main ambition is to design a motor truck that will run on sea as well as land. A keen student with a disposition as good as gold.

UNDORF, THOMAS F.

Tom

Thomaston, Conn.

"Math test? Boy, what a sleigh-ride that was!" Knows more about automotive things than Henry himself. Quite a globe-trotter, having seen a lot of France from the driver's seat of an "F. W. D."

WAKEMAN, BURRITT N.

Wakeman

Compo Rd., Westport, Conn.

Class Basketball, 1930; Class Swimming, 1930.

Behold! The elongated hero of "The Adventure of Larry Brent" or "How I conquered the air in 10 easy lessons." He finds ground school at P. I. just as interesting as learning to flap his wings.

WALTEMATH, WILLIAM C.

Willie

9 Raymond Ave., Rockville Centre, L. I.

"Willie" Waltemath alias "Rube Goldberg," artist and wisecracker de-luxe. Member of firm of "Martin, Montamat and Waltemath," wreckers of peace and quiet. All this and still a good student.

WARDWELL, HARRY J.

Hap

140 Maple St., Berlin, N. H.

Boxing, 1929-30.

Tunney's coming rival. "Hap" is an able man with his fists and is leading the boxing team on to success. A hard worker who will surely make the grade.

WATSON, SAMUEL R.

Sam

Jersey Shore, Pa.

Assistant Manager, Varsity Baseball, 1929; Fencing, 1929; Manager, Class Soccer, 1930.

Still another of the "double harness" advocates. Knows his locomotives and is an outstanding reason for the success of the N. Y. C. lines.

WESTON, LOOMIS R.

Westy

40 Hatch St., New Britain, Conn.

"Westy" is a hard working, good-hearted chap with a ready smile and a ready hand. We are sure he's bound for success.

WEYLAND, STEPHEN C.

Steve

Roslyn, L. I., N. Y.

"Steve" is a good natured chap with plenty of friends. The only thing that cramped his style was the L. I. R. R., but then, all great men have suffered for their education. "L—L—L—Let Winnie in."

1930

WHITE, WILLIAM S.

Whitey

100 Easton Ave., Montreal West, P. Q., Canada.

Assistant Manager, Varsity Basketball, 1929; Class Soccer, 1929-30.

"Whitey" is our quiet representative from Canada, and prominent member of the Soccer team. He is also a machinist of quite some renown. "It's a bloody shame!"

WISSMAN, ARTHUR X.

Cy

38 Maple St., West Haven, Conn.

Clara Bow may have "it," but there ain't no gal quite like Nancy Carroll. Yes, girls are all right, but why must they live so far away? "Cy" is usually quiet, but remember—there's always the quiet that precedes the storm.

WOODEND, WILLIAM J., JR.

Woody

295 Washington Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A quiet, unassuming fellow, and liked by those who know him. His pet hobby is to sport a mustache. Well, "Woody," the spring term will present your opportunity.

INDUSTRIAL MECHANICAL ENGINEERING, 1931

In the autumn of 1929 some ninety odd students from various parts of the country arrived at PRATT to enter upon their careers as boilermakers. We soon became night owls owing to the fact that we were initiated into the sciences, namely PHYSICS and MATHEMATICS.

Nevertheless we found time to participate in athletics, and how we participated! Our soccer team although composed of novices to the game, showed a remarkable spirit in this sport by coming out well on top of the list, as boilermakers will. Our basketball, swimming, bowling, and track teams also made a fine showing during the year. We hope to keep up the pace set by the preceding MECHANICALS.

We wish to express our thanks to the Faculty for the splendid manner in which they have helped us on our way to the goal for which we are striving. It is to them that we owe our training as future engineers. Due to their efforts we have had our rough corners rubbed off.

We, as a class, hope to continue our scholastic, social and athletic endeavors here at PRATT, so that PRATT may be proud of us and say, "This is the class of 1931."

INDUSTRIAL CHEMICAL ENGINEERING, 1930

THE Chemistry Class of 1930 leaves behind an enviable record of activity and achievement at Pratt Institute. Entering as the largest class in the history of the course, we were immediately divided, and pursued our studies as two separate groups. Mr. Allen and Mr. Bivens assumed the task of unfolding to us the mysteries of chemistry. Rapidly we became oriented to our new life and our first progressive step came with the election of officers, Malcolm Fleming being the successful candidate for President. From this point we lost no time in the concoction of questionable mixtures and, in general, identifying ourselves to the Institute as Chemists. Our creditable performance on Alumni Day stands on record.

The beginning of the second year found us a more mature, and now more unified crowd. Having mastered the elements of chemistry, we set about to contract something of the spirit of the Chemist from Dr. Roger's and his colleagues. A step was made in this direction at the first smoker given by the Wohler Society for the purpose of welcoming the first year men. This society, under the leadership of John Masterson, has done much to forward the social life of the fellows, as well as to secure for our benefit prominent lecturers on applied chemistry.

The part that we have played in athletics has been spirited, although not as successful this year as it was last year, when men from our class were important factors on championship teams.

On February 15th we received our first glimpse into the future when we were entertained by the alumni at a large banquet given at the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce. There were excellent speakers and entertainment, and a good time was had by all.

So, as we emerge from the haze of hexamiteodiphenylamine and stumble forth over shattered beakers into the welcoming arms of the world, it is not without regret that we pass on from Pratt Institute and its recollections of two happy and instructive years. It will be long before such names as Mr. Allen, Mr. Bivens, Mr. Jenness, Dr. Mantell, and Dr. Rogers become effaced from our memories. For, in our association with these men, we received freely of themselves and of that spirit which is particularly distinctive of Pratt Institute.

CLASS OFFICERS

D. MALCOLM FLEMING, President
CARL A. POWERS, Vice-President

RAYMOND STEELE, Secretary
WILLIAM J. HUTTON, Treasurer

PRATTONIA

1930

ALOIA, COSMO A.

Cossi

90 Maple St., Meriden, Conn.

Class Bowling, 1929-30; Prattlettes, 1929.

The fellow who spends money to get out of the subway. He has the habit of staying out Monday morning.

ALVORD, MAURICE C.

Al

47 Harlem Ave., Bridgeport, Conn.

Al has a weakness for chemistry, bowling and women. His motto is "love one, love all."

ANDERSON, EVERETT V.

Andy

18 Hart St., New Britain, Conn.

Class Soccer, 1929-30.

Andy is the vocationist of the Chemistry class. His parody on "True Blue Lou" was appreciated by all.

ARMSTRONG, LESTER H.

Les

57 Standish St., Hartford, Conn.

We would like to know more about the weekly trips to Sea Cliff that Welch, Bartow and Les made. Les claims that he enjoys the suburban environment but we are inclined to believe otherwise.

BANFIELD, G. ELLIS

Ellis

34 Third Ave., Gloversville, N. Y.

Class Secretary, 1929.

The Gloversville "Specialist." He specializes in leather skiing, sailing, patent hair tonics, etc.

FRATTONIA 1930

BARTOW, G. HERBERT

Bud

18 Maple Ave., Sea Cliff, L. I., N. Y.

We wonder if Mr. Burley has learned what a "whosis" and a "whatsis" is from Bud yet. And he dyed his hair a golden brown.

BOTT, WILLIS L.

Bill

Philmont, N. Y.

Class Baseball, 1929-30.

One of the most studious chaps in the class. Watch out for school teachers, "Bill." He is the ace of spades, according to "Bud."

BUTLER, ROBERT H.

Bob

91 Oakland Ave., Gloversville, N. Y.

Varsity Baseball, 1929-30; Class Basketball, 1929-30; Class Athletic Representative, 1930.

"Bob" is an authority on aviation, leather tanning, football games, or what have you. His greatest attainment is picking winners. The class found this out much to their sorrow.

CARLSON, JOHN E.

Jack

739 Chrisler Ave., Schenectady, N. Y.

Vice-President, Wohler Society, 1929.

Always looking for an argument. Too bad Pratt beat R. P. I., isn't it, Jack?

CORDA, CONRAD

Pop

245 Ferry St., New Haven, Conn.

Class Bowling, 1930.

"Pop," Mr. Allan's ideal chemist, has his "after-school" life all condensed into three significant words: "Wine, —, Song." Well, anyway, he has lived up to standard during the past two years.

1930

DAS, AUNIL K.

Anvil

11 Ram Mohon Shah's Lane, P. O., Bradon St.
Calcutta, India.

Our Hindu "wizard" with the chameleon-like hair. It varies from black to red according to the strength of H_2O_2 used.

DAVIS, KENNETH A.

Ken

Newmarket, Ontario, Canada.

Prattonia Representative, 1930; Prattlettes, 1929.
The Canadian Beau Brummel plus the qualities of a "mountie"; always reliable and sure to win the greatest of success. "Always gets his wo-man."

DELOSO, ULDARICO D.

Bob

Dumangas, Iloilo, Philippine Islands.

Our toothpaste smile. "Bob" lacks neither wit nor personality. "Good luck, Old Boy."

DeMAINE, LORENTS E.

Slim

Oakshade Ave., Noroton Heights, Conn.

Class Bowling, 1929-30; Captain, 1930; Prattlettes, 1929.
Another representative from the rural fields of Connecticut. "Slim" sure can talk a good bowling match.

DONAHUE, GEORGE F.

Jiggs

1142 Barnum Ave., Bridgeport, Conn.

Class Soccer, 1929-30; Wrestling, 1929-30; Boxing, 1929-30.

"Jiggs" is a real asset to our soccer team, a hard worker and a "Boys' Helper."

FLEMING, D. MALCOLM

Mal

24 Polhemus Pl., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class President, 1929-30; Student Council, 1929-30; Class Soccer, 1929-30; Class Basketball, 1929-30; Glee Club, 1929-30; Assistant Photographic Editor, Prattonia, 1929; Photographic Editor, Prattonia, 1930; Prattonettes, 1929.

There is no need to enumerate "Mal's" sterling qualities as our space is limited.

FOWLER, ARTHUR L.

Firp

883 East 39th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Soccer, 1929-30; Class Track, 1929-30.

The inventive genius of the class (Perpetual Motion Machine). "Firp" is the star of soccer and glass stretching.

GEENTY, JAMES R.

Geenty

100 Blatchley Ave., New Haven, Conn.

Class Bowling, Manager, 1929-30; Treasurer, Wohler Society, 1930.

It is rumored in chemist circles that "Geenty" does NOT attend the basketball games for the express purpose of seeing basketball at its best. Which is THE one, "Geenty"?

GROTTGER, MIROSLAW

Old Timer

629 Valley Ave., Yonkers, N. Y.

Well, "Old-Timer," we are still waiting for you to electroplate the plow. Stick to your work and you'll succeed—that's the ticket.

HIMMELSTEIN, HARRY

Harry

5 Elliot Pl., Peabody, Mass.

Prattonettes, 1929.

Harry is the other members of the Chemists' "Mutt and Jeff Co." Harry is a quiet, industrious chap, who is bound to succeed in his work.

PRATTONITE 1930

HODGKINSON, WILLIAM J.

Bill

3521 - 86th St., Jackson Heights, L. I., N. Y.

It takes "Bill" the noon hour to eat at a certain restaurant. Who is she, "Bill"? Ask him how to repair a car cheap.

HUTTON, WILLIAM J.

Tubby

199 East Chester St., Kingston, N. Y.

Class Treasurer, 1929-30; Class Basketball, 1929-30.

Our class treasurer, who is forever hounding us for money, is a remarkable athlete and a wonderful pal. Best o' luck, "Bill."

JACKSON, WILLIAM

Bill

2730 Sedgwick Ave., Bronx, N. Y.

Class Soccer, 1929-30.

"Bill," we feel sure, is a man with a past and a future. His main interest in school is annoying "Das." What is your power over women, "Bill"?

JOHNSON, MORGAN

Morgan

Pocantico Hills, N. Y.

Class Soccer, 1929-30; Captain, 1930.

Our soccer captain is minus in neither personality nor pep. A friend to all, enemy of none.

JOHNSON, PAUL E.

Paul

56 Wyona St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Paul is the "Jeff" of the Chemists' "Mutt and Jeff" combination. Paul is also "Das'" understudy in chess.

FRATTONIA 1930

KELLEY, W. LEE

Lee

Poultney, Vt.

The most daring one in our midst, the proud and loquacious possessor of a "dirty red upper lip."

KOELLHOFFER, JOHN H.

Coal-heaver

21 Kingman Rd., South Orange, N. J.

A serious minded, overgrown Boy Scout whose weakness is "Das." Don't forget to get a temperature correction for carbon residue.

LINN, NORMAN F.

Norm

2042 East 18th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Baseball, 1929-30; Class Soccer, 1930.
"Norm" missed the Pathé nominations by one vote. His unique way of asking questions is enjoyed by every member of the class.

LOPRESTI, PHILIP J.

Smoky Joe

852 South Main St., Seymour, Conn.

Class Soccer, 1929-30.
Is he asleep? Oh, no. Just thinking? He has a very expensive habit of playing with laboratory equipment.

LUCAS, LEONARD V.

Leo

32 Anderson St., Union City, Conn.

Class Basketball, 1929-30.
We wonder if "Leo" puts his arm in a sling after a hard day's work at school.

LUCKMANN, FREDERICK H.

Freddie

374 Palisade Ave., Union City, N. J.

Many years ago, "Freddie's" mother told him to "Speak no evil, hear no evil, and do no evil"; and he has lived up to it.

MARION, STEPHEN P.

Steve

374 East 65th St., New York, N. Y.

"And for genius and intellect I lead the pack." "What a high calibered fellow I am!" "As Steve would say!"

MARRA, FRANK

Frankie

630 Lafayette Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Soccer, 1929-30; Class Basketball, 1929-30; Class Baseball, 1929-30.

"Frankie" has changed such a great deal since his first year here that we are inclined to believe there has been some outside influence.

MASTERSON, JOHN J.

John

19 Sunnyside Ave., Middletown, N. Y.

Glee Club, 1929-30; President, Wohler Society, 1930; Class Basketball, 1929-30.

"Fellows, may I have your attention, please." Here is one-half of the team of "Mal and John," debators. John is "Doc" Rogers' idea of a typical chemist who smokes like . . . etc.

MAYER, HERMAN

Herm

Stuttgart, Germany.

A quiet, industrious scholar who is forever "plugging" along. Good luck to you, "Herm."

McAULIFFE, THOMAS P.

Mac

95 Highland Ave., Jersey City, N. J.

Class Basketball, 1929-30; Captain, 1930.

A big butter and egg man from New Jersey, whose ambition is to be a broker and drive a Studebaker eight.

MEYER, ARTHUR W.

Arty

172-32 Highland Ave., Jamaica, L. I., N. Y.

The silent member of the inseparable trio of McAuliffe, Meyer and Miller. We wonder if it is "IT" or the Ford, that makes him so popular with the fairer sex.

MILLER, FRANK L.

Miller

Garden St., Roslyn Heights, L. I., N. Y.

A young "un" who endeavors to describe his hometown to all of us, much to our dismay.

MORTELLITI, JOSEPH P.

Mussi

86 Church St., New Britain, Conn.

The Chemists' "Mussolini," a cheery, good-natured chap who is always willing to lend a helping hand.

O'HARE, JOHN J.

John

19 East 9th Ave., Gloversville, N. Y.

Class Basketball, 1929-30; Class Baseball, 1929-30.

The third part of the Gloversville trio needs no introduction to athletics and studies. He's right there with all the cooperation necessary to make bigger and better chemists.

GRADUATION
1930

PAPAE MANUEL, JOHN

John

Island of Rhodes, Greece,

Adiexodos Trias 37A, Athens, Greece.

John is a quiet, energetic chap who never fails to get to the foundation of things. Good luck, "John."

POWERS, CARL A.

Carl

84 King St., Westbrook, Maine.

Class Vice-President, 1930; Class Basketball Manager, 1930.

Our bit of "Irish wit" from Maine, who believes in discipline, much to his room-mate's dismay.

SALLOWAY, HARRY

Harry

18 Thorndike St., Peabody, Mass.

Harry has the enviable record of going through the two years without a worry. His two greatest weaknesses are staying in bed all day after being out all night.

SAWYER, HERBERT L., Jr.

Herb

Main St., Lancaster, Mass.

Class Track Team, Manager, 1930.

Give "Herb" a condenser, a tube and a few other knick-knacks and he will present you something which will work. A very likeable chap who always keeps to himself.

SCHILLING, WILMUR M.

Bill

225 East Meade St., Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia, Pa.

Glee Club, 1930; Boxing, 1929.

A quiet fellow who is undecided whether to go to the "Star" or the "Opera."

FRATERNITY 1930

SCHIMBOR, EWALT F.

Oscar

81 Morris St., Whitneyville, Conn.

Class Soccer, Manager, 1930; Class Baseball, Manager, 1930.

"Oscar," the boy with the cute little nose and that irresistible hair. But after all, "What would my Mother say?"

SMITH, VINCENT M., Jr.

Smitty

Kensington Ave., Bayport, L. I., N. Y.

Just as a sailor has a sweetheart in every port, "Smitty" has one in every town on the L. I. R. R. Girls, shows and Wolf are "Smitty's" three handicaps.

SOBENNIKOFF, VADIM V.

Ben

26 St. James Pl., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Ben" says back in Moscow his name is as common as Smith is in New York. Well, anyway, good luck, "Ben."

STEELE, RAYMOND

Ray

322 Highland Ave., Upper Montclair, N. J.

Class Secretary, 1930.

"Ray," Cornell's contribution to the Chemical Union of Pratt, the man of all seriousness, slow but persistent and will always be ahead.

TORMA, DOMINIC A.

Torma

1890 Bergen St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A sphinx-like person who keeps within himself and about whom we know little.

PRATTIANA

WEBEL, ADAM

Adam

952 Seneca Ave., Ridgewood, L. I., N. Y.

"A thing of beauty is a joy forever." Pratt's Palmolive boy. One of the mysteries of the class is, "How does Adam know so much organic chemistry?"

WELCH, WILLIAM E.

Shanty

65 Nelson St., Springfield, Mass.

Varsity Basketball, 1929-30; Varsity Baseball, 1929-30; Class Soccer, 1929-30.

"Shanty," our industrious peat farmer from Springfield, was "Chief Chemist" of the Varsity basketball and baseball squads for two seasons. Best o' luck, "Shanty."

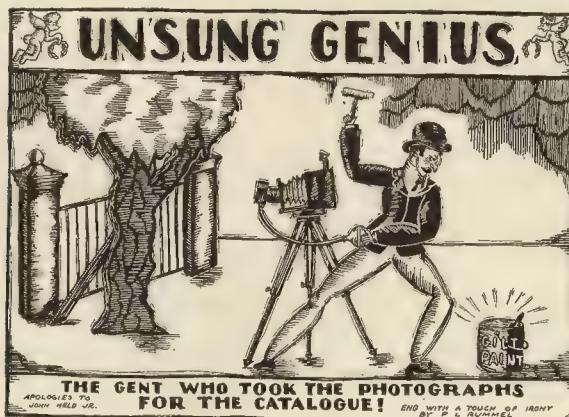

WOLF, MILTON A.

Wolf

1236 Union St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

We regret that June will see the breaking up of that famous "Welch-Wolf" team of playboys.

INDUSTRIAL CHEMICAL ENGINEERING, 1931

SEPTEMBER the twenty-fifth, the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine, marked the beginning of an epoch in the history of Pratt Institute in general and of the department of Chemistry in particular. At that time some forty odd chemists or as "Doc" Allen put it, "embryo chemists," descended upon the school. We use the word "descended" purposely, as any historian will tell you that that particular verb is always used to describe the attack of the barbarians on Rome. So from England, China, Russia, and Mexico to say nothing of Passaic, descended this horde.

Under the careful guidance of the worthy Doctor Allen some of the rough spots were planed down despite the weekly contacts with Mechanicals during the "shop" periods.

After organizing, the class started out to conquer the world in soccer, and we would have were it not for the untimely insistence of several second year men that they be allowed to play.

The class as a whole proved to be fairly conservative in the laboratory and to date has caused no great anxiety as to the safety of the lives of the good citizens of Brooklyn. There is, however, one miscreant who insists upon inventing(?) various laboratory appurtenances which succeed only in thoroughly spraying his fellow classmates with acid. He undoubtedly will achieve success, to the point where he works in a laboratory by himself.

However, to turn to the serious side of life, the class wishes to thank the faculty for the hearty cooperation which has been received in all matters with which they have been associated. We feel that this cooperation will be one of the things that will make our brief stay in Pratt Institute the most memorable event of our lives.

FAREWELL

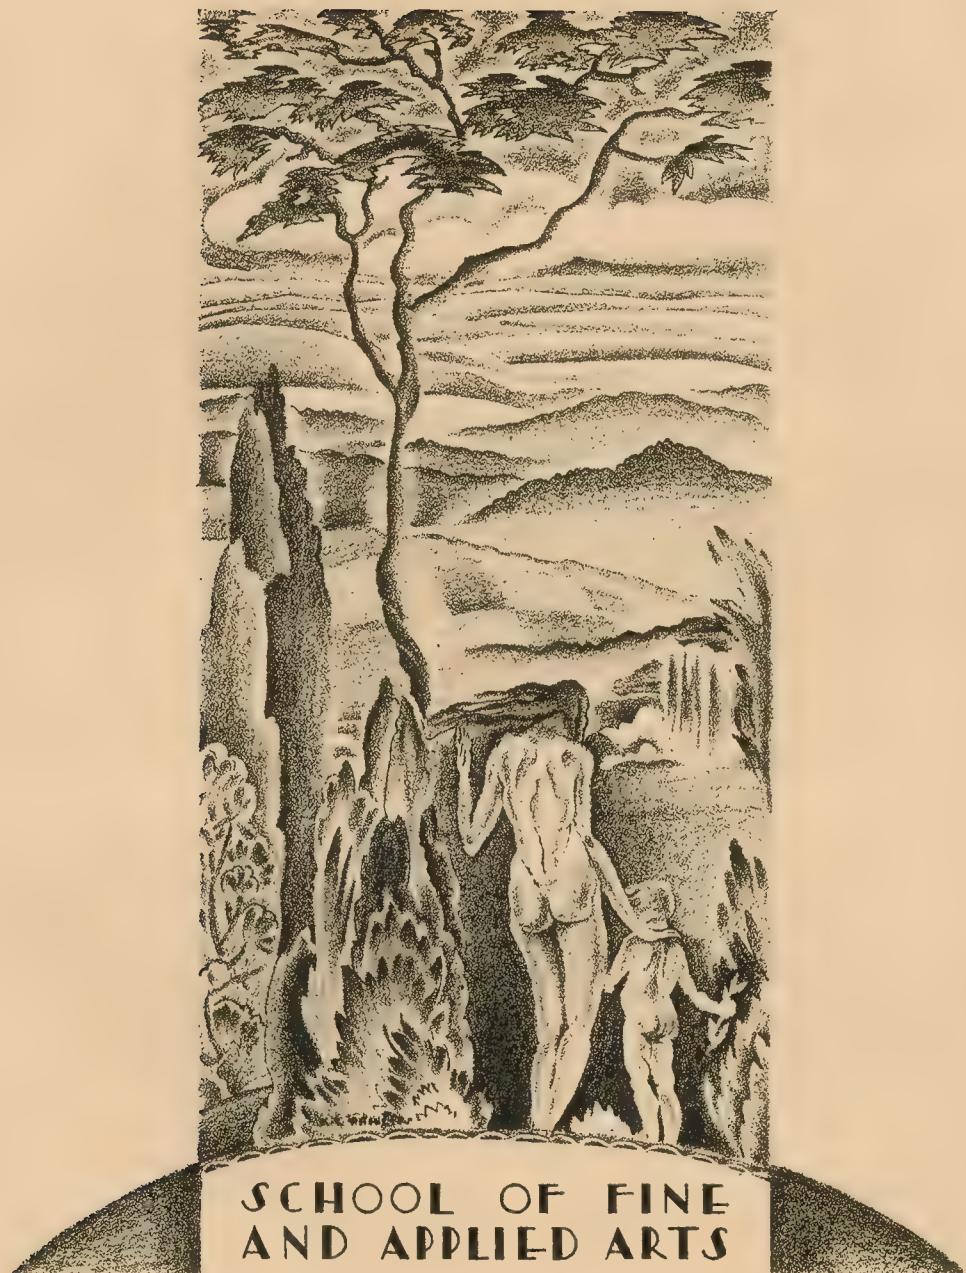

Tonight my eyes are wet with tears;
Tomorrow they'll be dry;
And soon, no doubt, I'll laugh again
No one can always cry.

But though my eyes cease mourning;
And though my lips seem gay,
I know the dreams of might have been
Will never go away.

The years, I hope, will cloud them,
And, passing, gently weave
A misty shroud about my heart
To help me make believe.

SCHOOL OF FINE AND APPLIED ARTS

FRATTON 1936

SCHOOL OF FINE AND APPLIED ARTS

ONE of the most interesting developments in recent years in the United States presents itself in the field of Art. Never before has this activity played as important a role as it now enjoys in every day life with evidence pointing to an ever increasing importance. It has developed hand in hand with the phenomenal growth of advertising, sharing honors equally with the written thoughts that sell our products. For some time this country has led the world in efficient and economical mass production. In our mechanical development, however, we have neglected the art quality. This important sales force is now being successfully incorporated in industry, quite evident in the improved appearance of our automobiles.

Gradually there is emerging in America a distinctly National Architecture especially visible in those cathedrals of commerce, the skyscrapers. Not only is the exterior, but also the interior commanding careful study and creative attention. In education, from the kindergarten through the college, the subject of Art is recognized as a fundamental phase of a well rounded program.

This School trains students to meet these various demands through courses in Commercial Illustration, Industrial Design, Interior Decoration, Architecture, and the Teaching of Fine and Industrial Arts. Intensive courses have been established that the greatest possible return may be obtained for the time spent in study. Programs are so presented that creative ability is fostered, principles of art are taught and skill in technique is developed. That our graduates may be acquainted with the world's finest art an opportunity for a careful study of the outstanding examples in architecture, sculpture, painting, and the crafts is included in all courses presented.

SECTION N. 4 1930

ARCHITECTURAL DESIGN 1930

NO longer are we a timid class. (Oh no!) We shall never forget the memorable transitions impressed upon our minds of the clamor through the construction course, when we so religiously and ambitiously had our work ready when "Eddie's" and "Price's" voices loomed above ours.

In this class we have unique designers from every important metropolis (?). We have conquered much during our brief history at the Institute, due to the perseverance of our instructors. But, on the other hand, we find that the fellows aren't "always" in class. "Guppy" has found this out; and he has threatened to spring a roll call any day. So great are our problems that Mr. Arnaud has surrendered his position among these hoodlums to Mr. Fletcher.

Our talent goes far afield of Architecture. From various corners of the room come strains of melody; but, like a death grip, someone shouts, "Big Compass"; and the noise is readily squelched and all is calm, for we know that "Eddie" is making his daily rounds.

The Architectural classes have always upheld their own in the sport circles at Pratt; and we find that this class is no exception to the rule. The fellows have not only made the grade, but have established records that are marks for the succeeding classes to use as an aim in their strive for athletic honors.

During the many social enterprises of the Architects, there has been formed a bond of brotherly contact. This affiliation has fostered with every event within the existence of the class; whether they were social, educational or athletic enterprises.

We cross the outgoing threshold of the Institute, that has housed us and the endeavoring instructors during our history of learning, and we are all sure that we shall never forget the times that have melted into the past.

1930

ANDERSON, HARVEY WILLIAM

Andy

207 Lafayette Ave., Buffalo, N. Y.

Glee Club, 1929-30.

This youth hails from the frontier of the country which may explain his delightful English accent. Since he joined the Glee Club, his voice sounds better.

BARKMAN, WILLIAM FREDERICK

Gas Pipe

186 Speedwell Ave., Morristown, N. J.

Glee Club, 1929-30.

Behold! None other than "Ike's" competitor for snappy renderings. Does his best work in white on white paper. We will always remember "Buckledown, Barkman."

BUNNELL, C. WALLACE

Bunny

72 Broad St., Plainville, Conn.

Class Secretary, 1928-29.

Bunneleschi, who is almost totally submerged in water or balanced on several thumb-tacks, still manages to preserve his sunny disposition.

CONRAD, THEODORE E.

Cold Copy

31 Griffith St., Jersey City, N. J.

Here he comes. Who? Why it's "Cold Copy Conrad, the Carbon Copy Kid." This young man improves on Palladio.

COX, LAURENCE P.

Coxie

22 Pearl St., Springfield, Vt.

Class Basketball, 1928-29-30; Captain, 1929-30; Class Baseball, 1928-29-30; Class Soccer, 1929-30; Class Swimming, 1929-30.

"Coxie," the boy with the golden voice is once again heard to repeat, "Anyhow, it's Lindboig's plane."

FRATTONIA 1930

DODGE, W. PARKER

21 South St., Utica, N. Y.

Glee Club, 1929-30.

King Gillette's best pal. He shaves every four days whether he needs it or not. Strange to say, he usually needs it. Makes plenty of noise for one person.

Dodgey

ESPENSCHIED, CARL RICHARD

Eps

1838 - 49th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Pool, 1929; Fencing Instructor, 1930; Pratt Fencing Team, 1930.

The only follower of Mohammed in the class. "Math's" pardner. Although "Eps" is late at times, he is one of the "best" designers in the class.

FELDMAN, ISIDORE

Ike

1795 Union St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Basketball, 1928-29-30; Class Baseball, 1928-29-30.

Blotto Feldman! Blotters and sponges are "Ike's" specialty; or if you wouldst have a tree or entourage rendered, see Feldman & Co. His aides are quite helpful.

GAGE, CLIFFORD L.

Speedy

344 East Main St., Owego, N. Y.

"Speedy" is in school except when he goes home and grinds on a problem. He hibernates from Monday to Friday.

GIMENEZ, JULIAN N.

Spanish Omelet

Oruro, Bolivia, South America

Chairman, Architects' Educational Committee, 1930.

The severe "papa" of the class, who swears in Spanish and keeps us all guessing. When bigger and better South Americas are built, this omelet will build them.

PRATTIONA 1930

GLADIS, MICHAEL, JR.

Mickey

78 Anderson Ave., Forestville, Conn.

Class President, 1928; Class Baseball, 1928-29; Class Soccer, 1929; Class Basketball Manager, 1930.

"Mickey" is our librarian, and a darned good one. This fellow is a hound for cigars, especially when they are the other fellow's.

HOENACK, AUGUST F.

Augie

2143 Hughes Ave., New York, N. Y.

"Augie" is one of the brilliant young men in the class who can do a shade and shadow exam without peering into a book.

KRON, ROBERT G.

'Ittle Boy

Hiawatha Drive, Brightwaters, L. I., N. Y.

Varsity Cheer Leader, 1928; Class Basketball, 1929-30; Class Swimming, 1930; Prattonia Representative, 1930.

"The early bird catches the worm." So our "'Ittle Boy" is the first to light the class with his Pepsodent smile in the morning. Snappy work brings him McDade's drafting as a side-line.

LAFFERANDRE, C. HALSEY

Laff

240 Willoughby Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Varsity Basketball, 1928-29-30; Varsity Tennis, 1928-29-30; Class Soccer, 1928-29-30, Captain, 1929; Class Baseball, 1928-29-30; Student Council, 1929-30; A. A. Executive Committee, 1929-30; Class Vice-President, 1928-29; President of The Architects, 1929-30.

"The best tree renderer in the class," quotes Mr. Arnaud. What, an athlete? Well, take a look.

LENGEL, ARTHUR H.

Art

816 Pennsylvania Ave., Sinking Springs, Pa.

Social Chairman of Architects, 1929-30.

The big social man. His main reason for coming to Pratt was to get a wife. He did, and how! He would like to run the Architectural course as it should be run.

LEYH, WILLIAM H.

Lay

1616 Norman St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Treasurer, 1929-30; Class Bowling, 1929-30.

The fastest draftsman in the class of 1930 according to William H. His alleged color-blindness doesn't seem to interfere with his problems—nor choice of the fairer sex.

LITTLEJOHN, WAYNE A.

Wee John

609 East 21st St., Oakland, Cal.

"Well, boys, stop out in California and see how things should be done." This boy is wild, wild, wild, with his colorful ties and suspenders; but he just won't give the girls a "break."

MACCHI, CHARLES L.

Match-ee

20 Plain St., Barre, Vt.

Prattonia Representative, 1928; Chairman, Architect Pin Committee; Assistant Instructor, 1929-30.

Our boy wonder—even as in the first year he still excels us in everything except, perhaps, women. Yes, we must lift our hats to his genius—or is it ingenious?

McDADE, PAUL E.

Mac

520 Fifth St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Soccer, 1928-29; Class Baseball, 1928-29-30; Class Swimming Manager, 1929; Pratt Track Champion, 1928; Class Pool, 1928; Class Treasurer, 1929; Architect Treasurer, 1930; Assistant Instructor, 1930.

Mac wants to know what an A+ is. He tries to play dark horse in design work, but we know his game.

McKENNA, ARTHUR LEO, JR.

Mac

157 Mason St., Greenwich, Conn.

"Mac" rushes around so much, that he keeps us all guessing what will be his next big job. This fellow spends more time in the halls than in the drafting room. We all admire "Mac" for his disposition.

PRATTONIA

PARTYKA, MARTIN H.

Duke

139 North St., New Britain, Conn.

"Duke" is surely missed when he makes frequent dashes home to see the folks (?). Although Partyka considers the world all wrong (Arnaud included), he is a good fellow.

PECK, RAYMOND O.

Ray

53 Lincoln Ave., New Brunswick, N. J.

Another youth from "Joisey" towering above us all. This fellow seems to have a very hard time getting his necessary sleep. Peck is a very much married man.

REED, DONALD H.

Don

858 Schuylkill Ave., Reading, Pa.

"All great men are dead—and I'm not feeling so well myself." The dreaming Don Juan. After all, "Don" is one of the outstanding men of the class.

SHARPLES, ARTHUR S., JR.

Artie

670 Barrett St., New York City

Class Soccer, 1929-30; Class Basketball, 1928-29-30; Class Baseball, 1928-29-30; Captain, 1930; Class Swimming, 1929-30.

"Artie" is our fast basketball captain and it seems as though he keeps a good many sports going, including golf.

TASILLO, DANIEL J.

Dan

18 Hebron St., Hartford, Conn.

Vice-President, Architects, 1930; Assistant Manager, Varsity Basketball, 1929, Manager, 1930; Manager, Class Soccer, 1929; Interclass Soccer Manager, 1929.

"Dan" has quite a monopoly on the basketball tickets, but he won't give the fellows a break. "No comps. for anybody —see?"

FRATTONI

WHITFORD, JAMES P.

Jay

100 Third St., Newport, R. I.

Class Soccer, 1928-29; Class Basketball, 1928, Manager, 1929; Track, 1928; Class Swimming, 1929; Class Baseball, 1928; Class Pool, 1929.

Our little "Jimmy" keeps busy enough to keep free from the fairer sex, but we think he is keeping one under cover.

WOOLEY, EBEN B.

Eb

161 White St., Stratford, Conn.

Chairman of Architects, Athletic Committee, 1929-30; Boxing Instructor, 1929-30; Class Basketball, 1929-30.

Arnaud's pal. "Eb" is the best engraver in the class. He keeps quite busy with his clever water color sketches.

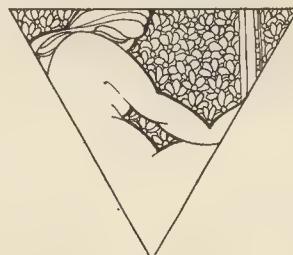

WURRET, VEIKKO V.

Veek

49 Eastern Pkwy., Jersey City, N. J.

Swimming, 1929-30; Manager, 1930.

"Ruff Scatch" Wurret is this fellow's brand and he sure lives up to it. When we see "Veek" he is always sketching with his "tack-nack" in water color.

THE ARCHITECTS

through in the field of sports with colors flying, and have had some fine get-togethers.

It was at one of these socials that the Architects received what is, perhaps, their greatest reward. On December 4, 1929, a dinner was held in the recreation hall, and we were fortunate in having as our guests Mr. Hugh Ferriss, Mr. Hobart Upjohn, and Mr. Floyd Yewell. As a direct result of this event, we now have Mr. Ferriss on our faculty. He will act as a consultant, and will visit the school four or five times during the year. This alone is a worthy achievement.

Now that we are welded together, may the bond become stronger and stronger. Long live "The Architects"!

CLASS OFFICERS

CHARLES H. LAFFERANDRE, President

BORIS A. COOKE, First Vice-President	EDWARD GAVIN, Second V.-Pres.

ARCHITECTURAL CONSTRUCTION

1930

ONE big year of harmonizing and minor occupations (this includes drafting), and we are just 12 months nearer the goal all struggle for, i.e., to become good real estate dealers. Many fellows have decided to become surveyors, the main attraction being the coffee and crullers around the corner. There are one or two who have really shown signs of making architecture their profession.

We have done our best in sports this year, increasing last year's effort and winning the soccer championship. All our basketball candidates turned out and showed that the summer had not taken away all their skill. Baseball, bowling, swimming, boxing and fencing fill out the program.

We spent many afternoons roaming from cellars to roofs of the tall buildings under construction. Mr. Edminster arranged these trips and acted as our guide, explaining the many methods of construction.

Mr. Webster says that the men have great potentialities when it comes to design, if they would only forget the pineapples.

Building bridges, skyscrapers, etc., with reckless abandon has been the weakness of many fellows since Mr. Price made mechanics so interesting. Mr. Munson was almost overcome by shock when every student showed up for math for two consecutive days.

One of the highlights of the year was the dinner on December fourth, where Mr. Hugh Ferriss talked and illustrated his talent as a renderer, Mr. Hobart Upjohn, a prominent architect, and Mr. Floyd Yewell, a well known renderer, were also present.

Although a few of us will be listed among the lost, strayed or stolen next year, most of us will be back, ready to make it a bigger and better year in every way.

AMUNDSON, FREDERICK H.

Fred

2 Appleton Pl., Montclair, N. J.

Class Soccer, 1928-29; Boxing, 1928-30.

Fred can use his head on the soccer field as well as in the drafting room. The one man most likely to become a successful architect. An athlete, hard worker and Ecclesiastical authority.

ANDRUS, BUTLER W.

Andy

Simsbury, Conn.

Class Basketball, 1929-30; Fall Dance Committee, 1929; Class Baseball, 1930.

Drawn to half full size, but chuck full of pep. Brain and muscle so to say. A dance would be considered a loss if "Andy" were not there. Chief date fixer for the Architects.

BURTON, JOHN W.

Johnny

9314 - 209th St., Queens Village, L. I.

"Johnny" and "Chick" are silent partners, but there's a lot stored up in their craniums.

CHIRGOTIS, WILLIAM GEORGE

Chick

189 Academy St., Newark, N. J.

Class Basketball, 1929-30.

The other sphinx. Also on the varsity slide rule squad.

COOKE, BORIS ALEXANDER

Cookie

191 Pennsylvania Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Treasurer, 1929; First Vice-President of The Architects, 1930; Athletic Editor, Prattonia, 1930; Glee Club, 1930.

Gifted with an education from all parts of the world, "Cookie" has an unlimited vocabulary and can use it most successfully. Magnetic personality.

OPERATION

1930

DAVIS, STANLEY F.

Dave

Olive Bridge, N. Y.

Always willing to have other fellows criticize his drawings. Only once was he seen when he was not with "Jake."

DETWILER, EDWIN H.

Det

145 So. Centre Ave., Rockville Centre, L. I.

Poker face "Det." If it were not for his neckties his presence would hardly be known.

EDWARDS, ROBERT H.

Bob

Cherry Ave., West Sayville, L. I.

"Bob" had a moustache, but after a struggle finally consented to have it trimmed by the boys. Knows all the women as a result of his outside occupations.

FEDERICI, ANTHONY C.

Tony

33 No. 8th St., Paterson, N. J.

The class musician, fiddle, guitar, or what have you. Without "Tony" the room would be almost a morgue, as his first words after lunch are always, "Did you ever hear this one?"

HOLDEN, ROBERT D.

Bob

35 Hughes Ave., Buffalo, N. Y.

Bowling, 1929; Manager, 1930. Strike! Set 'em in the other alley. Hefty "Bob" throws a wicked ball.

HOSIER, EMMETT K.

Em

59 South Clinton St., Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

"Em," with "Guy's" assistance, runs the Paramount Theatre at night. Anybody else you may see there is just for ornament. "Em" can fill up a sheet of details quicker than "Tony" can tell a joke.

JACOBSEN, A. LESLIE

Jake

568 - 54th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Soccer, 1929-30; Captain, 1930; Boxing, 1930; Fencing, 1930; Athletic Council, 1930.

The world's only back seat driver on a motorcycle. Davis is usually at the controls, but "Jake" thinks he's still on the soccer field and captains the machine.

KALTENHAUSER, JOHN H.

Kal

46 Pierce Ave., Jersey City, N. J.

Class Soccer, 1929-30; Class Basketball, 1929; Class Pool, 1929-30; Men's Club, 1930.

"Our hero" comes to school in a fog, but always is awake in time for lunch. "Kal" gets his wisecracks from Jersey City, so the fault is not entirely his own.

KISSELMAN, WILLIAM F.

Kis

12 Maplewood Rd., Belmar, N. J.

The lad from the inundated state who insists upon getting home earlier than the rest. Amasses great quantities of paper towels and possesses excellent telephone connections.

KREITNER, ANDREW S.

Andy

89 Blaine Ave., Buffalo, N. Y.

Never sits out a dance unless she insists. The Chrysler building of the class, comparatively speaking.

LEONARD, PAUL R.

Guy

8 Worrall Ave., Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Author of "Fifty ways of spelling Poughkeepsie." The other half of the Paramount night force. It's rumored "Guy's" got something very nice back home, of more interest than school-work.

LEWIS, GEORGE W.

Schell

839 East 216th St., New York, N. Y.

Prattonia Representative, 1930; Class Soccer, 1929-30; Class Basketball, 1929-30; Swimming, 1930; Glee Club, 1929-30; Class Secretary, 1929; Assistant Secretary of Architects, 1929; Class Baseball, 1929-30; Fencing, 1930; Boxing, 1929.

The original fair-haired, brainy lad. Look at the record! Mr. Munson's mathematical nemesis and a good fellow.

MAHLSTEDT, FRED JOHN

Freddie

115 East Mosholu Pkwy. North, New York, N. Y.

Assistant Manager, Varsity Basketball, 1929.

Our big letter man. We can tell when "Freddie" is here by his familiar "He-yah" at roll call.

MATJAN, WILLIAM G.

Matchin

48-32 - 210th St., Rocky Hill Rd., Bayside, L. I.

Swimming, 1929-30; Track, 1929.

Three-quarters of our swimming team. Well versed in regards to the latest novels. Our own "Menckenian Modernist."

MILLER, EDWARD C.

Ed

394 Carlton Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Soccer, 1930; Class Basketball, 1930; Class Baseball, 1930.

The center of attraction. Played soccer with water on the knee. We admire such gameness and look forward to a bigger and better halfback next year.

1930

OTIS, WALLACE

Wally

96 River Ave., Patchogue, L. I.

Varsity Basketball, 1929-30.

Can't beat this husky tenor at matching pennies. He's pretty good at basketball, too. If you doubt it just come to any of the games. "Any Christmas cards?"

REESE, HAMILTON B.

Ham

115 Elmer Ave., Schenectady, N. Y.

Senior partner of the well known firm of Hamilton and Wunder. We often wonder how the air is up at "Ham's" level.

RUECKERT, CLAYTON H.

Clayt

33 Blaine Ave., Buffalo, N. Y.

Our own class "Lothario." "Clayt" has a hard time keeping the girls away. One of the famous Buffalo twins.

RYDER, EDWARD W.

Ed

16 Brookville Ave., Ossining, N. Y.

Class Basketball, 1929-30; Class Baseball, 1929-30.

The wonder basketball player from Sing Sing. A cheery classmate and a hard worker.

SCHULZ, HERBERT W.

Herb

740 East St., New Britain, Conn.

Prattonia Representative, 1929; Assistant Treasurer of the Architects, 1930.

"Herb" is there, sincere in his work. Dignity in all its splendor, but can appreciate a good bit of humor. "Herbie" has a weakness for blind dates.

1930

SEARS, VERNON F.

Red

33 Church St., Ansonia, Conn.

Class President, 1929; Second Vice-President of The Architects, 1929.

Hugh Ferris's only red headed rival. Occasionally teaches projection to Normal Art I. Class politician, climber of skyscrapers and an all round good fellow.

SWENSON, CARL A.

Swede

98 Center St., Glenbrook, Conn.

Vice-President, 1929; Assistant Treasurer of The Architects, 1929; Class Basketball, 1929-30; Glee Club, 1929-30.

Carl must have something nice back home in Glenbrook. Our marvel week-end commuter—has never missed the 4:30 Fridays. "Swede's" our fastest draftsman.

WEICHELT, WILLIAM W.

Bill

560 Palmer Rd., Bryn Mawr Park, Yonkers, N. Y.

Class Baseball, 1929-30.

The big vacationist from Yonkers. "Bill's" curly hair gets 'em. He's partial to gaudy suspenders and has the edge on reference material.

WINNEMORE, JULLIEN FRANCIS

Winnie

100 Rosemary St., Chevy Chase, Md.

If persistence leads to perfection, "Winnie" will soon be a master at rendering in all mediums. Has more original ideas than an inventor. The one and only cut-up kid.

WUNDER, KARL A.

Karl

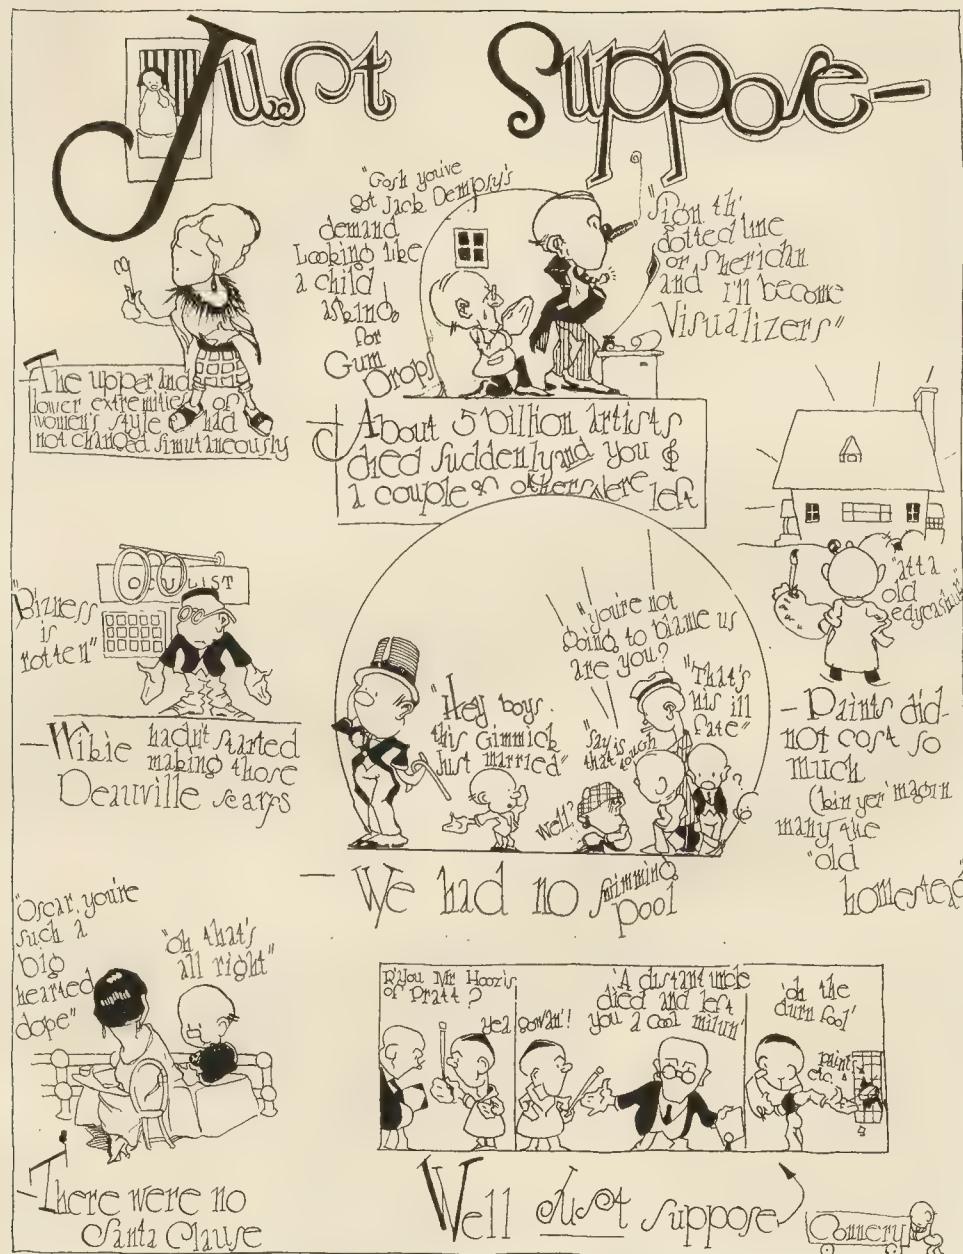

514 Hillside Ave., Hartford, Conn.

Class Baseball, 1929-30.

Karl believes the goose hangs low. "Take it easy, boys." Mr. Wester's right hand man. "Ham" and Karl are rivals in love, with Karl ahead by two dates.

ARCHITECTURE, 1932

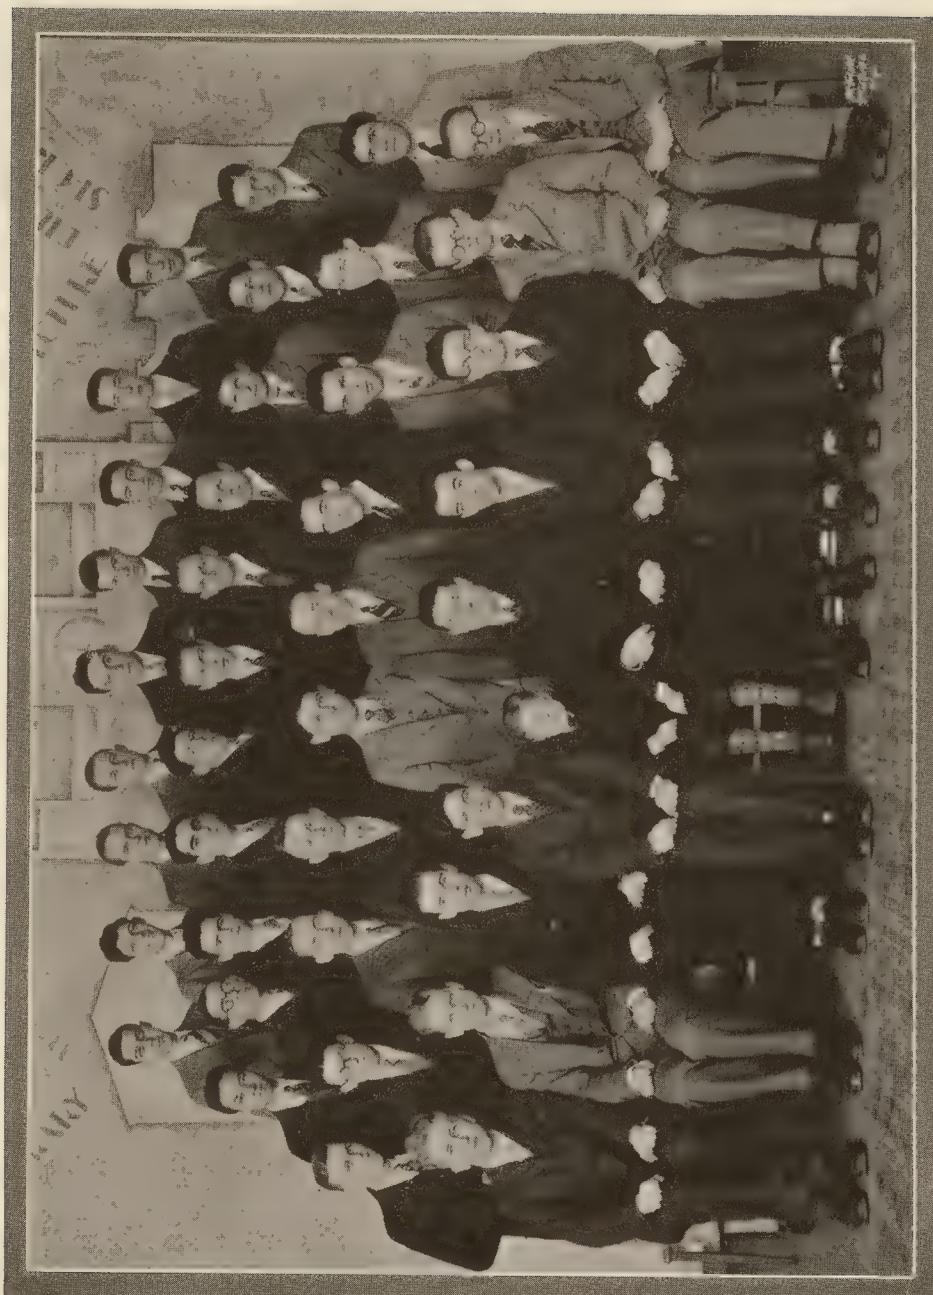

THE class of '32, under the careful tutelage of our instructors is rapidly being developed into a splendid group of architects, and in every way is doing its best to uphold and maintain the scholastic as well as social traditions of the institution. An example of the fine work we have produced since September was shown in the exhibition held in the Intimate Gallery of the school. The exhibition included work in Elements of Architecture and Freehand Drawing, and was very enthusiastically received by all those who reviewed it. At this time we wish to thank the instructors of our class for the helpful and devoted care that they have given us.

Our social activities began early in the school year with our participation in a smoker and get-together given by the Architects. The Fall Banquet was the next on our social calendar and following that was the Fall Dance. Our attendance at all these affairs and the lectures given at the school has been 100 per cent.

In athletics our prowess has been well demonstrated. We were represented on the victorious soccer team by five of our men who did much to help win the championship. We claim the manager of the Pool Team and were well represented on the Basketball, Swimming, Bowling, and Cheerleading squads. The varsity cheerleader for the coming year has also been elected from our ranks.

All in all the class of '32 is a top notcher both in scholastic and athletic enterprises.

TEACHER TRAINING 1930

JUST three short years ago we entered Pratt, eager to learn, excited about the work ahead, anxious to meet people and form new friendships. While we were dubbed "Freshmen," the Seniors welcomed us with a costume dance. That started us off with a bang, and we've been going ever since.

Among our list of activities are: A novelty dance, an advertising costume dance, a boat ride up the Hudson, and to cap the climax, a Night Club dance. This last was managed in the Greenwich Village manner with entertainment and dancing. It has been agreed that every one had a good time, including the chaperones.

At the close of our Junior year, one of our fellow members became high minded and left the sheltering portals of Pratt to be an aviator. We wish him success! At this writing, we hear that one of our members has entered second childhood, having acquired the mumps.

Reverting to serious thought, may we say that the course has been no snap, as it is usually classified. We've worked hard! Naturally, all of us have not enjoyed every course prescribed; this is only human. Our motto has always been, "Grin and bear it." We take this opportunity to express our thanks and appreciation to our instructors for their guidance and patience.

In June we pass our torch to the Juniors. Their work is to bear it high.

Really, it has been a happy stay here and deep down in our hearts we will be sorry to get out into the cruel, cold world. But now, we weary seniors say, "Farewell!"

FRATERNITY 1930

ABBOTT, KATHERINE

K

856 Park Pl., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Paletteers.

Not knowing "K" one would think her rather quiet and demure but——! We have all profited by her excellent demonstration of making spool dolls. Some day she'll own a factory.

AUSTIKALNAS, ADELLE E.

Austy

11 South St., Worcester, Mass.

Paletteers; Volley Ball, 1928; F. & A. A. Baseball, 1929. Manager of the "Club Austy." A dandy sport and lovable even tho' she has to be hustled along occasionally. "Austy," were you ever on time at noon?

BOWER, MARY CAROLINE

Carol

99 Carnegie Ave., East Orange, N. J.

Volley Ball, 1928-29; Class Secretary, 1930.

A lady, psycho-analytically bent; an inveterate reader and, incidentally, one who is always forgetting something.

BOWMAN, KATHRYN JOAN

Kay

225 Beach 148th St., Neponsit, L. I.

Basketball, 1928-29; Hockey, 1928-29; Baseball, 1929.

Here we find rare and spontaneous wit. An idea-a-minute girl. No one can tell what "Kay" will do next.

BROWN, ELIZABETH LOUISE

Betty

8733 - 164th St., Jamaica, L. I.

Fencing, 1928-29; Art Basketball, 1928-29; Hockey, 1928-29; Paletteers' Representative, 1930.

She was a nice girl and she always did her homework. If you can't find Betty—look for Tec.

1930

BUSE, ETHEL VIOLA

Busie

17 Bayside Ave., Whitestone, L. I.

Volley Ball, 1928.

She is serious about life, but full of the deuce in play. One of Ethel's weaknesses is hiking.

CARTER, JOSEPH S.

Joe

103-13 - 32nd Ave., Corona, N. Y.

Artsmen Representative, 1930; Prattonia Representative, 1930; Glee Club, 1929-30.

The Class cartoonist who carries out his theory of action by dashing to and fro—knocking over chairs and tables.

CHATHAM, MILDRED H.

Chatty

2609 Burlingame Ave., Detroit, Mich.

Class Secretary and Treasurer, 1928.

A little girl with a great temperament. Everything she makes is the "cat's!"—wooden cats, clay cats, block print cats, etc., etc.

DeROLPH, SARAH LOUISE

Sarah

617 Kenwood Ave., Dayton, Ohio

Volley Ball, 1928.

"Are you an artist or do you live in the village?"

DOLEY, PETER

Pete

117 Lloyd St., New Haven, Conn.

Prattonia Representative, 1929; Glee Club, 1929; Varsity Baseball, 1928-29-30; Varsity Basketball, 1928-29-30; Captain, 1929; Coach of Artsmen Basketball, 1928.

A big he-man from the wilds of New Haven; would rather face a lion than speak to a roomful of women.

1930

EASTMAN, ALLEN A.

Allen

146 Congress St., Milford, Mass.

Artsmen.

A male member who, it seems, is a great actor in the making. Allen plays an old man's part to perfection. How he labored on his cane. The duke steps out!

EDWARDS, JOSEPHINE E.

Jo

141 Cumberland St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"But Mr. Longyear, my idea was to make it like this." Individual—and how!

EUSTIS, JOHN J.

Jack

2849 Cortland St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Artsmen Representative, 1928-29.

The song and dance man from Brooklyn with a leaning to the modern—but getting a bit fat (as Jack says—"Right here," with appropriate gestures).

FARRELL, RUTH M.

Ruthie

151 Union Ave., Jamaica, L. I.

Hockey, 1928-29; Swimming, 1928-29; Baseball, 1929.

Our evangelist of cheer. "Ruthie" just smiles and what can you do? Frosted coffee is her favorite fruit.

FIORITO, MARIE E.

Marie

108 North Munn Ave., Newark, N. J.

Paletteers.

Marie doesn't ask for much—just air; hence we all shiver. Her would-be connections in the Diplomatic circles will be a great help in obtaining a position. Ahem—.

FUSEK, ANNE F.

Anne

1054 Seneca Ave., Ridgewood, Queens, N. Y.

Paletteers; Basketball, 1928-29; Hockey, 1928.

The inevitable "why" girl. Curiosity killed the cat, but Anne——! An important unit in the personality of our class.

GILLESPIE, FRANCES

Franny

512 - 7th Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Franny" is vivacious, impetuous and still believes in Santa Claus. She has ideals and ideas.

GITLIN, HENRY N.

Henry

458 Georgia Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Artsmen; Men's Club Representative, 1930.

The other man. Tackles anything and succeeds because he has the courage of his convictions plus brains.

GREER, DELLA MAE

Mae

528 Udell St., Indianapolis, Ind.

Paletteers.

Della is studious and hard-working, honest in her opinions and frank in her expression of them.

GRIFFEN, MARGERY

Marge

31 Kenmore Pl., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Tennis, 1927; F. & A. A. Baseball, 1928; Class Vice-President, 1928; Paletteers' Executive Board, 1929.

A quiet girl and sweet. One who thinks before she speaks. "Marge" has unusual ability in pencil rendering.

1930

GUTIERREZ, LILLIAN F.

Lil

759 Barbey St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The proud possessor of the most mispronounced cognomen in Pratt history. She has been called everything from A to Z.

HANUS, MARY A.

Mary

179-07 - 114th Rd., St. Albans, Long Island, N. Y.

General Art, 1928; Charter Member of Palettes; Costume and Scenery Committees of Carmelita and Chinese Lantern.

Dubbed "Petite" by one of our former members. Mary has an excellent fund of knowledge, also strong likes and dislikes.

HOGAN, RITA D.

Rita

63-25 Bourton St., Forest Hills W., Long Island, N. Y.

Palettes, 1928-29; Carmelita.

Little trouper from Forest Hills. We think Rita's writing a book in philosophy in Milt Gross style, with lyrics.

HOWE, BARBARA F.

Barbara

R. F. D. No. 2, Brewster, N. Y.

Class Secretary-Treasurer, 1929; Costume Committee on Chinese Lantern; Chairman, Entertainment Committee, Palettes, 1930.

Marj's other half. Barbara's main vice is, talking a blue streak. Nevertheless, here's a big-hearted girl and "Howe"!

INGLE, MARJORIE G.

Marj

96 Evergreen Ave., Hartford, Conn.

Hockey, 1927; Baseball, 1929; Palettes' Representative, 1928; Palettes' Executive Board, 1929; Women's Club Representative, 1929.

A giggler, particularly in subjects such as: Education, English and such. A very competent and willing person. Her week-ends are spent at the "Big Games."

1930

JOHANSON, FLORA I.

Flora

84 Kingsbridge Rd., Mount Vernon, N. Y.

Basketball, 1928-29; Hockey, 1928-29; Class President, 1929; Baseball, 1929.

Genial, jovial and gigantic. The girl with the perfect technique and a flare for week-end hiking.

JOHNSON, CONSTANCE C.

Connie

3106 Netherland Ave., Spuyten Duyvil, N. Y.

Volley Ball, 1929.

Peace and tranquillity characterize our Connie. Who is this Mrs. B——?

KAPPEL, SYLVIA JULIE

Julie

2401 Cortelyou Rd., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Paletteers; Baseball, 1928; Hockey, 1929; Volley Ball Captain, 1929.

Here is one who is looking at the world through many pairs of glasses. Maybe it's the optician?

KIDNEY, ELIZABETH M.

May

312 Oak Ave., Huntsville, Ala.

Class Secretary and Treasurer, 1929.

May came all the way from Alabama and lost most of her accent in transit. President of the 3 o'clock candy club.

KNAPPMANN, HELEN E.

Helen

27 Terrace Ave., Jamaica, Long Island, N. Y.

F. & A. A. Basketball, 1928-29; Costume Committee of Carmelita and Chinese Lantern; Prattonia Representative, 1930.

One girl who is earnestly endeavoring to gain weight. Helen is often misunderstood by her frankness. Has a keen sense of proportion and criticism. Her red-headed personality grows upon one.

LEVIS, ELIZABETH S.

Betty

30-34 - 35th St., Astoria, Long Island, N. Y.

Paletteers.

A firm believer in "Boop-Boop-a-Doopism" and such. Betty's a darling girl and she really does have serious moments occasionally.

METCALFE, DOROTHEA

Dottie

42 Riverview Ave., Rutherford, N. J.

Paletteers' Representative, 1928; Baseball, 1928.

Talk about originality in songs, Dotty has them all beat. Pratt's best example of a "Gibson Girl."

MOLLOY, MURIEL K.

Molly

324 Bainbridge St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Paletteers; Scenery for Chinese Lantern; Glee Club, 1930.

Nicknamed Molly by one of our instructors. Remarkable sense of "roundness" in everything. Muriel lost her distinction when she bobbed her hair. Our Outdoor Girl.

NOBLE, LEAH M.

Leah

Edwards, N. Y.

Basketball, 1928; Paletteers.

Leah is very sincere and serious in her work but she has a sense of humor at all times. Cynthia's side-kick.

PAYNTER, ELEANOR A.

Payntie

113 Park Rd., West Hartford, Conn.

One of Pratt's little "Paynters" with a real social spirit. Detail in decoration identifies her work.

1930

PHILLIPS, SOPHIA C.

Sophie

863 E. 8th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Sophisticated Sophie is strictly brunette. She is our class travel guide for Brooklyn and New York.

POETZ, LOUISE M.

Lou

1957 E. 27th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Paletteers Representative, 1929; Glee Club. Her sparkling personality makes itself evident from the start. Lou is given to much giggling but is a good student nevertheless.

REYNOLDS, CYNTHIA G.

Dagsboro, Del.

Paletteers.

Cynthia hails from "the garden spot beyond compare, known as the state of Delaware." It is said "a man cannot live without a sense of humor," Cynthia is indeed living well.

RICHTER, MARIE K.

Marie

37-33 Warren St., Jackson Heights, L. I., N. Y.

Hockey, 1928-29; Captain Basketball, 1928; Paletteers; Carmelita.

Our own Clara Bow, the student of higher psychology, always in pursuit of "it."

ROBINSON, LORA LEE

Loralee

317 N. Boulevard, Richmond, Va.

"Who ca — rs, when borrowing isn't so troublesome," says our spirit of the sunny south.

SCHAEFFLER, ELIZABETH

Bets

38 Webster Terrace, New Rochelle, N. Y.

Paletteers.

A new arrival in our midst, with whom we are not very well acquainted. Excels in wood and metal work.

SHELDON, ELEANOR

Minetto, N. Y.

Paletteers.

A very serious and industrious girl who appears much older than she really is. Eleanor is a graduate of Design 1926, hence she carries off all the honors in our class.

SMITH, EVELYN ANNE

Smitty

72 Rockaway Ave., Rockville Centre, N. Y.

Vice-President of class 1928; Captain of Volley Ball; Paletteers; Swimming Meet.

The girl who always does the right thing at the right time. For further information refer to Flora.

SMOLEV, HENRIETTA

5419 Twelfth Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Paletteers.

The class questionnaire. Her favorite study seems to be Education. Our Whistler of classic extracts.

SONOYAMA, MARGARET T.

609 W. 196th St., New York, N. Y.

Stage design for Chinese Lantern; Assistant Paletteers Publicity Committee, 1930.

Her tender age keeps us from telling all her accomplishments. The class youngster and exponent of Dynamic Symmetry.

PRATTONIA 1930

SPENCER, ETHEL M.

1546 Rockaway Parkway, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Captain F. & A. A. Basketball, 1928-29; Secretary-Treasurer Student Council, 1929-30; Assistant Business Manager, Prattonia, 1929-30; Secretary Paletteers, 1930; Class President, 1928-29-30.

Ethel may be English, but—. An all round good sport and always willing to lend a helping and competent hand. That's why she's our President.

STEDMAN, ELIZABETH M.

Steddy

165 Hawthorne St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Prattonia Representative, 1928; Paletteers Publicity Committee, 1928-29; Fencing Club, 1927-28; Hockey; Basketball; Volley Ball; Baseball; Swimming.

Our class Touchstone. Even serious lessons could be turned into an uproar by her humor.

SUSSILLO, PAULINE R.

Pauline

527 Tinton Ave., Bronx, N. Y.

Basketball, 1928; Swimming, 1929; Glee Club Pianist, 1929-30.

Some day, years hence we'll hear a revival of "Moanin' Low" by Pauline.

TOFT, MINNIE MARGRATA

Mina

172 Rector St., Perth Amboy, N. J.

Class Vice-President, 1929; Hockey; Baseball. The Volga boatman—"and say—" She fosters the principle of strict discipline without force.

TORDIK, GLADYS FRANCES

Tordy

3029 - 49th St., Long Island City, N. Y.

Basketball, 1929; Hockey, 1928; Paletteers Representative, 1929; Fencing, 1929.

Always smiling and never blue. Some church is fortunate to have Tordy as one of its workers. How about camp, Tordy?

GRADUATION
1930

TRENCHARD, SARA L.

Sally

3956 Locust St., Sunnyside Gardens, L. I., N. Y.

Paletteers Representative, 1929-30; F. & A. A. Baseball, 1929.

Very well read in all deep books. "I distinctly remember"—her favorite saying. Orchids and American Beauties are her choicest flowers.

WADSWORTH, ETHOL HUGHES

255 Prospect St., Ridgewood, N. J.

Subtle humor, a very deep individual. May the memory of her success at the Wilton Art Exhibit guide her scribbles forever.

WEEKS, EDNA

Weeksie

157 Court St., Auburn, Me.

Class President, 1928-29; Vice-President, 1930; Secretary and Treasurer Student Council, 1928.

A possessor of rare executive ability and force. A splash—a flood—a water-color—a la Weeksie!

Arlie

53 Purdy St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Hockey; Basketball; Paletteers; Women's Club Representative; Carmelita.

Our class warbler goes "shushing" along with her usual "Gee, I don't feel like doing a bit of work today."

WERNER, FRANCES L.

Fran

East River, Conn.

Paletteers; Basketball, 1928; Chinese Lantern; Glee Club, 1930; Class Secretary, 1930.

On account of her modesty, Fran's cleverness is not apparent. A good sport and one of the sweetest girls we know.

TEACHER TRAINING — REGULAR, 1931

OUR second year is without a doubt outstanding not only for school activities, but also for social accomplishments.

First, however, may the highlights of our Freshmen Days be recounted: the first and original Christmas Party, next the most enjoyable trip to Indian Point, and then the Farewell Banquet in June. (The latter was indeed a great success for who can not enjoy a tasty meal followed by scintillating after dinner speeches?)

As Junior Regulars (regular Juniors it is hoped), there were the accepted Pratt traditions to uphold. Nobly and spiritedly the class accepted this responsibility. Our first social success of the season was the "Get-Acquainted Party," given to the Freshmen Normal Class.

After becoming acclimated by hard work and earnest effort, the first term was concluded with a Christmas surprise party arranged by our alert and energetic class officers. It was most unique; fine homemade cake, generously donated by the girls of the class who take cooking seriously; ice-cream, served from the freezer; entertainment given by our prize trio of three progressive young men; and presents, secured through the auspices of "the Five and Ten" and an unnamed committee;—all these things contributed towards making our second annual party most complete.

Our numbers have greatly diminished. In fact, out of an incoming class of thirty-three there are but twenty-three now enrolled. Several have taken up other professions, one left because of poor health, and three consented to become "Mrs." Thus our ranks may be thinned but the Teacher Training Class of '31 can be depended upon to finish with colors high and a record to be envied.

FRATIONIA 1930

TEACHER TRAINING — CREDIT, 1931

In September of 1929, they asked, "What sort of human specimen is that?" "It wanders like a freshman around the maze of hallways and strangely numbered classrooms of 'our' institute." Call him a "freshie," and you will swear to be careful not to address him as such again. He will inform you emphatically, that he is a Junior, no less. But still we can't see why he is not well acclimated by this time—until somewhere we hear of these newcomers whom they call Junior Credits; students who have wisely come to join the other struggling artists at the Institute, and complete in two slave-driven years, their training in teaching.

To those who don't as yet know us, we offer a perfect description for our recognition. We all possess that well read, bored look, and peer down upon the rest of the world through huge tortoise rim "specs." We wear smocks of all colors, full of gummy modeling clay, yet lacking decoration from the spoils of water color and oils. We're always carrying burdensome History, Psychology and English text books, and large thick notebooks. If in rooms ten or fifty-seven you see a class which meets this description, it's sure to be the Junior Credits, "normal" students.

Even if we do make the rest of the school laugh, we're happy in our drudgery, and are glad that we are allowed to stay here.

TEACHER TRAINING, 1932

THE illustrious, conscientious class of 1932 is now well on its way, to success, we hope. They have met their nemesis in the shape of a series of infinitesimal hieroglyphics on the third floor bulletin. We are still all together—"one for all and all for one"—and Mecca, our Junior year, seems inevitable. Glancing backward over centuries, to that balmy day in September, one laughs at his trepidations and doubts; and with a slightly sophisticated shrug recalls the expectant waiting in that "ole tuition line," the mix-up about those pesky instruments of Mephistopheles, the locker keys. Many things return to us—our idle wonder of who that attractive girl we decided to dislike immediately was, if Miss Hanks actually meant that we should labor that first day—when we would gallop around, seeing our new Alma Mater.

We recall with surfeited bliss the tea the Juniors gave us, and the coffee, too. The little slips we wore, like tags on puppies, the Junior bards with their harmonizing and "Eddie" at the piano impressed the unsophisticates sufficiently.

We discover with surprised satisfaction that we have several feminine athletes, in fact we have three embryo Olympic athletes on the champion basketball team.

Even the renowned Henry cannot compete with our versatile actors and actresses who oblige on request with renditions in Russian, French or "American"—slightly off tune but this deficiency is made up by the famous balcony scene from Romeo and Juliet and impersonations of Rin-tin-tin, Greta Garbo, Lon Chaney and others.

The class of 1932 seems to be endowed with a singularly strong class spirit—a spirit of fairness and cooperation. On to 1931 Freshman!

ILLUSTRATION, 1930

WE have studied art at Pratt Institute for three years, but lessons have been learned in addition to those in the curriculum. In our little sphere at school we have seen all the mechanism of a world in miniature. We have noted character, had our petty intrigues, seen the great and small in spirit, learned social adaptability: spirits and characters have passed us with the mutability of cloud formations; some sunlit, some moonlit, some laden with storm. We have seen, in miniature, an empire during a change in regime. We have seen the overthrow of old methods, old materials, old viewpoints, to make way for the New Idea; seen the New Idea with the intolerance of blooded youth, crushing the tired, toil-worn old in drastic annihilation.

"The old order changeth, yielding place to new."

We have seen changes in artistic development, attitude, personality; and in manners too subtle to specify. Friendships have been formed, confidences gained, sentinel guiders to be remembered, if we are of the wise. We have grown in nescientness, and the transition from youth to our modicum of maturity has been accomplished with its correlative experience, meaningless in itself, but wholesome and strong for our superstructure of austere reality.

It is difficult to avoid the sentimental in so intimate a reminiscence. Nevertheless, certain things have remained with us after the dissolving of the years which smack suspiciously of the sentimental: the warmth of a personality, the stimulation of a keen mind, the grace of a figure, the nostalgia for familiar rooms and corridors and their associations.

ADVERTISING DESIGN, 1931

JUST what could be said about a group of sophisticated second year students? Particularly a class of Art students, who may be ruled by temperament, and that infinitely fine and evasive spirit that goes to make up the life of an artist. Whatever it is that may be said about this class must certainly be something good, and surely worth being proud of.

At the start of the year there were many surprises in the curriculum for this division and for the first time in the history of the Institute the second year group has been divided into two sections. Our division boasting the title of "Advertising Design," hence, the commercial and business-like atmosphere.

Student activities have always been well represented by us and many of them were under the direction and leadership of men and women of our class.

We have taken a great pride in our work, and certainly wish to express our sincere gratitude to the instructors who have all been so generous.

So much for seriousness, and, of course, we also have our comedy and our comedians; some of whom are naturally so and others learned in comics. We all take part in and enjoy these diversions. Even the occasional singing of melodies is really good, excessive art spirit that must find expression. And so it goes until our masters of line or tone or spaces may again harness these spirits.

Till the end we shall never forget that high falsetto voice saying, "Don't forget to put away your still life;" or the commercial man from points North saying, "I met a young lady last night and—."

In short, we have enjoyed wonderfully our past two years and look forward with keen anticipation to the last and best year of our school life.

PICTORIAL ILLUSTRATION, 1931

WE are, in most respects, like every other class—but we like to think we're different. There are only four languishing ladies and ten appreciative young men, but each one is an individualist from the top of his tam to the tip of his turned-up Moroccan slippers. We have specialists in every technique and medium—each determined to carve for himself a niche in the world of art. (A nice, comfortable niche, with plenty of room to move about.) Of course, the clamoring art dealers will have to wait another year before they can shower us with assignments, but in a relatively short time we will be launching our barks upon the sea of commercialism—and we feel that we can navigate pretty well. (There's a brand new metaphor for you!)

We don't confine ourselves entirely to the study of art while in class. There are all sorts of interesting discussions going on while we smudge up perfectly good white paper. Certain members of the class seem deeply interested in philosophy, and feel that they must expound their views, at regular intervals. There are several ways of stopping these outbursts, but the generally accepted method is that of taking a sponge—preferably damp—and forcing it down the offending esophagus. But that has its drawbacks. Sometimes the sponge is swallowed, and that necessitates the purchase of another one, with the attendant expense.

While on the subject of nuisances, we might mention that there are certain members of our class who are laboring under the delusion that they can sing. Queer sounds exude from them occasionally. Often two or three cry out together, in what is commonly called "close" or "suffocating" harmony.

Strange to say, that though we are one of the smallest classes in the school, three of our members are Artsmen officers. Modesty forbids further comment.

In closing—and in all seriousness—we want to express our sincere appreciation to the ever patient instructors who have labored so earnestly in an effort to bring out whatever of the artist there is in us.

May their efforts not go unrewarded!

HOW STRANGE

How strange it is that now,
When Man stands breathless on the brink
Of pure adventure, more fantastic, yet more real
Than any of time gone by,
Peering into the atom's heart,
Grasping stars, making Space part of a machine;
How strange it is that now,
When Man dynamic overspreads the earth
With the omnipotence of his will
And girdles seas and continents
With laughing ease. How strange
That in this breathless plunge
Into an unknown future,
Wilder in significance than all the past,
Bidding a man retreat into his soul to ponder where
And why and how our lives shall be
When tomorrow's thinning veil is burst;
How strange, with all these things,
My neighbor should spend his Sunday
Pushing a lawnmower and trimming a hedge
With such meticulous precision.

WE came, we saw, but will we conquer? In the beginning, we probably had the same thoughts, the same experiences as the many freshmen classes before us have had. As we complete this first year of Pratt life, it has become a second home to us; for it houses for many hours a day friends dear to us. It is here that we do the work that is nearest to our hearts. For most of us the work was, at first, so new and different that it took some time for us to become accustomed to it. Now, we feel that our dream ships are coming into port, that the shadowy hopes of our high school days are beginning to take form in reality.

Ours is a congenial group, all bound together by that great tie—a common interest. Together we have managed to exist under the Ferguson regime, reveled under the collegiate Blakeslee, and striven to cope with the Longyearian precision. On entering our classroom, you might hear the crooning voice of our Helen Morgan—Ann Schabbehar. Always at her side is our impersonator, Dora Abrahams, doing a Matisse or a Van Gaugh, with the rest of the class, always her loyal supporters, applauding vigorously. Immediately you are won by the feminine wiles.

Now at the close of our first year, we take away with us many fond memories and look forward to the succeeding years with anticipation. Every day here at Pratt has made us feel that we have gained something more in experience and judgment that will remain with us throughout our lives.

SEPTEMBER 23, 1929: a great day! Yes sir, for on that momentous occasion there gathered together from the important cities of the world—also Hartford and Buffalo—the local Michael Angelos, which brought us to the present state of affairs, or Illustration 1A, class of '32. We soon became one big, happy family, whose aim was to be an honor to Pratt. Having elected a distinguished group of class officers including, with great foresight, "a wurra fine wee laddie" to guard our treasure chests, we started out to make history.

We were well represented on the Artsmen soccer team, which came in third in the interclass tournament. Many presented themselves as candidates for the fencing squad, where they "didst joust and tilt" to their hearts' content. Four of the boys went out for the Varsity Basketball Team, but having round trip tickets, returned shortly, sadder and wiser. Oh well! The field was crowded anyway.

Our social life was limited because of our bashful complex, but lately a few of the more daring young blades have been seen carrying portfolios, which were not their own. Cheer up, girls!

We soon became familiar with our new surroundings. We knew a "gamut of color" when we saw one; a dynamic trellis became everyday language, and finally, we managed to track down and capture two or three elusive vanishing points. We had also thoroughly examined and criticised every picture on the walls and came to the happy conclusion that we were as good artists as the best of them. Everything just clicked!

Under the efficient guidance of our instructors, it was soon a case of: "we came, we saw, and were conquered," for we found in them, nothing but cheerfulness and willingness to solve our problems and to strengthen our loyalty to our Alma Mater.

WE'RE here because we're here. Not a bad little place, eh boys? Well, we'll have to do our best to stimulate the art world, and to put our class on the map.

On our second day, within the walls of traditional PRATT INSTITUTE, there was an election of officers, under the auspices of the second year "BIG SHOTS," and although we didn't know who we were voting for everything turned out O. K.

Our division stepped into the limelight immediately, by putting three men on the Artsmen Soccer Team and added further laurels when the basketball season opened, by placing two men on the Varsity squad. We are holding our breath until the Baseball season opens, when we expect to startle the HONORABLE DAUGHTERS AND SONS OF PRATT, by placing at least eight or nine men on that team.

As for our classes, we soon learned the ways of our instructors (or they learned ours, we don't know which) and everything ran quite smoothly after the first few weeks. We have tried to remember to get sparkle in our designs, atmosphere in our casts, G's in our anatomy (only first year Illustration men will appreciate that), proper folding of drapes in water color, two stars in lettering, lines with variations in costumed figure, and last but not least, a well balanced diet. If we have succeeded in all these we are surely in line to be baby Stahlhuts when we grow up.

We want to thank our instructors for the fine attention they have given us, during our first year, and to especially wish our Anatomy instructor the best of luck with his new work at Pratt Institute.

SAYS the dictionary: "History—a written narrative of events; a tale; a story; usually connected with philosophical explanation of their causes." We suppose that applies even to class histories, with particular stress upon the word "story." As for a philosophical explanation of the causes for the actions of the class, such a thing is obviously beyond our grasp. These actions just simply happen, and no genius can hope to explain them.

The first year was spent in accustoming ourselves to a new environment and new people. All seemed strange and perhaps a bit queer—except—of course our own dear selves. There was a certain determination to get the newness off smocks, paint boxes and the like, so that we wouldn't be considered new at the game.

The second year—the halfway mark. A certain keen joy at not being a new comer. We were used to one another, and there seemed almost a bond of friendship in the class in general.

This, our last year, has been filled with a combination of several things. Each one's peculiarities drawing them much closer in the bond of the class. The professional jealousy—yes—really. Looking forward to the success that is bound to be waiting for us just around the corner.

The imitation sheep skin, a baccalaureate sermon, and all is over. Just another design class graduated, but the experience we have acquired, good and bad, during these past three years, means "Pratt" to us.

CLASS OFFICERS

GERTRUDE SANIAL, President

DORIS TAYLOR, Vice-President

EDWARD ADAMS, Secretary and Treasurer

ADAMS, CHARLES EDWARD

Allie

Sunrise Terrace, R. D. No. 4, Binghamton, N. Y.

Class Representative for Scholarship Fund, 1928; Class Treasurer, 1930.

Old English, with a leaning toward the Orient, Buddhism in particular. Good humored, conscientious, nose glasses and a complete modern filing system. "Allie" has a future.

BEASLEY, ETHELYN

Siss

405 N. Geneva St., Ithaca, N. Y.

Prattonia Representative, 1930.

Extraordinary and wit supremé (with Russian dressing). The big reason why Cornell is at Ithaca. Her name is roared in chorus more times than any other known,—Siss, Boom, Bah!

CASABONNE, MARY M.

Casey

R. D. No. 1, Cohoes, N. Y.

Volleyball, 1929.

"Casabonne's week-ends,"—cures for all ills. Mary dotes on singing in one key,—if she could only remember which one.

CURSONS, BEATRICE H.

Bee

124 Tillinghast Pl., Buffalo, N. Y.

Class Secretary, 1928-29-30; Women's Club Representative, 1928; Chairman of Educational Committee of Palettes, 1930; Basketball, 1928-29; Hockey, 1928-29.

A Palettes barker, to say nothing of the bite. Why the Long Island Railroads are a success! Where away this weekend, "Bee"?

DONNELLEY, WILLIAM B.

Bill

650 W. 177th St., New York, N. Y.

Class President, 1929; Chinese Lantern, 1929.

A protégé of the newer and greater arts. "Bill" hasn't decided whether to work, start a correspondence school, or just to let the mustache prove itself.

WORCESTER STATE COLLEGE
1930

GILMOUR, LILLIE

232 Bay 35th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Volleyball, 1929.

A pillar of the church, and incidently, why ministers come to Brooklyn. We all know her favorite, "I've wrecked it," but doubt her ever having very serious troubles.

Lillith

HEBBLETHWAITE, ELIZABETH

19 Elm Pl., Nutley, N. J.

Hockey, 1928-29, Captain, 1929; Basketball, 1928-29, Captain, 1929.

"Babie's" luck isn't entirely in Vermont. At least, so we surmise. Remember the story about the rabbit and the tortoise—well—"Betty" is the tortoise.

Babie

ISAACS, ANNE H.

Anne

172 Gilbert Ave., New Haven, Conn.

Tennis, 1928-29; Glee Club, 1929-30.

Years may erase many memories, but we haven't a chance of forgetting "Anne's," "You can't fool me, you're an elephant," as well as her never failing words of praise.

Callous

JANES, CALLA V.

1211 Baldwin St., Waterbury, Conn.

Hockey, 1928; Basketball, 1929; Paletteers' Representative, 1929; Assistant Chairman of Decoration Committee of Paletteers, 1930.

Our Connecticut Yankee, noted for her trick haircut and beautiful hands. No wonder she is never late, she comes from Waterbury, where clocks are clocks.

JOHNSON, MARJORIE E.

Peggy

525 Oakwood Court, St. Petersburg, Fla.

Volleyball, 1929; Swimming, 1929.

The immigrant of palm groves and sub-divisions of Florida. "Peg" belies the notions that they have alligators and tornadoes down there.

MARKLEY, AVICE

Avie

97 Poplar Ave., Hackensack, N. J.

A keen little half pint of "Jersey Spirits," balmy withal. Lectures and research are the things she is fondest of. Southern week-ends, ah me!

MORGAN, VIRGINIA C.

Ginny

833 Hamilton Ave., Trenton, N. J.

Hockey, 1928-29; Volleyball, 1929. Expert commuter from Trenton. "She used to come at ten o'clock but——" Can laugh and cry at the same time—and does. Properly named "Oh, Lordy!"

NELSON, IRMA T.

Irmaty

Roslyn, L. I., N. Y.

Volleyball, 1928-29.

Once upon a time there was a little girl with two weaknesses,—Carl, and apples. So she married one and ate the other. Our "Irmaty" would.

NONNENMACHER, CARL E.

Carl

95 North Central Ave., Ramsey, N. J.

"Beau Brummel" of Decorators, and extraordinary draftsman. We are greatly concerned for he is taking up Opera, quite seriously.

OSTHOFF, OLIVE

Olive

650 Queen Anne Rd., Teaneck, N. J.

Basketball, 1928; Volleyball, 1928-29; Prattonia Representative, 1929; Women's Club Representative, 1929; Class Vice-President, 1929; Chairman of Decoration Committee for Paletteers, 1930.

Dimples and blushes with an ungovernable yen for cabriole legs. You would never guess that she is a Teanecker. She put the calm in calmness.

PATERSONIA 1930

PATERSON, MARJORIE E.

Marj

510 Argyle Ave., Montreal, Quebec, Canada

Hockey, 1928-29.
Scrambled geography! A bit O'Bonnie Scotch from Montreal.

PECK, MIRIAM

Mim

22 Montowese St., Hartford, Conn.

A newcomer to the class. We can't count the different courses she has taken at Pratt.

SANIAL, GERTRUDE

Gahrtrude

180 - 81st St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Basketball, 1928-29; Class President, 1930.
Our president! Far famed for her eyes and perfume. A fast worker in every sense of the word—and, oh yes, that laugh!

SCHLEY, GRACE M.

Schlee

36 Lenox Rd., Rockville Center, N. Y.

Carmelita, 1928; Basketball, 1928-29.
The original John Held, Jr., girl, class water-colorist. If smiles were horses, "Schlee" would be a Ben Hur himself.

SCHOLZE, ALICE R.

Aleece

82-47 Saint James Ave., Elmhurst, N. Y.

Volley Ball, 1928-29; Paletteers.
Fragile, but this doesn't weaken her distaste for two things, and all seven of these are street cars. She certainly can tickle the ivories.

GRATTONIA 1930

SOLOMON, LOTTIE C.

Lottie

1735 - 47th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Hockey, 1928-29.

"Lottie Lollerman" for short. We expect a bald headed appearance any day, just to prove her versatility at hair cuts.

TAYLOR, DORIS G.

Duras

815 Ocean Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Women's Club Representative, 1928; Carmelita, 1928; Basketball, 1928; Volley Ball Captain, 1929; Chairman of Palettes' Educational Committee, 1929; Vice-President, Palettes', 1930; Class Vice-President, 1930.

Master mind of the foursome. A combination of good work and popularity. Also a specialist in nursery rhymes.

TILLEY, JOHN M.

John

1356 Northampton St., Holyoke, Mass.

Class Treasurer, 1928-29.

Our idea of paradox, an S. and T. man turned artist. He always keeps us busy deciding whether he is arriving or leaving. His motto is, "Mum's the word."

DESIGN, 1931

SHYLY emerging from our first year struggles with "interesting edges and rubber cement" to second year students, we have tried to live up to all that second year students should be. Sophistication and ambition have combined to make our classes very worth-while.

Although two from our class were lost to General Art, we were amply rewarded by having many more than that number added to our designing family, making it bigger and better than ever.

Fate, in the person of Mr. Boudreau and individual ambitions, has divided our class into two divisions, Interior Decoration and Industrial Design. Harmony, both in class work and voice, is still in evidence.

Two notable exhibitions have marked our second year and whatever spirit we have put in our work has been of the best under the excellent guidance and with the help of Mr. Phillip Pratt. For this we give our thanks, one and all.

At the beginning of the year a dance was given to the first year class and they, in turn, gave us a dance. Both were thoroughly enjoyed.

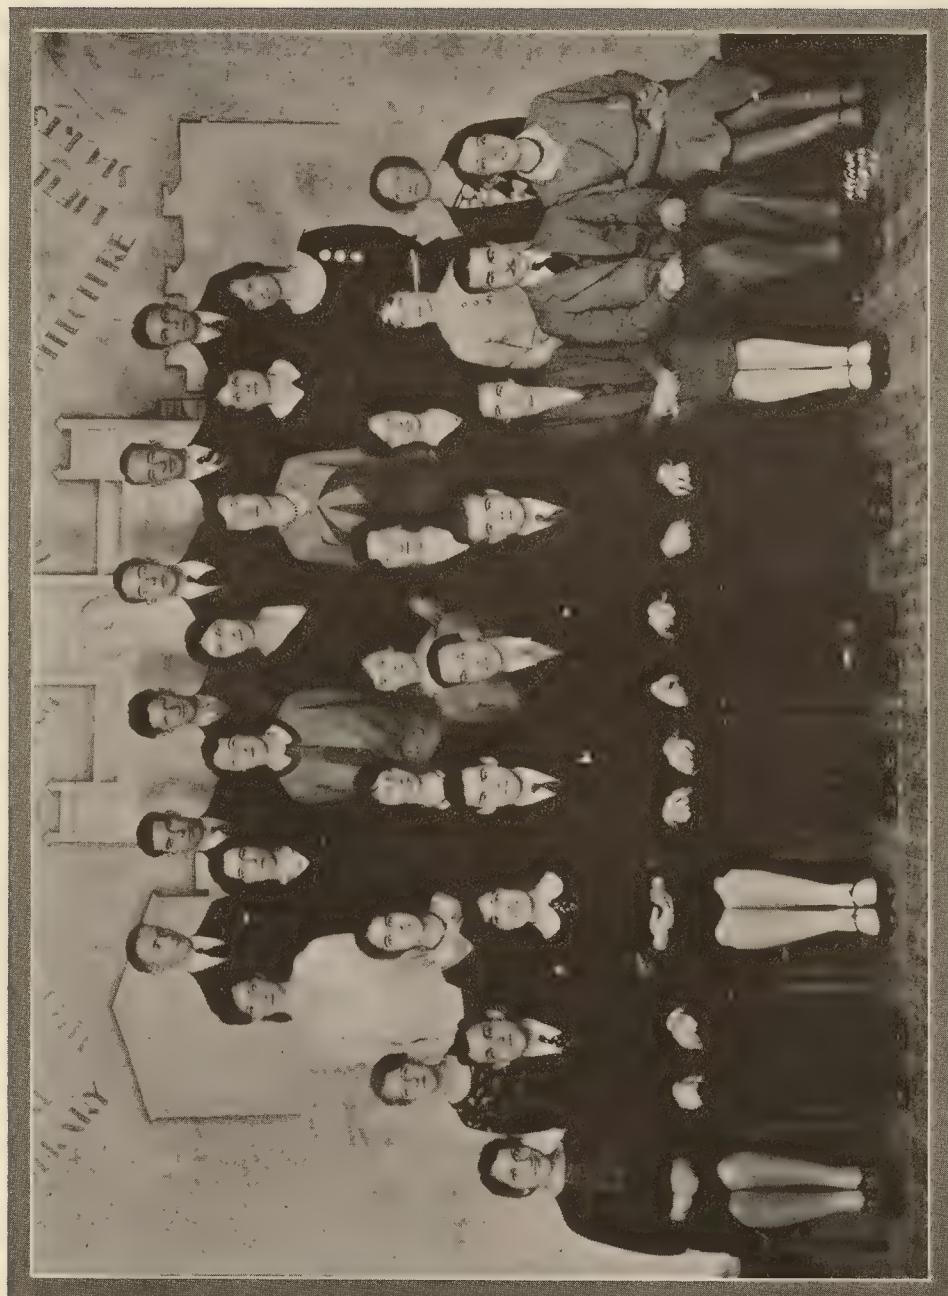

The class looks forward to its third and last year with eagerness to work and make itself seniors, not only in name, but in accomplishments.

THE great ship, "September," set sail on the 23rd into the vast sea of mystery. Who knows what may happen before we reach port once more? Some took this voyage to be an easy one, not knowing that there are many perils in the sea of life.

On this ship we have students from far and near. They come from the Pacific coast, the sunny shores of the South, and from the big and little towns near by.

After we had started our journey our senior mates entertained us socially by giving us a dance of welcome. We are only freshmen but find a little time for sports. Some fair maidens played on the F. and A. A. hockey and volley ball teams. One or two of our men went out for soccer; but soon the swimming team will break water—then watch us go.

We soon returned our respects by giving our senior mates a dance, for we were looking forward to a better acquaintance with our fellow students and faculty.

Then, out of a clear sky, a squall came hurrying toward us—the "grades." As they drew near, some feared their journey was about to end. Then all was calm again. Christmas vacation and our first term was looked back upon as one leg of our journey ended.

With our destiny before us, we face the wind and storms with a smile, to battle the hardships that may prevail. We are looking forward to reaching high ranks in this world of ugliness; to creating spots of beauty for generations to come.

All on board have high hopes of making port safely at the close of three years. When we depart we hope to become benefactors to the world of art.

FASHION ILLUSTRATION 1930

You know it's quite the modern thing in fiction and in plays,
To keep the reader in suspense until the final page,
And now, that our turn has come to quote our history,
It seems to me appropriate to create some mystery.

The characters involved in this, are Fashion graduates,
And each one is exactly like the one she emulates.

They seemed a little timid when they first came here to school,

But since, they've run the gauntlet and broken every rule,
They found it rather difficult to keep themselves supplied,
But now they borrow religiously, and are teachers horrified?

And then they had it said of them, that all they did was chat
But you should hear some others in the F. and A. A. at Pratt.

And now that your attention has carried you this far,
We'll tell on this occasion "le secret particulier."

One single, lonely fellow, adventurous and bold,
Has made his way successfully in spite of what's been told.

We've related all our history that there is for us to tell,
And now we wish untold success to the other grads, as well.

FRATIONIA 1930

CLARK, MARION L.

Marion

219 Mohawk Ave., Scotia, N. Y.

Basketball, 1929; Class President, 1929; Class Secretary, 1930.

Attractive, talented, sophisticated. A charming personality, a true artist and a spark of mischief.

CULLINAN, JUNE A.

Red

230 North Main St., Stonington, Conn.

Basketball, 1929; Hockey, 1929.

Flirtatious, imitable, volatile. The gym has a strange fascination for our petite red-head—we wonder why?

FALCON, ELEANOR L.

El

265 Vanderbilt Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class President, 1930; Class Secretary, 1929; Fencing Team, 1929; Basketball, 1929; Paletteers.

Suave, friendly, candid. Our president is of a sweet nature, but dangerous to quarrel with, since she has learned the art of fencing.

HOFFMAN, RUTH E.

Ruthie

1103 Milan Rd., Sandusky, Ohio

Basketball, 1928; Volley Ball, 1929.

Conscientious, independent, placid. Considerable good humor, a pinch of seriousness, much generosity, a dash of song and you have Ruth.

JENNY, ERNA M.

Erna

47 Virginia Ave., Dumont, N. J.

Volley Ball, 1929; Swimming, 1929.

Jolly, sedulous, juvenile. Speed in Fashion plus "present" her specialty. Well liked by everyone.

1930

KOCH, MILDRED

Mil

387 Masten St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Paletteers; Basketball, 1929.

Persistent, quiet, serious. Success is certainly within reach of our earnest student and hard worker.

MANBERG, MOLLY

Molly

931 Troy Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Paletteers.

Industrious, creative, generous. Always in quest of a quiet spot and peace in which to work. A good sport.

MORRISON, DOROTHY M.

Dot

101 State St., Seneca Falls, N. Y.

Paletteers.

Serene, indifferent, friendly. Now we see her, now we don't. Excellent in work when once started.

NIEBUHR, ANITA G.

Nita

196 Clinton Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Hockey, 1928; Swimming, 1929; Paletteers' Representative, 1928; Class Vice-President, 1930.

Efficient, clever, ambitious. A shining example of perfection, with a personality and ability difficult to surpass.

OLSON, FLORENCE M.

Flo

229 - 96th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Volley Ball, 1928; Hockey, 1929; Paletteers; Class Treasurer, 1930.

Peppy, lovable, indifferent. A heart as golden as her blonde hair. Popular with everyone and an all 'round good sport.

GRADUATION

OSBORN, ALICE JOYCE

Button

231 West 152nd St., New York City

Class Treasurer, 1928; Hockey, 1928; Palettes; Women's Club Hostess, 1930.

Humorous, witty, hilarious. Prankish, lanky and the life of the class. A perfect "Peter Pan."

PENNIE, IMOGENE

Gene

204 Washington Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Palettes' Representative, 1929; Palettes' Treasurer, 1930.

Dainty, placid, feminine. The type of girl you'd choose to go with lavender and lace.

REED, ALICE

Alice

32 Morton St., Andover, Mass.

Palettes; Volley Ball, 1928; Basketball, 1929.

Coy, sweet, unassuming. A charming smile, quiescent plus personality and you have Alice.

SCHERR, HARYETT M.

Hat

143 Brexton Rd., Garden City, L. I.

Basketball, 1929.

Athletic, imitable, diverting. Our other classmate who is interested in the gym. We wonder, can we be missing something?

SECHRIST, RALPH J.

Ralph

7 West St., Warren, Pa.

Artsmen; Chinese Lantern, 1929.

Original, jovial, talented. Noted for "drawing" women. A likable chap, whose suits are often sponged in class.

SELLERS, FRANCES L.

Fran

208 Waverly St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Basketball, 1928; Hockey, 1929; Volley Ball, 1929; Women's Club Representative, 1929; Prattonia Representative, 1930.

Loyal, sincere, practical. Our blonde of a dual nature. When it's work, she works, and when it's play, she plays. And how!

SMITH, NORA E.

Norie

360 Woodland St., Hartford, Conn.

Class President, 1928; Class Secretary, 1928; Associate Editor, Prattonia, 1929-30.

Agreeable, placid, good-natured. A delightful combination of bubbling laughter, perfect sense of humor and an abundance of ability.

SPALTER, SYLVIA

Snilly

166 Barbour St., Hartford, Conn.

Class Treasurer, 1928; Class Vice-President, 1929; Palettes; Student Council, 1929; Women's Club Representative, 1930; Baseball, 1929.

Dashing, frank, scintillating. A personification of everything typically fine. One whom we very much admire.

VOGEL, FLORENCE E.

Floie

2013 Memorial Dr., S. E., Atlanta, Ga.

Class Treasurer, 1929; Basketball, 1929; Fencing Team, 1929.

Démure, quiescent, likable. The second member of our class who is accomplished with foils. From the old south, but we believe the north is more interesting.

WILDING, MARGARET B.

Peggy

66 Park St., Malone, N. Y.

Palettes; Palettes Lecture Committee, 1929-30. Retiring, sincere, smart. So friendly and sociable, yet she hasn't a rival when it comes to mystery.

YRATTONIA

1930

WOWK, KATE

Kate

65 Hopkins Ave., Jersey City, N. J.

Baseball, 1929; Hockey, 1928; Paletteers; Paletteers' Representative, 1930.

Presumptuous, impulsive, whimsical. Often heard to whisper, "Come closer." Just delicious enthusiasm, considerable inquisitiveness and snappy, black eyes—"Kate."

FASHION ILLUSTRATION, 1931

OUR second year opened with a bang. The first thing to reach our ears was the change in our name. 'Tis now under the charming title of Fashion Illustration. Like it? We do. It's more modern, don't you know?

Socially, we are prominent, too. Our "Turkey Trot," was quite the affair and just to be different we served cider and doughnuts. Fashion Illustration III offered two charming entertainers in the role of the two "Black Crows." Our class gave forth the well known harmony experts, "K" and "Marcy."

As a side note, I might add that we have a very lonely little girl in our midst. The object of her singing the blues, is working hard in New York; however he is never failing at the end of our tea dances, to claim her.

Speaking of individual classes we have "it." We think nothing of delving into deep subjects now and then—between daubs of paint (water color—I mean). Speaking of water, our latest discussion was, "Is a fish an animal?" Think that one over and let us know your conclusions. We're still at sea about it.

Not only the intellectual and artistic side of our class is developed, we have other talents too. For instance we have a second "Micky" McKee. Any one who has a bird seed to contribute, it will be graciously received to feed this "human canary." Her whistling makes the work grow lighter. Another one of our foremost members of the class, makes a hobby of attending lectures given by famous people. She makes a sketch of them and obtains their autograph after the talk.

Having mentioned nothing about our artistic side, I feel it my grave duty to say something—then again, perhaps I won't. Ask our instructors, they know.

Our third and last year is drawing near and then—all Harper's Bazaar Illustrators, beware!

FASHION ILLUSTRATION, 1932

FROM the very first, the girls of Fashion Illustration, '32, have been in a class by themselves, literally, as well as figuratively. Not more than a day or two had passed when the male element, having strayed into our midst was subtracted, leaving in its absence an entirely feminine gathering.

We are as yet only beginners in the field of art. However, as a group we already excel in many lines. Who that has heard echoes of our double quartets ringing down the halls, as we busily letter and paint plates, can deny it, and having seen the expert posing and aesthetic dancing done by us in Miss Hanks' anatomy class, doubts our talents.

We came into the halls of Pratt, "ignorance" personified. Some of us never dreamed that a serif was not something angelic, that squares could be broken, or that a "blockhead" class could include such informational lectures concerning red milk bottles, calla lillies, and psychology. For the last few months since our arrival we have been learning these things, and others, quietly, although the quietness of it may not have always been as obvious to the instructors as we meant it to be.

Aside from our work, we have found diversion in dancing at the invitation of many of the upper class organizations. Not to be outdone we gave a dance of our own. On this occasion refreshments were served which, although pronounced harmless by the refreshment committee, were held in suspicion by certain of our instructors, on observing the small attendance at classes the following day. However, there were no fatalities recorded.

Owing to the loss of six of our original number, we are now only twenty-nine; just enough to fill the cast-drawing room to overflowing. Twenty-nine good friends, with the possible exception of the first ten minutes of life class or on occasions when the subject of thumb tacks is brought up. May the thumb tacks hold out and our group rise to glory, as we expect it to.

PRATT INSTITUTE 1930

SCHOOL OF HOUSEHOLD SCIENCE AND ARTS

THE founder, Charles Pratt, specified in the charter of the Institute that the work of this school should center around food, clothing and homemaking. He knew full well the necessity at all times of a thorough understanding of the physical fundamentals of living. Whereas the approach, technique and processes might and would differ as the years went by, yet the fundamentals would always remain. His vision was prophetic, for the School of Household Science and Arts is functioning today along these same lines; and the need of this work is far greater today than when the Institute was founded, for during this time the whole economic, social and political status of women has changed.

It is also true that the approach, technique, and processes have changed with the years, for today we find the need of specific training along definite lines as dietitians, cafeteria and tea room managers, costume designers and dressmakers, as well as along the general lines of homemaking. Through all the years, the function of this school has been to present a balanced, intensive program of head, heart and hand—a plan which differentiates Pratt Institute from all other institutions—whereby the students absorb the ideals that should make all education worth while. By means of the intensive courses a thorough, practical training is obtained in half the time spent in college, and the earning power is set in motion.

COSTUME DESIGN 1930

IT IS with conflicting emotions we recall the past two years of our lives. There are times, when it seems that Pratt Institute has always been an integral part of us, and yet, when we realize that we are about to leave, we suddenly feel that we have just come and really don't want to leave so soon.

We have been industriously working up an interesting part for future Costume Design classes. Successful style shows have been staged at John Wanamaker's in New York and at Abraham and Straus' in Brooklyn.

Outside of school, there have been our dances. The never-to-be-forgotten May Hop, when we were juniors, with Fred Claxton and his boys furnishing the music: wonderful music! The Costume dance in the fall of our senior year was equally successful; good music, grand prizes, and what costumes! Then came the Rally for a new swimming pool, and we joyfully responded with a dance, the entire proceeds of which were given to this cause.

Two years can do a lot to a group of girls. In this respect we are no different from other groups—here or elsewhere. We have grown in our stay here; no longer are we aspiring young girls waiting to be taught all about "clothes and things," but matured young ladies, awaiting an opportunity to show the world what Pratt Institute Costume Design students hope to do, and can do.

We were considered promising when we entered. We thought the same, and still think so. But have our instructors, who have suffered, perhaps, more than we realize, changed their opinions of us? We hope not. We do want to thank them for—well, for just everything.

MARTOGLIO, CARMELA

Cam

746 Ocean Ave., Jersey City, N. J.

Baseball, 1929; Basketball, 1930; Artisans, 1929-30.

An energetic little body happy and gay. "The old task is finished, bring on the new, and when my work is done,—then I play."

POLAK, DOROTHY H.

Dot

1958 - 50th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Volley Ball, 1927-28; Swimming, 1928; Artisans, 1929.

Dot came back to Pratt in January to finish an incompletely completed course. She is still nonchalant.

PRINCIPE, BELLE V.

Ding Dong

96 School St., Oyster Bay, N. Y.

Volleyball, 1929; Basketball, 1930; Artisans, 1929-30; Baseball Captain, 1929.

Did you ever see her sad? Did you ever see her blue? Laughing eyes and a happy smile portray her true character.

RANDALL, LOUISE A.

Louise

11 Baldwin Pl., Bloomfield, N. J.

Volleyball, 1929-30; Artisans, 1929-30; Vice-President, Home Economics Club, 1930; Women's Club Representative, 1930.

We know Louise will sail through life with the same charming poise and dignified manner combined with an ever present sense of humor.

ROLLO, VITA M.

Babe

1595 Gates Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Volleyball, 1929-30; Artisans, 1929-30.

A little girl who always appreciates a good joke. "Oh yeah, that's a good one."

ROSZKOWSKA, HANIA V.

Hania

94 Prospect Park West, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Volleyball, 1929-30; Artisans, 1929-30; Vice-President, 1929; Dance Committee Chairman, 1929; Neighborhood Association Representative, 1930.

An atmosphere of Romance surrounds Hania. We expect a fairy prince to arrive at any moment, and waft her away to her native land, there to live happily, ever after.

SPACE, LILLIAN P.

Distance

129 W. Church St., Seymour, Conn.

Baseball, 1929; Artisans, 1929-30; Neighborhood Association Representative, 1929.

"My lands! I don't know whether I'm afoot or on horseback." Lillian is our not truly appreciated press agent who firmly believes in "speak for yourself."

TRIPP, CLAIRE C.

Trippy

73 Sanford St., Glens Falls, N. Y.

Volleyball, 1929; Artisans, 1929-30; Treasurer, Home Economics Club, 1930.

We sometimes wonder if there isn't something to the old saying about "still waters." Claire's eyes certainly belie her faultless behavior in school.

VAN DEUSEN, LOLA I.

Blondy

9269 - 220th St., Queens Village, L. I.

Artisans, 1929-30; Volleyball, 1929; Basketball, 1930.

Just a real good sport from the wilds of Queens Village, better known as "Sashweight Manor." There really should be "Time out" as a reward for hard labor—shouldn't there?

VAN PATTEN, RUTH

Vanie

497 Glebe St., Johnstown, N. Y.

Artisans, 1929-30.

Generous and easy going. Ruth takes life as it comes. Her motto might well be, "It's never too late to mend."

WAKEMAN, DOROTHY A.

Dot

Long Lots Rd., Southport, Conn.

Glee Club, 1929-30; Artisans, 1929-30; Volleyball, 1929; Basketball, 1930; Class Secretary, 1930.

Life holds no terrors for Dorothy. Serene, assured, yet always reticent about admitting her abilities. She faces all situations with equanimity.

WALSH, KATHRYN V.

Kay

32 St. James' Pl., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class President, 1929-30; Volleyball, 1929; Student Council, 1929-30; Artisans, 1929-30; Baseball, 1929.

"Kay" is never too busy to listen to and seriously consider the opinions of any of her classmates. Her convincing logic has won many battles for the class.

WILSON, MARIE

Marie

14th and Bushkill Sts., Easton, Penn.

Artisans, 1929-30; Baseball, 1929; Basketball, 1929.

Quiet and gentle—the salt of the earth. A fine character and a delight to all who know her.

WINTERS, A. EVELYN

Ev

12 Cobalt Ave., Ottawa, Ontario, Canada

Artisans, 1929-30; Volleyball, 1929-30; Class Secretary, 1929; Class Vice-President, 1930.

A charming young lady from Canada. If Canadians are all like that it would be nice to live there.

COSTUME DESIGN, 1931

SPRING comes, bringing with it glorious days and the satisfaction of another year well spent. The Junior Costume Design Class has accomplished much since September.

When we arrived, everything was very strange and new, but this feeling could not long prevail in the friendly atmosphere at Pratt. Before long we were well into the swing of things and we have been hard at work ever since.

The most important event of our year was the Wanamaker Fashion show. This event took much time, attention and preparation but it surely was well worth the effort. Some very lovely costumes were produced and incidentally we were pleased to find that some of them particularly appealed to the judges.

This was not a new experience for those of us who entered the show last year as Dressmakers. May we take this opportunity to thank the members of the faculty who did so much to make the show a success.

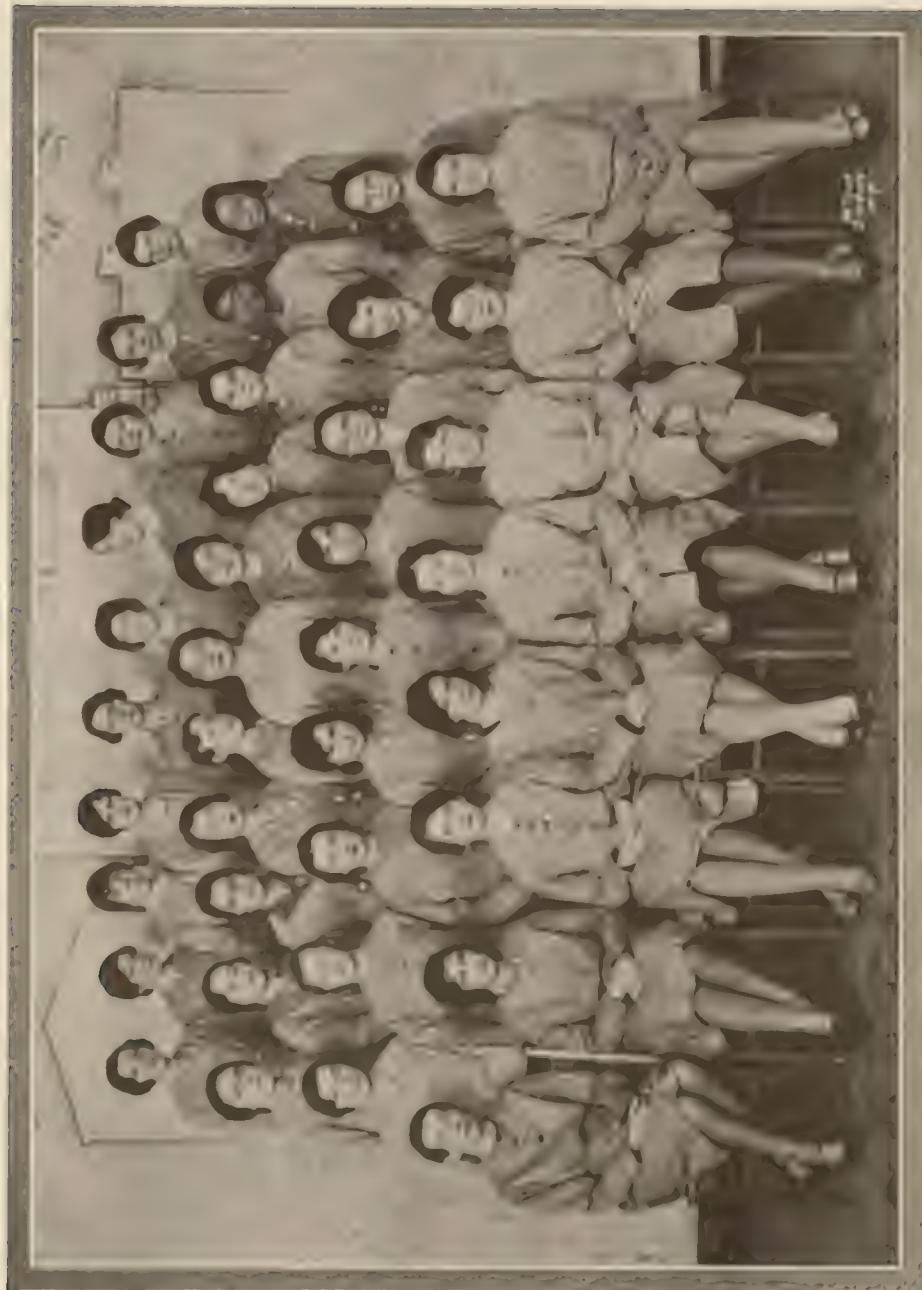

The results of this year's work have convinced us all that our class had some very fine material and should produce some great leaders in the field of fashion. In the meantime, we hope to prove ourselves worthy seniors of Pratt Institute.

HOME MAKING

1930

A VISION of the home at its best and what it should represent, must have been in the minds of those who instituted the Home Making course.

Until we were actually here, we little realized just what home making meant. In reality the home is the heart of the nation, and the only true foundation upon which a country may be built, and, as the strength of the home is, so is the strength of the nation.

Our year here has not meant work in a sense of drudgery—but a study which has only proved more and more interesting as the year progressed. The work was unfolded to us, and we feel that we have gained a new outlook and a better understanding of many things. We believe that we are going forth armed with the essentials upon which to build a true home.

203 Argyle Rd., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Kind hearts are more than coronets." We will always remember sincere and unaffected "Gerry" for her generosity and thoughtfulness.

HENJES, HELEN ELIZABETH

Diana

609 Second St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Vice-President, 1930; Prattonia Representative, 1930. A quick, jolly laugh characterizes Helen, for she invariably sees something humorous in any incident, and before long, can make others see it, too.

INSTITUTIONAL MANAGEMENT 1930

MORITURI te salutamus! Not that we are really going to die, merely leaving our life as students at Pratt Institute. Soon, we will be out in the cold, cold world, as individuals, trying to uphold the ideals of Pratt Institute and gain some honor for ourselves, as we enter our various positions.

During our first week at school, we approached Room 26, in fear and trembling, armed with pencils and erasers to take our Arithmetic Examination; but let me assure you that this was not such an ordeal as we had anticipated.

Almost at once, the faculty realized the need of dividing the class, in order to cover the prescribed curriculum. While one section was learning the theory of our chosen occupation, the rest worked out those theories, through practical application, in the sundry units of the Cafeteria. It soon became apparent that there was no better way of becoming acquainted with our classmates, than by working with them.

In a short time, we had our first class meeting and elected our temporary officers. Our social activities began with the Sunday afternoon teas at the Women's Club. There we became acquainted with members of the different schools and soon felt quite at home at Pratt.

In the early part of December, our class met at the Japanese restaurant, "Miyako," for a typical Japanese dinner. There we learned the art of manipulating "chop-sticks," with much difficulty in some cases, and great hilarity in others.

Christmas Vacation soon followed and we returned from the holidays filled with new ambition and enthusiasm.

Then ensued the election of our permanent class officers. Ellen, our president, started off famously by concocting plans for our next party. The date set, we visited a French restaurant, after which we went to the Lyceum Theater to see "Berkeley Square." As these evenings had proved so interesting, it was decided to explore a foreign restaurant each month.

With other dinners, teas, bridges, and sufficient studies, the remaining months passed rapidly and we found ourselves at the door of Commencement. Our impulsive white uniforms helped to disguise the serious feelings involved by the realization that we were leaving Pratt and parting from many friends. May we now greet the classes to come, and trust that they will derive as much benefit from their year at Pratt Institute as we have.

2200 N. Calvert St., Baltimore, Md.

Edna is beloved for her mild manner and heart of gold.

DUHAMEL, LUCILE M.

Duke

234 Seeley St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Giggling, vivacious, and bubbling with pep—congenial company, one can always be assured.

GRADUATION

1930

EDMOND, EVELYN M.

Eddie

South Main St., Cohocton, N. Y.

Class Vice-President, 1930.

"Evelyn" doesn't talk much, but we know she is thinking deep and interesting things.

ELLIOTT, MRS. ALMIRA B.

271 Townsend Ave., New Haven, Conn.

Women's Club Representative, 1930.

We understand New Haven is a great place. It must be 'cause look whom we have from there.

FUSEK, MARY A.

Mary

1054 Seneca Ave., Queens, N. Y.

'Thou she is quiet, she has proven to us that knowledge when used is power.

GOODKIND, MARGUERITE

Marg

310 West 93rd St., New York, N. Y.

Class Secretary, 1930.

Here is the lady who always asked, "Have you your money for your ring or pin?"

GRIFFITH, MARY H.

Griffy

33 Dolge Ave., Dolgeville, N. Y.

Reserved, until one really knows her—then bubbling over with fun and mischief.

FRATTONIA 1930

HAWKINS, ANNIE M.

Annie

Spelman College, Atlanta, Ga.

Always willing to help, no matter how hard the task may be.

HERRMANN, SIDNEY S.

Sid

555 Bay St., Stapleton, Staten Island, N. Y.

Her travels across the bay each day "seem" in no way to hinder her good spirits.

HOAGLAND, ALICE J.

Alice

31 W. Franklin St., Bound Brook, N. J.

A bundle of energy with consistent results—the sum of endless labors.

HOLDEN, DOROTHY T.

Dottie

31 Old Pine Tree Rd., Norwich, Conn.

A strangely elusive person with a heap of hidden but useful ideas.

JAMES, HELEN C.

Jimmie

435 Red Haw Rd., Dayton, Ohio

By the quality of her work and her ever ready smile is she known—that's our "Jimmie."

W R A T H O N T A 1930

JONES, FANNIE O.

Fran

219 West 133rd St., New York, N. Y.

A peach of a little sport—and can she work?

KEYES, LUCILLE G.

Lou

147 Fillmore St., New Haven, Conn.

Why is it that "Lou" always says, "An apple a day keeps the doctor away?"

LAING, MRS. BARBARA

Babs

162 Dowling Ave., Toronto 3, Ontario, Canada

It is with sad hearts that we leave "our wee bit of Scotch." Good luck to "Babs."

MCBRIDE, MARGARET B.

Mac

728 Altavista St., Charlottesville, Va.

By her example we have learned that it pays to persevere.

MABIE, MARY E.

Mary

168 North 15th St., East Orange, N. J.

"Mary" never says much but her pleasing manner is appreciated by all.

MACKAY, ALMIRA F.

Mac

16 Kent St., Halifax, Nova Scotia, Canada

If Canada has any more like our capable "Mac," Pratt wants them.

MARSHALL, ELLEN T.

Ellen

175 Main St., Rockport, Mass.

Class President, 1930.
It was through her commanding personality that we were lead to choose her for our class president.

MURRAY, HELEN L.

Helen

37 North St., Binghamton, N. Y.

Personality is a great asset in the world. We are sure Helen's will take her far.

O'SULLIVAN, VESTA W.

7 Castleton Park, Staten Island, N. Y.

"No use to hurry, Vesta, there are classes all day at Pratt."

PETERSON, DOROTHY H.

Dot

67 Sherman Ave., Tompkinsville, Staten Island, N. Y.

Class Treasurer, 1930.
"Dot's" habit of looking on the bright side of things is worth more than a thousand pounds a year.

PRATTONIA 1930

ROBINSON, MRS. ANNA J.

Robbie

Dickinson Center, N. Y.

We are sure that "Robbie" will be missed in all our classes, for she made them lively with questions.

ROE, MARY L.

Mike

Hilburn, N. Y.

Prattonia Representative, 1930.

Friendliness and cheerfulness, a gay camaraderie with all she met, made her popular.

SEYMOUR, AMY E.

Amy

Maple Hill Rd., Huntington, N. Y.

Amy always seems to find something in everything to giggle about.

TOLEN, KATHERINE V.

Kae

19 Fairview Pl., Arlington, N. J.

It is "Kae" who forms the less dignified part of the Tolent-Whitman team.

VAUGHAN, KATHLENE

Kay

Bethany, Okla.

'Tho she has come from afar, she has been acclaimed capable and lovable.

WORLDS FAIR AT ATLANTA 1930

WEINER, RUTH

1088 Lenox Rd., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Ruth believes in the old-time adage, "Laugh and the world laughs with you."

WEINGRAD, RUTH

Ruth

511 Linden Blvd., Brooklyn, N. Y.

No one doubted that she would attain any goal to which she might aspire.

WHITMAN, CATHERINE M.

Kay

558 Summer Ave., Lyndhurst, N. J.

The dignified half of the Tolen-Whitman partnership.

WILLIAMSON, HELEN PAIGE

Pook

103 Record St., Fredrick, Md.

Now serious, now gay, she is ever pleasing and charming, with a piquant way all her own.

GRADUATION
1930

TO OUR ALMA MATER

Long have we been sheltered by thee
'Neath thy lofty tower,
And have been taught to live and learn
With hearts that do not cower,
Taught of all the mysteries
The world lends to our lives,
Taught of all the falsities
We cover with a bribe.

You have opened for us
Our eyes dulled by youth,
Showed us the unerring way
Wise and not uncouth.

Now come we to the parting,
Sad for us indeed,
For we have a noble home,
A home with but one creed.
To live and learn and to be Just
In all we undertake
Proclaims our dear old Alma Mater
If a success we make.

CHARLOTTE L. WOLF

CREATION 1930

DRESSMAKING

1930

YES, it is true—a lot of important events have occurred in our young lives here at Pratt Institute since last September.

First of all—we were all newcomers to Pratt, and many of us were greatly surprised to find ourselves in such a pleasant surrounding for a school in the heart of a large city. It might seem that under these circumstances we would have been lonesome or homesick, as is the custom for students away at school—but such was not the case at all in Pratt. No one would allow anything of the kind, the members of the faculty as well as the students took us right into their big family, by inviting us to Sunday afternoon teas at the Women's Club. These affairs were a wonderful help in getting us acquainted and teaching us more about Pratt.

Within a short time after school was started, we were hard at work making dresses for the annual fashion show, presented by the classes in dressmaking and costume design, at the Abraham & Strauss store of Brooklyn. In this show two of the three prizes were won by girls from our dressmaking class.

Among the social affairs of the school year, this class held an afternoon dance in recreation hall which shall remain as a happy memory of our year. In addition to our social activities we were prominent in all sports as well; such as swimming, basketball, baseball and volley ball. When the time came for the testing of gymnastic ability between the H. S. & A. and the F. & A. A.—of course the dressmakers did their noble part in causing the H. S. & A. to rise to the top.

Life at Pratt held for us not only pleasure but earnest moments as well. During these hours of hard work the Wanamaker Fashion Show was carried out successfully.

Then came the frantic rush to gain sufficient work-room time for graduation. This was only made possible by the untiring efforts of the instructors.

As the year came to a close, we happily looked back upon the friendships we had made; realizing in spite of the miles that intervene, Pratt Institute stands as an everlasting link in our chain of memories.

CLASS OFFICERS

JULIA PROSSER, President

ELSIE FINNEY, Treasurer

FRATTONIA
1930

ADAMS, ROSA

Rosie

Infield, N. C.

A jolly little girl, with the typical North Carolina drawl, who believes in the conservation of energy.

ANDERSON, DOROTHY M.

Dot

8532 - 123rd St., Richmond Hill, L. I., N. Y.

"Now in Germany we do this——" If we ever go to Germany we will know exactly how to handle any kind of situation, thanks to "Dot."

ANDREWS, JULIA A.

Julie

1408 Effingham St., Portsmouth, Va.

"Julie," is one of our best natured students. She obligingly laughs at everything that should be laughed at.

BARRY, GRACE E.

Grace

911 Eldora Pl., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Grace is a perfect example of "Still waters run deep." She is very quiet, clever, and a faithful worker.

BENNÉ, MURIEL

Muriel

1436 East 7th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Here is a happy combination of thoughtfulness and vivacity. "Roy," will surely be a lucky man.

PRATTONIA 1930

BRODWITH, ROSLYN

Ros

70 W. 133rd St., New York City, N. Y.

Best of luck to "Ros," because she certainly deserves the best of success.

BRYANT, MURIEL E.

Smooch

64 Bridge St., Beverly, Mass.

Prattonia Representative, 1930.

"Smooch" is about as cheerful, thoughtful and sensible over everything as she can be, and still be human. She does find time for some recreation but makes up for her lost time by working like a dynamo.

BUSÉ, MILDRED B.

Milly

824 Second Pl., Plainfield, N. J.

Dance Committee, 1930.

Oh, oh, looking for a true vivacious Spanish senorita? "Milly" is a sure cure for the "blues" and a real friend.

CAPOROSO, JOSEPHINE M.

Little Joe

3 Somers St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Plenty of wit is her possession. Anything you would like to know go to "Little Joe," she knows, for she reads books.

CARLINO, ROSE A.

Rose

319 Jefferson St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"True worth is in being not seeming." I beg of thee all, do not pick a fight with Rose, for as nice as she is; what a temper!"

FRANTONIA

1930

CHURCHILL, MARGARET L.

Peg

310 Stratfield Rd., Bridgeport, Conn.

Captain of Basketball, 1930; Captain of Gymnasium Squadron, 1930.

"Always put off 'til tomorrow what you can do today," but "Peg" means well. Perhaps, too, there is an outside influence which is destroying her power of concentration.

CLARK, DOROTHY L.

Dot

532 South 18th St., Louisville, Ky.

This southern girl is straight from the blue grass land, but is never blue herself.

COLEMAN, LUCINDA FOX

Fox

4836 Deane Ave., N. E., Washington, D. C.

"Fox" can be seen striding around the room at any time, in fact, she strides everywhere. We wish her luck when she steps into the business world.

COONEY, MRS. MARION R.

Chick

Maple Ave., West Stockbridge, Mass.

Better known as Marion Rouelle. It is true that few of us knew her very well but she is the type that it pays to make the acquaintance of.

DAMIANO, MARGARET C.

Peggy

107-17 122nd St., Richmond Hill, N. Y.

Her smile, her speech and her winning ways certainly can captivate, I'll say. "Peggy" is a cute little Miss.

1930

DeMARTINI, CATHARINE

616 Park Ave., Hoboken, N. J.

A quiet person who is as conscientious as can be. This applies all 'round, because she is one of the loyal supporters of every project in school.

Catharine

DOHREN, KATHERINE

4 Park Ave., Dongan Hills, Staten Island, N. Y.

"Kay" is known all over the class for her laughter; it is one ha, ha, after another.

Kay

FINNEY, ELSIE G.

195 North 15th St., East Orange, N. J.

Class Treasurer, 1930.

Here is a friendly "girl friend," who is a thorough lady, charming and sweet, but don't bother, men—she's busy in Jersey.

Elsie

GEE, MARION

92 Sea Cliff Ave., Sea Cliff, N. Y.

Neighborhood Representative, 1930; Room Chairman, 1930.

She speaks but little, so if you listen you will realize that she is taking dressmaking for domestic purposes only.

Marion

GERSCH, ELSA

South Swansea, Mass.

Elsa is patience personified and as a result she does wonderful work, setting a good example for the rest of us.

Elsa

OPERATION N.Y.A. 1930.

GREENFIELD, MARY E.

Kid

Dudley, N. C.

This lady is very good natured but oh how she likes to tease. Good luck to you, "Kid."

GRILL, VIRGINIA

Virginia

1922 East 24th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Basketball, 1930.

Virginia is a good sport and well liked by everyone.

GUARNERI, ANNA R.

Anna

8515 Bay 16th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The lady has a pleasing personality, and is very attractive—what more would you want?

HASSELL, PEARL

Diamond

916 - 45th St., N. E., Washington, D. C.

There is a look in Pearl's eyes which suggests that perhaps she does not always take life as seriously as she should, but, if we can work and have a lot of fun at the same time—why not?

HAYES, PHYLLIS JEAN

Phil

1640 Penn Ave., Scranton, Penn.

"Pill," as some of us call her, is far removed from that type of personal description. She is full of fun and vigor, a clever girl and just the type for a real good friend.

GRADUATION
1930

IRELAND, VENETIA E.

Vee

Greenport, Long Island, N. Y.

"Vee" is our champion swimmer and one of our fastest students in every way. By the way, "Vee," did you ever win that ten dollar bet?

JOHNSON, INEZ M.

Inez

62 Eye, N. E., Washington, D. C.

Inez is cute; we hated to say that because the expression is so overworked, but it is the only one that really fits.

JUDGE, ROSEMARY

Cherub

62 Washington St., Carbondale, Penn.

This little Irish girl is undoubtedly the greatest little pal imaginable. Appreciation is what she needs.

KENNEDY, MABLE L.

Mable

115 Springdale Ave., East Orange, N. J.

When you really know Mable, we think you will agree that her cry of "What shall I do next" does not denote helplessness, but energy.

LAFLEUR, LAURA A.

Laura

67 Coffin Ave., New Bedford, Mass.

We often wonder if Laura isn't cut out to be an exclusive French shop owner; for she would suit just such a position.

GRADUATION 1930

LEAHY, JULIA E.

Judy

120-08 95th Ave., Richmond Hill, N. Y.

Good temper, like a summer day, sheds a brightness.
"Judy" loves her work—and try to find her stitches!

LIBERTUCCI, ANNA F.

Anna

41 - 71st St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Good nature is always a popular feature—we might all be lucky to have that gift.

LUHRS, BEATRICE E.

Bee

296 Church St., Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Student Government, 1930.

"Bee" will some day, probably soon, be saving one lucky man a lot of money by creating her own clothes. We think that is the main object of her course here.

MAIFARTH, HELEN R.

Helen

20 Offord St., Passaic, N. J.

If gentlemen prefer blondes—here is one—noisy, peppy and mischievous. When she takes a cut to go home sick, don't believe it, because she is probably at the Paramount listening to "Rudy."

MANCHESTER, PRISCILLA V.

Sue

58 Spencer St., Winsted, Conn.

Student Government, 1930; Room Chairman, 1930.

You can never tell what "Sue" is going to come out with next, which makes life in the same class with her very interesting. If you want some fun, just mention the Pine Tree State, and watch "Sue's" eyes!

GRADUATION 1930

MATHERON, ALMA M.

Alma

Centennial Ave., Baldwin, L. I., N. Y.

A peach of a person to know. Quiet, unassuming, works hard and is always cheerful.

McMULLAN, JULIANA MARIE

Annie

200 Prospect Pl., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Changing your mind is a woman's privilege, but it is sometimes used to excess.

McNEIL, EVE LOUISE

Eva

2714 Kings Rd., Jacksonville, Fla.

Come what may it never bothers "Eva." Her motto is what I cannot do today I will do tomorrow.

MOORE, FRANCES MARY

Frances

404 North Main St., Excelsior Springs, Mo.

A girl who is always willing to assist you at all times.

MURPHY, KATHARINE E.

Kay

2308 - 19th St., Washington, D. C.

Looks are often deceiving and they are in "Kay's" case. She seems quiet, but her clever remarks keep everyone laughing.

GRATTONTA 1930

NEWELL, ALBERTA

Al

2030 East 64th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Student Government, 1930; Dance Committee, 1930; Basketball, 1930; Room Chairman, 1930.

For pep and laughter here's the girl, however, keep her in check—or double check—if you want to get a word in edge-wise.

NIEDZIELA, JOSEPHINE A.

Joe

47 Cherry St., Holyoke, Mass.

A loyal friend and a studious worker is "Joe," with a sense of humor to set your heart aglow.

OSTROWSKI, ALFREDA MARY

201 Pavonia Ave., Jersey City, N. J.

To know the right and to do the right is the secret of success.

PARSKE, LOUISE M.

Ski

120 Kiel St., North Tonawanda, N. Y.

Basketball, 1930; Captain of the Gym Squad, 1930.

"Ski" is as good a sport in the classroom as she is in anything else. She is what you would call a "darn good kid" and is well liked by everyone.

POWELLS, ERNESTINE G.

Honeybunch

2504 Elgin Ave., Houston, Texas

Ernestine is the class baby, but our baby certainly does do wonderful work and she makes us hustle to keep up with her.

PROSSER, JULIA

Julie

1286 North Bever St., Wooster, Ohio

Class President, 1930; Student Council, 1930; Student Advisory Board, 1930; Student Government, 1930.

Three cheers for our honorable President. Lots of pep, a good organizer, and a true friend, that's "Julie."

RUA, LILLIAN

Lil

170 Nassau Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A brighter girl we never knew, yet quiet, steady and true. A born teacher, she knows how to take orders and give them.

SALISBURY, JEANETTE P.

Gin

Scranton, Penn.

Basketball, 1930; Captain of the Gym Squadron, 1930.

Wherever there is any laughter there you will find "Gin" and as far as we can see she carries the same spirit into her work.

SANTOPIETRO, ANGELINA

Dot

330 Quincy St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Volleyball, 1930.

"Dot" talks—and the class talks with her, but we really like to listen to her. It is diverting and gives us a nice rest during the day.

SCOFIELD, OLIVE B.

Ollie

75 North Kensico Ave., White Plains, N. Y.

Dance Committee, 1930; Captain of the Gym Squadron, 1930.

"Ollie's" reserve cannot hide the fact that she is really friendly and willing to do anything for a person she likes.

1930

SEARS, JUANITA

Juanita

1215 Seventh Ave., Huntington, W. Va.

Juanita is just as funny and witty as can be. It is a joy to be in the same classrom with her, because you just can't be blue.

SLADE, OLIVIA M.

Olivia

1119 Adriatic Ave., Atlantic City, N. J.

Olivia's laugh is an inspiration. We think she could laugh her way out of anything. Let's all try her method.

SMITH, DOROTHY F.

Dot

R. F. D. No. 2, Box No. 42, Marshall, Va.

The south certainly lost another good woman when they sent "Dot" up here, for we aren't so anxious to let her go back —we need her bonny influence.

SPRY, BARBARA

Bobby

1418 - 161st St., Beechhurst, L. I., N. Y.

If you ever hear the expression, "Pardon me, I thought I was in the Astor," you will know without turning around that it is "Bobby," but it would be worth your while to turn around.

STAFFORD, FLORENCE R.

Flo

33 Milligan St., Little Falls, N. Y.

Volleyball, 1930.

Another one who believes that "Silence is golden and perseverance wins." Keep at it, "Flo," and you will get just what you strive for.

VOCAL TONIA 1930

TEPEDINO, VERA R.

Greatheart

205 Sunnyside Ave., New York, N. Y.

Life holds no dearer girl than Vera. She has a heart of gold that never grows cold.

VALENZI, MARIA C.

Mary

141 Patchen Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Her voice was ever soft and low. An excellent quality in women.

WIGGINS, EUNICE de C.

Wiggle

Main St., Succasunna, N. J.

To the casual observer "Wiggle" seems to be quiet and dignified, but she is very capable of surprising you.

WOODS, OCTAVIA M.

Octavia

312 North 5th St., Muskogee, Okla.

Octavia gets excited over small obstacles in her work, but in these moments she gets a lot done—maybe she should be excited all the time.

ZARRO, JOSEPHINE A.

Curls

2735 Atlantic Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Women's Club Representative, 1930.

Blushes are the rainbows of modesty. Undoubtedly you have noticed the demure lass with the long curls, well, that's our "Joe," if anyone doesn't know her, look again, it is worth it.

DIETETICS

ADIES and gentlemen of the Radio Audience, this is the Dietetics class of 1930, broadcasting from the Household Science and Arts Building, Ryerson Street, Brooklyn, N. Y. We are broadcasting on a wave length of 24 microns; that is equivalent to several calories.

The purpose of today's program, is to give you a brief summary of yesterday's events. Yea, even those of the day before that. We shall endeavor to retrace our steps and review once again for your pleasure the high spots of the years that have gone, and we hope not in vain.

Close your eyes for a moment, forget the work and strife of today and let your mind wander back to that memorable day of September, 1928. Do you remember those 65 blushing maidens clutching 65 beribboned high school diplomas to their bosoms, as they filed solemnly from chemistry examinations to mathematics? Do you recall those days and nights of making out diets, cramming for chem. exams and carefully moistening "runs in silk stockings?"

Long before we had become accustomed to these hardships, our Senior sisters taught us how to hold a tea cup and still play bridge.

And say—do you remember that "Valentine's" Dance we gave? Oh boy! how that band did play and how those boys could dance!

Then came a steady stream of teas, bridges, dances, foreign dinners and all of the other things that make life at Pratt so worth while. Girls went away for the weekend and came back humming "Lohengrin."

We presented a nutrition play that amazed everyone; even we were quite surprised at the talent that had so long been hidden.

Now that you have dwelt in the past for a few moments, just take a peep into the future with us.

GRADUATION DAY: Fond parents crane aching necks for a first glimpse of their fond progeny. Fifty odd girls clad in snow-white uniforms file solemnly down the aisle. Lips smile wistfully, while eyes gleam with joy and triumph, as each dietitian receives her first payment, for two years of hard but interesting work.

Can't you see a girl, one of the original 65 receiving the cheers and acclamations of the nation's foremost physicians? And as she—BANG!

OFFICERS

LOIS E. VAN RIPER, President
ELIZABETH W. WHILELY, V.-Pres.

HILDA DAVENPORT, Secretary
ELIZABETH ANN CONOWAY, Treas.

FRATTONIA 1930

ADELSBERGER, CAROLYN

Carrie

Hillside Gardens, Lowville, N. Y.

Basketball, 1929; Baseball, 1930.

Talk! Ach Himmel! How she talks! But she really has plenty to say for "Carrie" is one of our peppiest seniors.

BALMANNO, DOROTHEA E.

Dot

50 Sherman St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Dot's" book, "The Secret of My Success," is about to be published. It is not an autobiography, merely a book telling you how to make other people keep still when you want to talk.

BEAMS, CONSTANCE LOVELL

Connie

735 Mt. Prospect Ave., Newark, N. J.

Swimming, 1929.

"Connie" saunters into class from five to fifty minutes late,—but she is not embarrassed for she smokes Murads.

BENNETT, ESTELLE

Stelle

493 Main St., Bennington, Vt.

Swimming, 1929.

Estelle is "true blue." If she says she will do a thing, you can be sure it will be done.

BLODGETT, EUNICE

Tony

32 South First Ave., Lebanon, Penn.

"Tony's" smile represents to us sweetness and fun, all wrapped up in a tiny package of poise.

CHAISSON, DOROTHY MARIE

Dot

165 Lebanon St., Springfield, Mass.

"Dot" is a true friend. She has only two known weaknesses: her love of sitting up and talking all night, and the expression, "I thought you'd like to know it."

CHAPPLE, GRACE EDYTH

Chappie

25 Vernon Ave., Batavia, N. Y.

Volleyball, 1929.

Petite—but full of pep—one of those well-liked persons with a sunny disposition. We wonder what will become of "me and my shadow" after June.

CHRISTENSEN, ETHEL C.

Chris

Russel Rd., Penn Yan, N. Y.

Basketball, 1929; Prattonia Representative, 1929.

Her line just wins them. Our most brilliant example of a happy-go-lucky success—that's "Chris."

CLARK, EMMY LOU

Emmy Lou

194 Christie Hghts., Leonia, N. J.

Volleyball, 1929-30.

When we hear a voice saying, "I can't care for that," we know it's "Emmy Lou" talking about a new dress, medical students, or perhaps, her "P. S." degree.

CONOWAY, ELIZABETH ANN

Betty

Bridgeville, Del.

Class Treasurer, 1929; Volleyball, 1929

"Betty's" skies are never a deep indigo, even when it rains, her smile protects her.

CRANE, MARGARET EWING

Peggy

108 Stiles St., Newark, N. J.

Volleyball, 1929-30.

"She came from Alabama," but instead of bringing a banjo, "Peg" came to Pratt with an engaging southern drawl which charmed us all.

DAVENPORT, HILDA

Twink

Colonial Hghts., Tuckahoe, N. Y.

Secretary of Class, 1930; Secretary of Home Economics Club, 1930; Volleyball, 1929-30.

She's here, she's there, she's everywhere. "Twink" is the musical member of that famous "Triumvirate," "Betty," "Chris," and "Twink."

DAVIS, LILLIAN A.

Lil

224-20 Sheffield Ave., Springfield Gardens, L. I., N. Y.

Baseball, 1929.

We all know that "Lil" is the busiest girl in school. She helps build castles in the air,—for isn't Bob an architect?

DECKER, ELIZABETH DOROTHEA

Betty

90 Lexington Ave., Jersey City, N. J.

Volleyball, 1928.

"Betty's" knowledge of the opposite sex has been a blessing to all of us. She can tell by merely looking at a man whether or not he has "it."

DELANOY, RUTH

Ruth

121 Shippen St., Weehawken, N. J.

"Life is a serious business." Ruth has proven to all of us during the past two years that one can be serious and still have friends.

PRATTONIA 1930

DETMAR, PAULINE ELIZABETH

Pauline

464 Jewett Ave., West Brighton, Staten Island, N. Y.

Pauline's voice cannot be heard farther back than the first row, but her smile and the gleam in her bright blue eyes can be seen all over the room.

DILTS, GRACE STRYKER

Grace

Three Bridges, N. J.

"To put repose into the spirit of the day and yet get the day's work done, that is the need."

EVANS, MARTHA ELIZABETH

Marty

1724 Clay Ave., Dunmore, Pa.

Social Editor of Prattonia, 1930; Senior Representative of Home Economics Club, 1929; Baseball, 1928; Volleyball, 1929.

"Fair Elaine" of 1930. However, "Marty" does not pine away for Lancelot—for there are plenty of others.

FIERST, CLARA

Fiersty

146 Powell St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Fiersty's" lovely voice has given us all much pleasure. Perhaps, after all, instead of being one of the most successful dietitians, her voice will be heard from the stage of the Metropolitan—who knows?

FRY, FRANCES

Fran

630 West Prairie St., Marengo, Ill.

Basketball, 1929.

"Fran" came like a flash of lightning from the West and was conquered—Presto—by the "Mal" nutrition class.

PRATTONIA 1930

GAYLORD, MARION SANFORD

Peggy

310 North 5th St., Tacoma, Wash.

Associate Editor, Prattonia, 1930.

No one shouts, "Get Hot!" when "Peggy" tickles the ivories—it isn't necessary for she can make any piano talk.

IRVING, FRANCES

Fay

558 - 7th Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Fay's" rapturous voice exclaiming, "Oh! My dear," "He said I was," and "Oh, I'm so excited," has aroused our curiosity. I mean it, I actually do.

JACKSON, ELIZABETH MARSH

Betty Jack

123 Buckingham St., Springfield, Mass.

The Quaker maid at "220." "Betty's" sense of humor and rare collection of stories have made her a multitude of friends and admirers.

JENNINGS, DOROTHY E.

Dot

56 Washington Ave., Cedarhurst, Long Island

The most studious girl in our class. "Dot" chooses her friends very carefully, but we can all easily see that she is well repaid for the pains she takes.

KELLY, EVELYN C.

Evie

24 Bidwell Ave., Jersey City, N. J.

Volleyball, 1929.

When we tire of the noise and turmoil of school, we go to see "Evie." Her quiet and calm manner has soothed many a nervous wreck.

FRATTONIA 1930

KOHLER, MILDRED

Minnow

795 Lincoln Pl., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Her perpetual laughter can be heard anywhere and at all times of the day. The threat of a chemistry exam cannot even make her look solemn.

KULICK, MARTHA

Marty

2422 Avenue P, Brooklyn, N. Y.

When everything is quiet, and an infectious giggle is heard, we all know without being told, that "Marty" is up to some kind of mischief.

LANDRY, DOROTHY J.

Dodo

87 Old Boston Post Rd., New Rochelle, N. Y.

Basketball, 1929.

"Dodo's" friends do the worrying as to whether or not she will be on time for her classes. Fortunately, the fates are usually kind. A jolly companion, sunny disposition and a true friend.

LARRABEE, HELEN C.

Larry

123 Leland St., Portland, Maine

"Larry's" mysterious smiles aroused our curiosity this year. Finally, after much investigation, we found out she was interested in art with a capital A.

LOUIS, LEONETTE C.

Lee

2916 Hillegass Ave., Berkeley, Cal.

Volleyball, 1929.

"Lee" comes from the land of movie stars and Avocados. The motto of California is, "God bless the man who first invented sleep."

PLATTONA
1930

MARTINO, VIRGINIA M.

Ginny

174 Sigourney St., Hartford, Conn.

Sweet, demure and gentle with a gleam of sunshine always lurking in her dark eyes—that's "Ginny."

McCARTHY, ANNE RALEIGH

Nancy

11 Hopedale Rd., Providence, R. I.

"Nancy" didn't start with the rest of us, but her Irish wit and quiet manner soon brought her a host of friends.

MITCHELL, CATHARINE G.

Kay

2112 Dorchester Rd., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Basketball, 1929-30; Baseball, 1929.

"Kay's" histrionic talents are a delight to us all. She impersonates sailors, flappers, and once in a while,—sh, sh, whisper it,—the faculty.

NEBOT, BILLIE B.

Billie

1552 Anderson Ave., Fort Lee, N. J.

Baseball, 1929.

Never seen without one or two companions. There must be some magnetism, or is it charm on "Billie's" part?

NORTHRIDGE, RUTH S.

Steve

87 Halsey St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Swimming, 1929; Volleyball, 1929; Secretary of Home Economics Club, 1928.

Smart, slim, sophisticated—"Steve's" wise-cracks have proved to be "blues-chasers" many times during the past two years.

GRADUATION
1930

PAYNTER, MARGARET S.

Peg

113 Park Rd., W. Hartford, Conn.

Baseball, 1929.

A particularly good athlete is "Peg." Perhaps that accounts for her gracious manner, her sense of humor, and healthy supply of vim.

PHILLIPS, MARTHA

Flipps

541 W. 113th St., New York, N. Y.

Women's Club Representative, 1929; Basketball, 1929-30; Baseball, 1929.

Another reason why gentlemen prefer blondes! But why not mention the ladies? "Flipps" is very seldom seen without a few admirers from the weaker sex.

REILLY, HELEN MARIE

Helen

14 Watson Ave., East Orange, N. J.

Swimming, 1929.

"A twelve o'clock scholar in a nine o'clock school." Helen and her "twin" taught us a new way to create a sensation.

REISER, ESTHER

Esther

1319 - 47th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Extremely conscientious and a sincere friend. We often wonder just how many degrees Esther will receive before she stops studying.

ROSENTHAL, RENEE

Renee

200 Park Ave., Rutherford, N. J.

Volleyball, 1929-30.

The walking question mark of our class. Really we love you for it, for your questions have given us many a pleasant respite during periods of strenuous note taking.

1930

ROTHE, MARJORIE L.

72 Barrow St., New York, N. Y.

Class Secretary, 1929; Volleyball, 1929.

Won't some one please help "Toni" decide on a career? She is interested in three things: dramatics, social service, and the Navy,—chiefly the Navy.

Toni

SACKRIDER, JEAN A.

23 Clifton Pl., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Everyone who knows "Sac" will call her the most conscientious, sweet, and friendly member of our class.

Sac

SCANTLEBURY, MARY ANNA

9132 - 112th St., Richmond Hill, Long Island, N. Y.

"Scantie" has a dual personality. One moment she is a practical and sensible dietitian. The next moment she is transformed into a laughing and carefree playmate.

Scantie

SCHARF, MAUD RAINSFORD

83 Cliff St., Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y.

Basketball, 1929-30; Swimming, 1929.

Sportsmanship and personality combine to make Maud a true friend. And how that girl can play basketball!

Scharfie

SISTER ALICE MARY

St. Francis' Hospital, 370 Collins St., Hartford, Conn.

"Charms strike the eye, and merit wins the soul." Sister Alice Mary has been our friend and advisor for the past two years.

SISTER CATHERINE TERESA

Catherine

St. Francis' Hospital, 370 Collins St., Hartford, Conn.

Sister Catherine Teresa's sense of humor and friendliness has endeared her to us. We have been doubly honored with two sisters, who have rejoiced with us in our pleasures and cheered us in our work.

SOLIMENE, CAMILLE M.

Cammy

211 Park St., Hartford, Conn.

Women's Club Representative, 1929.

Has anyone here seen "Cammy?" No? Well, she's the girl with the flashing black eyes. Friendly and lovable with that indescribable something.

SPACE, VIRGINIA B.

Ginny

129 W. Church St., Seymour, Conn.

Volleyball, 1929.

"Ginny" is one of our best students—her thoughts are inclined to soar. You see, she has a personal interest in aviation.

TAYLOR, JOSEPHINE D.

Jo

14 Ripley Pl., Buffalo, N. Y.

Never elated, never depressed, "Jo" could give any amount of advice on how to be naughty and yet be nice.

TRONE, DOROTHEA

Dot

2906 Garrison Blvd., Baltimore, Md.

Every class needs its blonde goddess, so some kind Fate sent us "Dot." We are all duly thankful for another good student and comrade.

TROUT, MARY GRACE

Mary Grace

502 King George Ave., S. W., Roanoke, Va.

Volleyball, 1929-30.

When Mary Grace was a little girl her "coal black Mammy" taught her how to be popular. We all envy Mary Grace her teacher, and more than that, her numerous friends.

VAN RIPER, LOIS E.

Lois

217 W. Passaic Ave., Rutherford, N. J.

Class President, 1930; Student Council, 1930; Student Advisory, 1930.

Our class President, conscientious and capable. Admired and loved by all her classmates. Her poise and good judgment have done much to make our Senior year a successful one.

WALDROFF, ANNABELLE KATHERINE

Jay

91 Ray St., New Brunswick, N. J.

Volleyball, 1929; Baseball, 1929.

The jolliest girl in school; not only is she a friend of all, but she finds a friend in all. Our "Ray" of sunshine, and chief date fixer.

WHITELEY, ELIZABETH WATSON

Betty

408 Lincoln Ave., Rutherford, N. J.

Class Vice-President, 1930; Baseball, 1929; Volleyball, 1930.

When we see "Betty's" note book, we all sigh, "How does she do it!" But that's not all she does. She has held several class offices and has taken an active part in athletics during her sojourn at Pratt.

WHITING, MARJORIE B.

Marge

28 Manchester Terrace, Springfield, Mass.

Volleyball, 1929-30; Baseball, 1929; Home Economics Club Representative, 1929.

She is daring, to venture into the "Lubber Land." Beware of the Eskimos, fair Maiden.

PRATTONIA 1930

WILLIAMS, BLAIR

175 Hicks St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Baseball, 1929; Basketball, 1929.

One whose sweet face and charming personality reflect the gentleness of a well molded character.

WISNESKI, HELEN WANDA

Helen

810 Moosic St., Scranton, Pa.

Volleyball, 1929.

Rumors say that if it had not been for Helen's excellent cooking, several of the dietitians would be in the "happy hunting grounds."

WOLF, CHARLOTTE L.

Wooz

116 No. Whittesey Ave., Wallingford, Conn.

Assistant Business Manager, Prattonia, 1930; Girls' Glee Club Secretary, 1929.

All "Wooz" and a yard high. The other half of the Wolf-Northridge team, the only female bass singers at Pratt.

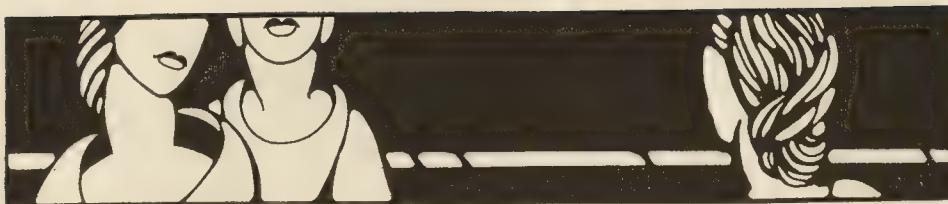

WORMAN, KATHRYN ANN

Kay

R. F. D. No. 1, Bath, Penn.

Curly hair, eyes of blue and a sweet smile are the most outstanding features of "Kay." A few minor characteristics are: an even disposition, perseverance and diligence.

DIETETICS, 1931

SEPTEMBER twenty-third found sixty-five would-be dietitians assembled in Room 26 ready to tackle the arithmetic exam which we, one and all, had fearfully anticipated for weeks previous. We found that it had been but a mere trifle when we later encountered chemistry and the endless line of "ologies."

We had not been wandering around in our new surroundings very long before we met our "big sisters," to whom we could resort when in difficulty. They introduced us into Pratt society by taking us to our first social event, The Faculty Party.

Next, we called at the Women's Club, enjoying the Sunday afternoon teas, where we bettered our acquaintance, by meeting students from the other schools. The seniors then honored us with a doughnut and cider social, known as the Junior Tea.

Gradually, we found ourselves creeping out of the fog and becoming real Prattionians. So feeling more at home but still feeling like youngsters, we gave the seniors a kiddie party where Miss Ritter and Miss Missal helped us to enjoy jump rope, ice cream cones, and lolly pops. With delight we also scrambled for peppermints which Miss Condit, our class "grandmother," threw to us. Before we could realize it, Thanksgiving recess was upon us—and then Xmas.

We have enjoyed our work at Pratt. It has been fun to meet new friends—and we are proud to say we have eleven states represented in our group, including Indiana, Alabama, Kentucky, Florida, Maine and nearby states.

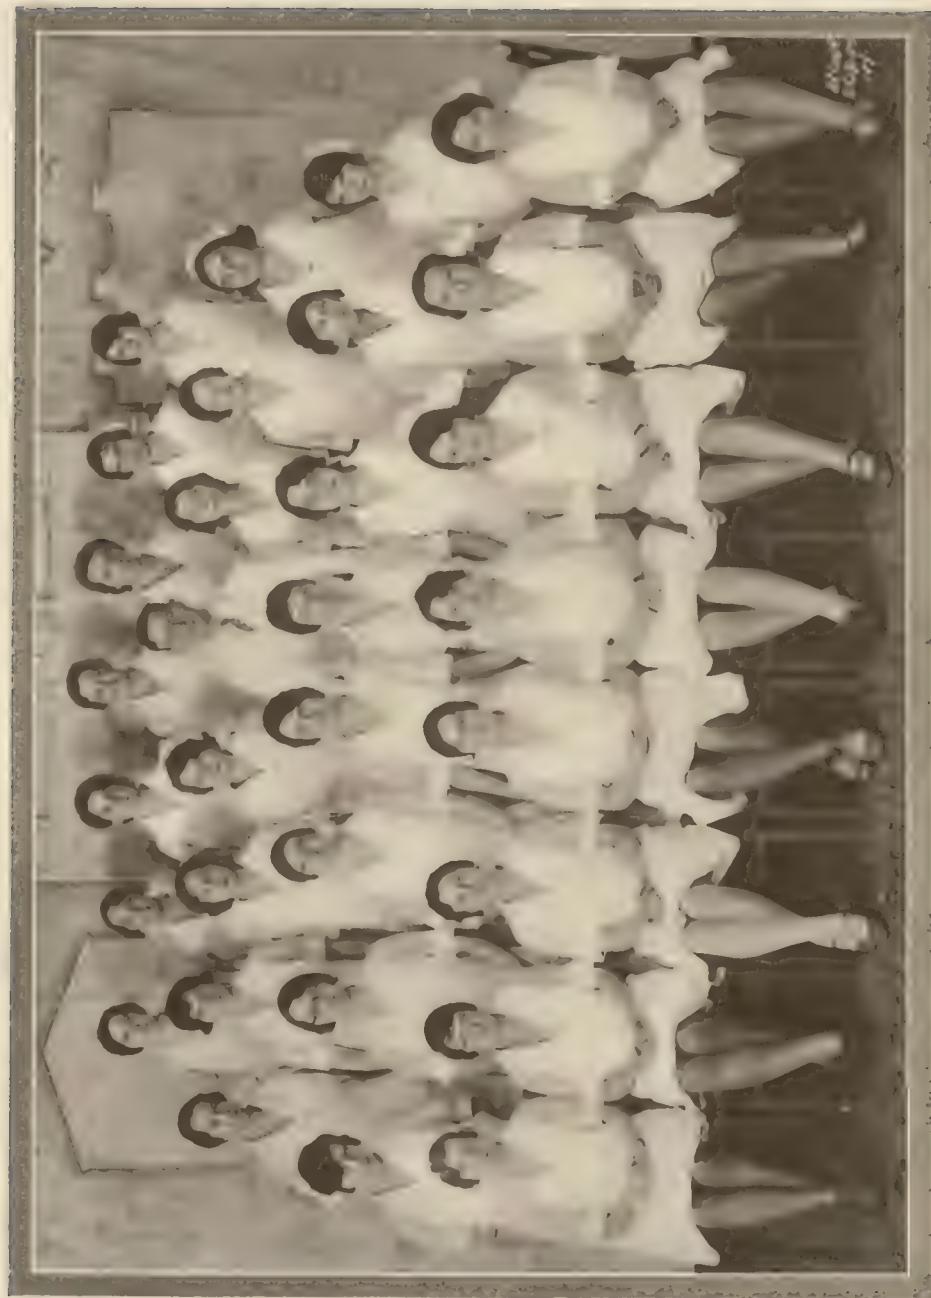

This summer we will all be scattered and working in different fields, but in the meantime, we will all be anticipating our return. We have gained much from our Junior year and we feel sure that our Senior year will be equally profitable and happy.

LINES ON A SPRING DAY

A glorious languor permeates the air
Obliterating thought of pain or care;
Panacean balm each soul's hurts relieves
And teaches men that which his inner self believes:
That he and sky are one. Infinity
Is but the lifetime of each entity
And everything that lives will ever thrive
In ever-changing forms, yet all alive.
The stone, that adamantly yieldeth not
To those poor tools that groping man hath got
Will yield to Time, disintegrate and be
The soil that feeds some child of botany,
Some grass that feeds the ruminating cow
(Super Cow of thousand years from now)
That feedeth man, who scorns the stone
And knoweth not that naught is lone,
That all is one, and one is all (of course)
That force is matter, and that matter, force.

PRATT INSTITUTE 1930

SCHOOL OF LIBRARY SCIENCE

THE Library and Library School have a unique interrelation and organization and relationship to Pratt Institute which calls for a word of explanation even within the student body of the Institute itself, while outside, the character of the Library, its threefold function with the Institute, its School, and the Public, is so rarely comprehended that it's vain to attempt an explanation of an institution so original as ours.

The Library was one of the earliest provisions made by the Founder in planning the Institute, and a year before the Institute opened, experts were at work building up a collection of books to be available when the first students came. Before the Library became a reality upon the first floor of the Main Building, the Founder determined that it should not only be the Institute Library, but should be free to all the people of Brooklyn. Thus began the Pratt Institute Free Library, when Brooklyn was a city in its own right, and no municipal public library existed; and thus it continues forty years after, free to everyone for reference use and for circulation of books,—since 1896 in a building of its own.

The need of a trained staff soon became apparent, and the Library School began within the Library with a class in cataloging in 1890. Only one other school of the kind existed at the time and that, too, was just beginning. The earlier School has had vicissitudes of changes in location and ambition in its history and development. The Pratt Library School remains essentially unchanged, the first Library School anywhere to retain so long its original policy, character and location. The Library is the School's Laboratory, and the two enjoy a singular harmony and inter-dependence which together make a unity and entity recognized as the fourth "School" of Pratt Institute.

SCHOOL OF LIBRARY SCIENCE 1930

ON September 30th, after a week of bewildering introduction to our new surroundings, the Library School settled down to a year of work and fun. There were twenty-six of us from all parts of the country, the far west, middle west, south and north. The south took all honor for numbers with its ten representatives.

Along with our work we have had the good fortune of hearing and meeting over a friendly cup of tea, the men and women who are the leaders in our profession. The real social events of the school year began with the reception at the library held by the Graduates' Association. Again in the second term they included us in their luncheon meeting at the Hotel McAlpin. But the most delightful events have been the cozy Sunday afternoon teas with Miss Rathbone where we have sat, watching candle light on old silver, and talking about books and pictures and a number of things.

The second term began with the announcement of the award of the Graduates' Scholarship to Dorothy Cummings. We are all looking forward to the spring trip to Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington. Everything promises a good time, for while we may have twenty-six different ideas about cataloging, classification and reference, we have just one thought when there is some place to go, and that is, "Come along, we'll go together."

CLASS OFFICERS

EDITH ANDERSON, President

MARY WURTS, Secretary-Treasurer

FRATTONIA 1930

ANDERSON, EDITH HERVEY

100 Ladson St., Greenville, S. C.

Class President, 1930.

Poise, enthusiasm and a happy knack of saying the right thing, makes her a most popular and capable president.

BOAL, AUGUSTA WILSON

Ronceverte, W. Va.

Friendly and dignified as her name. We envy her the possession of that necessary "exploring instinct" and her charming Walter Hampden accent.

BRUNE, AUGUSTA

Relay, Md. (Baltimore County)

We have found in her the charm and breeding of a southern gentlewoman, blended with a stimulating wisdom acquired through travel and many friendships.

CAMERON, ELIZABETH

Betty

Chapel Hill, N. C.

Her drawl is southern, but she belongs to the wide fellowship of artists, whose fingers are always busy with a pencil. When her gaze is keenest, beware!

CARLISLE, ETHEL DUNN

Easley Rd., Greenville, S. C.

Ring her doorbell and you will learn about hospitality that is born of Carolina. Ethel is quite an authority on subways, but the "L" can lead her astray.

PRATTONIA 1930

CUMMINGS, DOROTHY MARY

12 Village St., Webster, Mass.

If, "The talent of success is nothing more than doing what you can do well, and doing well whatever you do without thought of fame," then Dorothy has the talent and we wish her the success.

GALLIVAN, KATHERINE C.

Kay

83 Sorrento St., Providence, R. I.

Wit and whimsicality, added to a keen mind, and the unknown quantity which is called personality, equals—"Kay."

GARCEAU, RUTH SEARS

1512 E. Main St., Muncie, Ind.

Prattonia representative, 1930.

Bright, snapping eyes and clicking heels. Look into her sketchbook and see yourself as others see you.

HAINES, ETHEL

Hunter, N. Y.

Quiet sureness and an infinite capacity for taking pains, make you certain that victory will be hers.

HARRISON, MARGUERITE RALPH

253 Ryerson St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

She has that rare and quiet reserve of manner which can bubble over surprisingly, into carefree laughter and keen words.

FRATTONIA 1930

HAZEN, MARGARET PAIGE

Manomet, Mass.

A charming New Englander, our authority on Cutter, and a good companion on any expedition, especially a hike.

HOLLIDAY, REUBIE GRISSETTE

Galivant's Ferry, S. C.

This vivacious child of the sunny South never misses anything north of the Mason-Dixon Line. Even though she can keep the gang-plank of the "Bremen" waiting, she cannot stop traffic!

JOHNSON, MARTHA GLADYS

Mars Hill, N. C.

Her manner of speaking, makes us confident of her friendliness and her ability to carry out her plans.

KEMP, GRACE ETHYL

406 W. Briggs St., Fairfield, Iowa

We have found in her the genuine quality of warmth and friendliness that one likes in good neighbors. Tenacity and sportsmanship are in the spirit she brings to her work.

KING, ELIZABETH

152 W. Forest Ave., Muskegon, Mich.

Enthusiastic, friendly and an unfailing source of suggestions for places to visit in New York, and what to do when you get there.

SPRATIONIA 1930

MASON, KATHARINE WILLIAMS

31 Grace Court, Brooklyn, N. Y.

She has a certain vigor and originality, which can come from no other source but a background of reading, travel, and interesting experience.

MIDDLEKAUFF, LOIS ELAINE

38 N. Potomac St., Hagerstown, Md.

Conscientious, thorough and industrious, one finds in her a real friend and an interesting companion.

NELSON, JULIA CHRISTINE

333 W. 23rd St., New York, N. Y.

Her interests are broad, her fund of knowledge apparently unlimited; just try to trip her on French literature.

REED, JANE MAJOR

Portland, Ore.

Women's Club Representative, 1930.

She has that envied combination of beauty, brains, and charm all her own.

SARDESON, ALICE DAWSON

Fredonia, N. Y.

Only one with unlimited ambition and energy would attempt her Herculean task of work at both Pratt and New York University.

FRATTONIA 1930

SHORT, MARY DOROTHEA

93 E. 69th St., Portland, Ore.

We owe Dorothea a vote of thanks for frequently enlivening our current topics and fiction seminar with her keen wit.

STONE, ELIZABETH COWPLAND

424 Woodland Ave., Wayne, Pa.

In class, she welcomes a lively discussion provided she has a well founded conviction to defend. And after class—there is "Betty," always ready to go places and do things.

TURPIN, EVELYN WAINWRIGHT

1264 New Hampshire Ave., Washington, D. C.

Her keen intellect, ready wit, and clever tongue make her so agreeable a companion, that we can forgive her for actually liking Tolstoy.

WOODS, THEODORA WAGNER

Dodie

403 E. Hampton St., Darlington, S. C.

"Dodie's" always sweet, sometimes very serious, but her bubbling laugh is never far from the surface. Altogether she is a very charming person.

WURTS, MARY H. B.

Polly

19 Prospect Ter., East Orange, N. J.

Class Secretary and Treasurer, 1930. Intelligence, charm, sincerity combine to make "Polly" one of the best liked in the class. No task is too hard for her to attempt. Nothing humorous ever escapes her.

PRATTONTA
1930

YATES, ANNIE LEE

Cary, N. C.

Everything about her from the syllables of her name, to the soft tones of her voice, is reminiscent of what we have come to expect of charming Southerners.

OPERATION 1930

SOCIALLY SPEAKING

THE school started its Social Activities with a bang, and ever since, we have been whirling around to the snappy tunes just off Broadway. Every Friday night during basketball season, the "Belles and Beau Brummels" exercised their lungs to cheer on our Alma Mater. Saturday nights, Recreation Hall, as if by the aid of Aladdin's Lamp, everlastingly changed its scenes.

October 4—"Bud" Harper's Boiler Makers started the social whirl with a dance. The boys proved to the world in general, that they were as much at home on a dance floor as in the foundry.

November 1—Student Council Dance—The Recreation Hall was appropriately decorated with cats, ghosts and Jack O'Lanterns. Our hunger appeased and our thirst quenched by delicious doughnuts and cider.

January 25—Dark Africa was transported to Pratt by the ever original Artsmen, when they presented their Jungle Dance. We almost went native that night with "Hula" dancers, monkeys and not to say anything of the animal crackers and the punch.

February 14—The Glee Club wore their hearts on their sleeve's in honor of the Patron Saint, when they gave their Valentine Dance in combination with the Glee Club concert. If they keep up, Pratt will be noted for "whispering tenors" and "barking basses."

March 7—Dress Design—Fishes here, fishes there, fishes everywhere. These nautical creatures announced the forth coming dance for the benefit of our long hoped for "new swimming pool."

March 15—A bit of old Ireland again changed the scene of Recreation Hall, when the Senior Dietitians gave an old fashioned St. Patrick's dance. Everybody showed their Irish by having a "jigging" good time.

April 4—Ship Ahoy on the S. S. Paletteers, and how we did ship! Never was there a merrier crew of seafaring people. When we walked the gangplank to first deck, we were all set for a "Bon Voyage."

Our good times will be carried up to the very last minute. We are looking forward to the Architect's Dance, April 11th, and the Tank Hop given by the Home Economics club for the pool fund on May 2. Last and far from least, our Senior Prom will be held on June 6 in one of the large ballrooms in the vicinity. This is our first attempt at a combined dance of all graduating students and promises to be a gala affair.

TRADITION
1930

STUDENT COUNCIL, 1930

STUDENT COUNCIL 1930

THE Student Council was originally formed to promote and assist all student activities—both social and recreational, and to develop and maintain the interest of the students in these activities. To this end the Council of 1929-30 has been most successful. Through the various class presidents it has kept the entire student body informed regarding all events. Through its supervision of the Pep Meetings for all important games during the Basketball season it aroused great enthusiasm among the students. Several afternoon dances and one evening dance on Hallowe'en served to bring the students of the different schools together. In order, however, to extend its usefulness, the Student Council showed unusual initiative in inaugurating and conducting several other enterprises.

The first of these was the reorganization of the Glee Club. There is no doubt as to the success of this club. Under the capable leadership of Mr. Tebbs it gave two delightful concerts and displayed unusual talent and skill.

The inauguration of the drive for a new and modern swimming pool was by far the most difficult undertaking of the year. A huge student rally was held on February 11th, the success of which it is needless to mention. Great enthusiasm was shown toward the project and the sum of seven hundred dollars pledged. This, of course, was only the start of the drive. Many hours were spent writing to and speaking before the several alumni associations in our appeal to them to endow this much needed addition. It is hoped that the students will continue to support this drive when they, too, become alumni.

Great pride is taken in the fact that the idea of the Senior Prom and its organization is credited to the Council, although the graduating classes took the responsibility of working out the details. We hope that this will eventually grow into a great force which will tend to cement the friendships of the entire Institute.

If the students in each separate school have been brought into closer contact with each other, and if the school spirit of the entire student body has been developed to a greater degree by all these efforts, then the Student Council of 1929-30 feels that it has fulfilled its obligations, and has accomplished something really worth while.

GLEE CLUB

THE Glee Club was reorganized this Fall, after being dormant for a period of seven years. Our organization got under way almost immediately, sponsored by the very able Mr. Leroy Tebbs.

Plans for our first concert were laid. The night chosen was February 14, 1930, this being the first Glee Club concert to be held in Memorial Hall. After much practice, extra rehearsals, and last minute planning, the big night came. Of the twelve selected numbers, there were two outstandingly well done. "Trees," that immortal poem by Joyce Kilmer put into song was rendered by the Women's Club, and the Men's Club sang the Negro spiritual "Scandalize Ma Name," which met with great applause. Considering that this was the first concert of its kind for several years, and a strange event for the student body—the concert was a success. Dancing in Recreation Hall was an added attraction after the concert.

From all outward appearances the Glee Club is now a success and here to stay.

THE ARTISANS

THE Artisans, is a club composed of students of Costume Design, founded for the purpose of having an outside contact with people who are prominent in the field of costume design. Informal teas are held, at which these people speak. Those who have graciously given of their time and knowledge are Dr. Paul Nystrom and Miss Iris Smythe. We look forward to having Helen Cornelius, Mary MacKinnon and others with us in the near future.

We, who believe in the importance of its purpose, hope that the Artisans will be a permanent club at Pratt.

THE Women's Club can finally be included in the ranks of the sub-debs. We celebrated its sixteenth birthday this year, and what a birthday party it was, with ice cream and presents and everything to make it a gala occasion.

You probably all know that the Women's Club is the "haven of rest" for all homesick students. We can do absolutely anything we like at the club, from washing silk stockings to serving pink tea. Rumors say that such precious things as trousseaus have been created in the sewing room.

No matter how timid or shy we are—Mrs. Taylor always puts us at our ease and gives us a hearty welcome.

THE MEN'S CLUB

THE Men's Club is the recreational center for the men of the Institute. Here the students gather after a hard day's study to drive dull cares away with easy relaxation and pleasant pastimes.

The main floor of the Club building has a comfortable, "clubby" interior, adorned with trophies and furnished with restful chairs and lounges. At one's elbow are found all the latest magazines while chess and checkers beckon to the mentally agile. From the basement below comes the rumble and crack of the bowling alleys, which, reverberating through the building attests to the zeal of the bowlers. The second floor is devoted to pool and billiards while on the top story is found the deservedly popular P. I. Lunch, where, at noon-hour, students munch sandwiches in accompaniment to the soft, sometimes hot strains of the school orchestra.

Over all presides our genial and sympathetic friend, Mr. Wright, who conducts a forum of advice and help to students with problems and troubles.

PALETTEERS

CARRYING on the work of the Paletteers this year has been a two-fold pleasure, first in doing our best in fulfilling the purposes of the organization, and second, in participating in the educational and social activities of the club.

Our lecture committee under the leadership of Beatrice Cursons has worked quite energetically in procuring speakers. Among the artists who have honored us are: Waterson Lowe, Paul Frankl, Thomas Fogarty, Ernest Watson, Pousset d'Art, and Neysa McMein.

Barbara Howe and the entertainment committee have successfully superintended our share in the Artsmen-Paletteers dance of October and an unusual Paletteers dinner and entertainment in March. Miss Howe and her co-workers are making arrangements for a Sport Prom in April.

We close our year with best wishes to the Paletteers of 1931, hoping that they will enjoy the work we will to them, as thoroughly and sincerely as we of 1930 have done.

THE ARTSMEN

ARTSMEN activities this year have been very successful in all lines of endeavor. A full program of social affairs, educational work and athletics has been carried out.

The Artsmen-Paletteer Dance and the Howdy Banquet served to acquaint the new comers and the upper classmen, and to get the year's program in full swing. The visiting speakers have been among the finest we have had as yet. Other social functions gave everyone a good time. The outstanding event in Artsmen sports was the winning of the Swimming Championship for the second time.

PRATT INSTITUTE BRANCH OF THE AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF ELECTRICAL ENGINEERS

THE organization, formerly known as the "Pratt Institute Electrical Association," made an important step forward in the current year when it became affiliated with the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. This, marks the twenty-ninth year of successful organization.

The association offers its members the opportunity to present technical papers before an audience, to develop their talents in public speaking and to assist them in becoming acquainted with the trend of modern electrical developments.

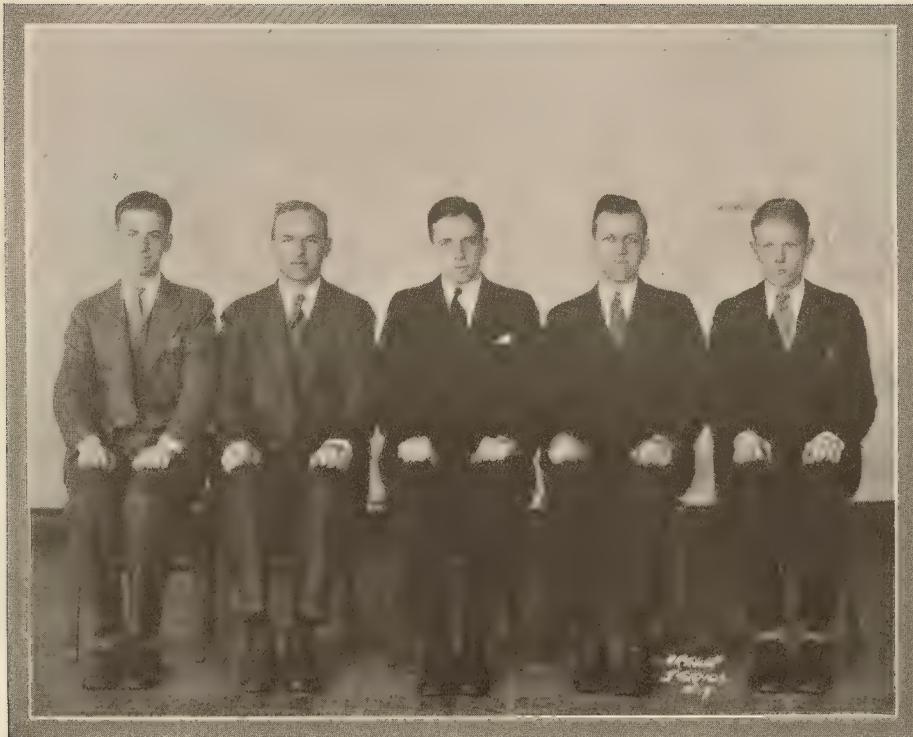

An interesting program of speeches and visiting trips to important industrial concerns was enjoyed by all the participants. Everyone taking part in the activities has been able to broaden his view of the electrical industry.

The officers and members of the class of 1930 hope that the succeeding class will enjoy even greater success in the coming year.

THE Student Branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers at Pratt is one of the most active student branches of the senior society. It functions, in order to give its members the opportunity to become accustomed to addressing an audience. It also serves to acquaint the students with phases of engineering, which are found in practice, through the medium of papers presented at the weekly meetings.

Many inspection trips are held during the year, under the efficient supervision of instructors, where actual operating and production methods are seen and explained.

This year the Pratt Student Branch arranged and conducted all the inspection trips for the annual student branch convention held in conjunction with the annual convention of the senior society.

All in all we feel that this has been an outstanding year for our student branch and that it has proven beneficial to all.

For, after all, it is these acquaintances and friendships which we are creating now, that will be invaluable to us when we enter upon life's threshold.

Each month during the school year, we have held smokers, at which times, movies and talks by men in the industry were presented. The interest in meetings reached its climax at the January meeting, when Dr. C. L. Mantell gave an interesting and instructive talk on "Metallurgy."

As this publication goes to press we are looking forward to our boys putting the Chemical classes on the map at the S and T convention. We are anticipating two enjoyable evenings: the night of our closed formal dance and the night of our annual dinner.

ATHLETICS

It would be difficult to over-emphasize the importance of Athletics at Pratt Institute, in the service they render to the participants more particularly, and in a lesser degree to the whole student body. The primary object of the Athletic Association, through its officers and through the Department of Physical Education, is to render the greatest possible service to Pratt men.

When students who enter the Institute go out for the various teams, they soon learn to withstand the hardships and disappointments of competition. They are not only matched against others physically, but mentally and morally as well.

Fair play, sportsmanlike conduct and team work are fundamentals in our coaching ethics. This spirit combined with a determination on the part of each man to do his level best, inspires him with physical stamina, moral courage, and mental alertness.

The program of Varsity sports for the year consisted of basketball, baseball, and tennis. The basketball season has been an unusually successful one. Winning twice from "Poly" makes any schedule look good. It was necessary last year for the Tennis Team to play on rented courts, and this year the same policy will be followed.

Other sports conducted during the year were: soccer-football, class basketball, baseball, wrestling and boxing, fencing and swimming. Interclass schedules in all of the above except fencing, boxing and wrestling were conducted. In securing Mr. Krikorian as swimming coach, a special boost was given the interest in swimming and life saving.

Interclass athletics give opportunity to a large number of men to get into active competition. Last year by actual count there were two hundred and sixteen different individuals engaged in our athletic program. Of course many of these men were active in more than one sport. It is a matter of record that these men whether Varsity or interclass are better men and are well compensated for the time they have devoted to this form of recreation.

THE ATHLETIC COUNCIL

SINCE its beginning in 1922, the Athletic Council has been the leading spirit in promoting larger and finer athletic programs at the Institute. The functions of the Council are to regulate men's interclass sports, to make athletic awards and to govern general athletics at Pratt.

The Council is composed of representatives from each of the men's classes. Meetings are held regularly every week and current business is discussed.

Under the capable guidance of the faculty advisors, Mr. Wright and Mr. Hostetter, the Council has made this the most successful year in the annals of Pratt athletics. All interclass sports were greeted with great enthusiasm by the students and participants turned out in large numbers.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

PRATT Institute can well be proud of her Varsity basketball squad this year. Facing one of the most difficult schedules in the history of the sport at Pratt, the team showed itself to be one of the best combinations of fast, skillful and clean players seen at the Institute in many years.

Six veterans of last year's squad played this season. They were: guards, Doley and Fuller; forwards, Lafferandre, Captain Orr and Welch; center, Otis.

The turnout of new candidates for the team disclosed some exceptionally talented material. Twelve new men were retained by Coach McKillop for the squad. They were: guards, Becker, Francis, Point, Lasewicz and Campbell; forwards, Baker, Gunther, Kuhlman and Anderson; centers, Fink and May.

With deep satisfaction we review the two games that Pratt played with and won from Brooklyn Poly. "Beat Poly" was ever the slogan at Pratt and our defeat of last year was fully vindicated.

The squad did some traveling, playing at Schenectady, Worcester and Hartford. The Union College game at the first city was probably the fastest and most exciting game of the season.

Coach McKillop deserves thanks and congratulations for turning out such a team. Manager Daniel Tassilo, who ably managed the squad, should receive commendation for his untiring work.

The following is a short résumé of the schedule:

Cooper Union—22

Pratt—29

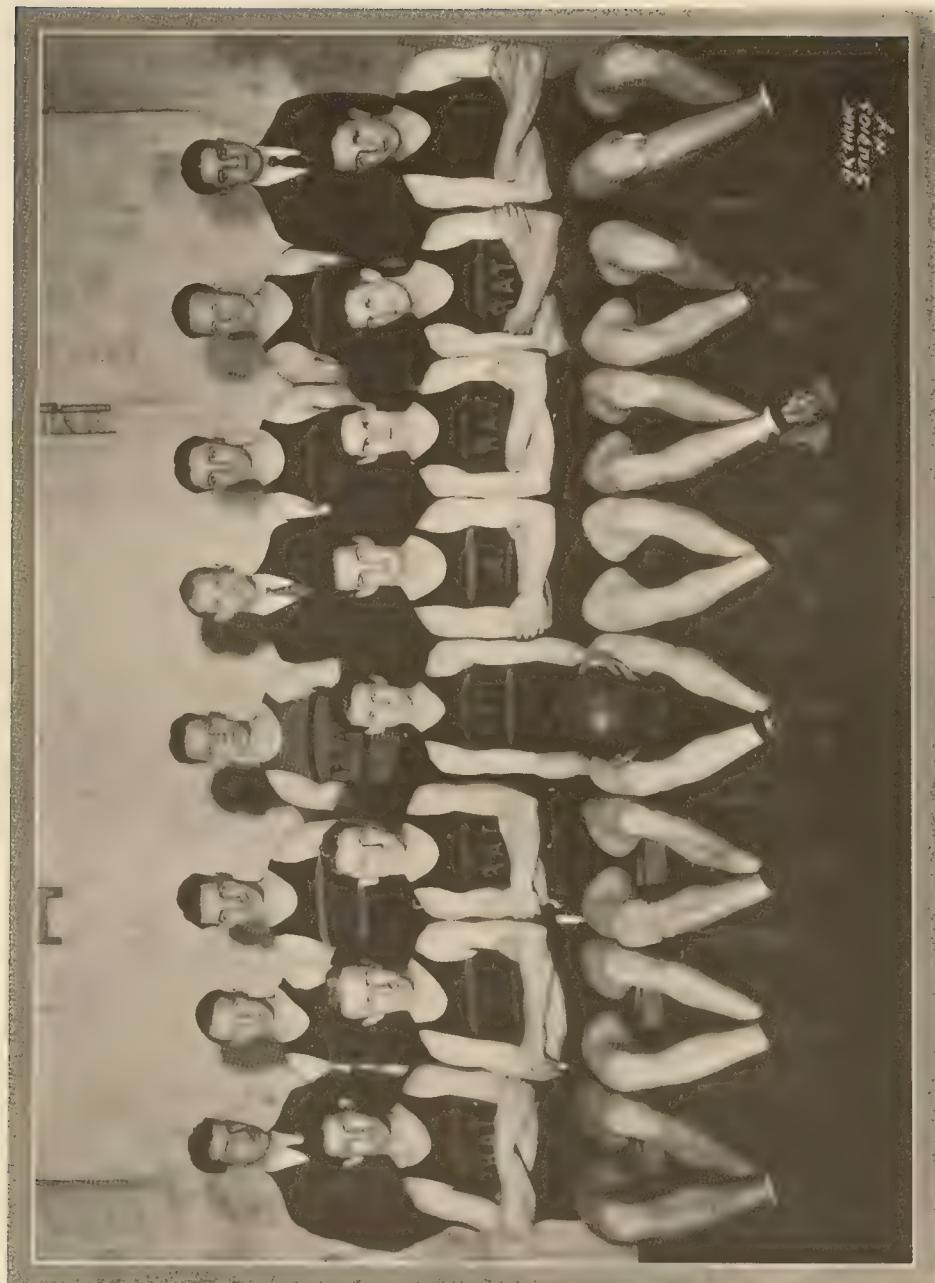

The annual opening game with Cooper Union proved to be a fast contest in which our visitors showed unexpected strength. Scoring was close in the first half, but the excellent teamwork of the Pratt quintet soon piled up a safe lead, enabling Coach McKillop to send in the Junior Varsity.

New York Aggies—16

Pratt—39

Opposing a team of visitors far heavier than themselves, the Pratt quintet soundly trounced the Aggies in a game characterized by brilliant passing and shooting. Pratt forged ahead from the start and attained such a lead that the Junior Varsity team was ushered in at the closing five minutes of each half.

NATIONAL
1930

BASKETBALL SQUAD, 1930

Harvard University—34

Pratt—25

The star game of the season was played before a packed gymnasium and many enthusiasts had to be turned away.

Pratt functioned in smooth unison to compile an advantage of 19 to 15 in the first half, but the Crimson came back after intermission with a great spurt. It was not until late in the second half that the visitors engineered a highly concentrated attack of long shooting that turned an apparent Pratt victory to a well earned Crimson triumph.

University of Delaware—20

Pratt—26

In a game featured by some of the roughest playing seen on the home court, the Pratt quintet trimmed the Delaware team by hot attacks at the ends of the halves. Pratt led at half-time by 13 to 10 and it was nip and tuck until the last two minutes of the game when Orr sank three remarkable field goals in quick succession and put the game on ice.

Cathedral College—20

Pratt—23

Snapping ahead to a fifteen to six lead at half-time, secured by fine passing and shooting, Pratt was temporarily stopped by a spirited comeback by our visitors. The game was hot and fast at the end of the final half and two extra five minute periods were declared.

Union College—30

Pratt—27

One of the fastest games of the season was played at Schenectady. The contest started off with close guarding and neither side scoring for two minutes. Pratt was ahead at half-time by seventeen to fifteen points and at no time were more than two baskets behind their rivals. The great playing of Laf-ferandre gave Pratt the lead time and again.

Crescent A. C.—29

Pratt—17

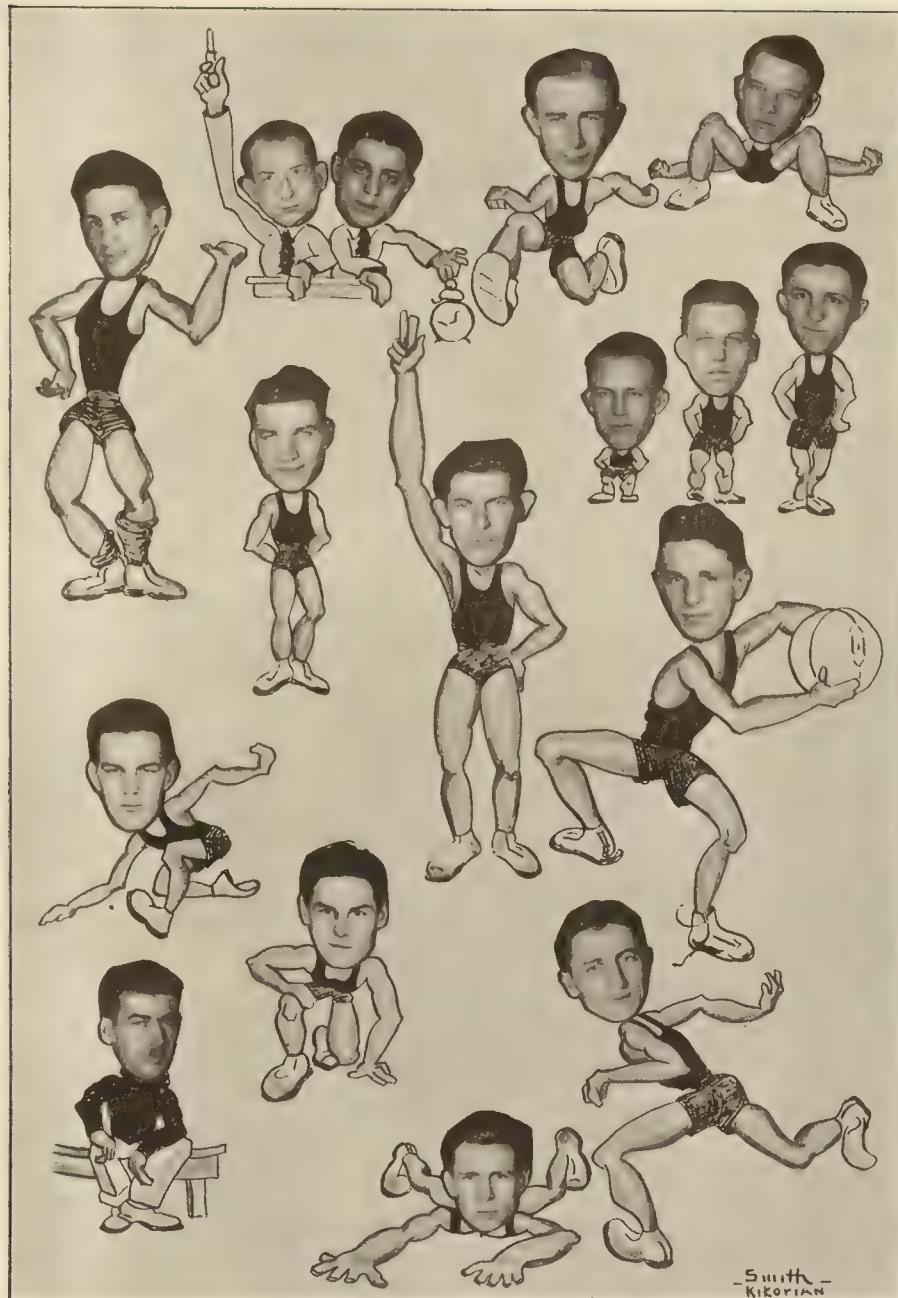

The remarkably powerful Crescent five beat Pratt despite some fine individual playing by our basketeers. The "New Mooners" led at half-time by the score of fourteen to nine.

Rensselaer Poly—24

Pratt—37

Pratt resumed her winning stride and soundly trounced our visitors from up-river to the above tune. Previous to the game the Rensselaer five was the unbeaten team upstate and had a long string of decisive victories until it met Pratt. The game was hotly contested and was crammed full of action.

SPORTS
1930

New York State College—17

Pratt—31

This was almost exclusively a Junior Varsity game for Pratt. All the boys got a chance to get into the fracas. The "Jayvees" played all but about five minutes of the game and scored their points with no very heavy opposition. At the midway mark the score was twenty to nine.

Brooklyn Poly—13

Pratt—20

Our traditional rivals came to the home court with a fast, hard-fighting team that provided a contest replete with thrills and spills. Both teams showed pep and ardor and many fouls were called for both sides. The play was savage at times, for Poly energetically tried to even up the lead that Pratt gained at the very start. Our boys held the lead just as determinedly. Pratt played without a single substitute for any of the Varsity players. Twelve of Pratt's twenty points were made on foul shots.

Worcester Poly—21

Pratt—18

Pratt met a fast and snappy team at Worcester and played a close game. The score was tied several times and reached a ten point tie at intermission. "Worcester" then ranged ahead until it met a Pratt rally which unfortunately came too late.

Trinity College—22

Pratt—19

Trinity beat Pratt by a squeaky margin at Hartford on the night following the Worcester game. The first half was full of aggressive, well-knit defense on both sides and the score stood ten up when it closed, repeating the performance of the previous evening. After intermission, Trinity slipped into a three point lead, was tied, went ahead again by four points and held the lead until the cannon barked.

Alumni—26

Pratt—38

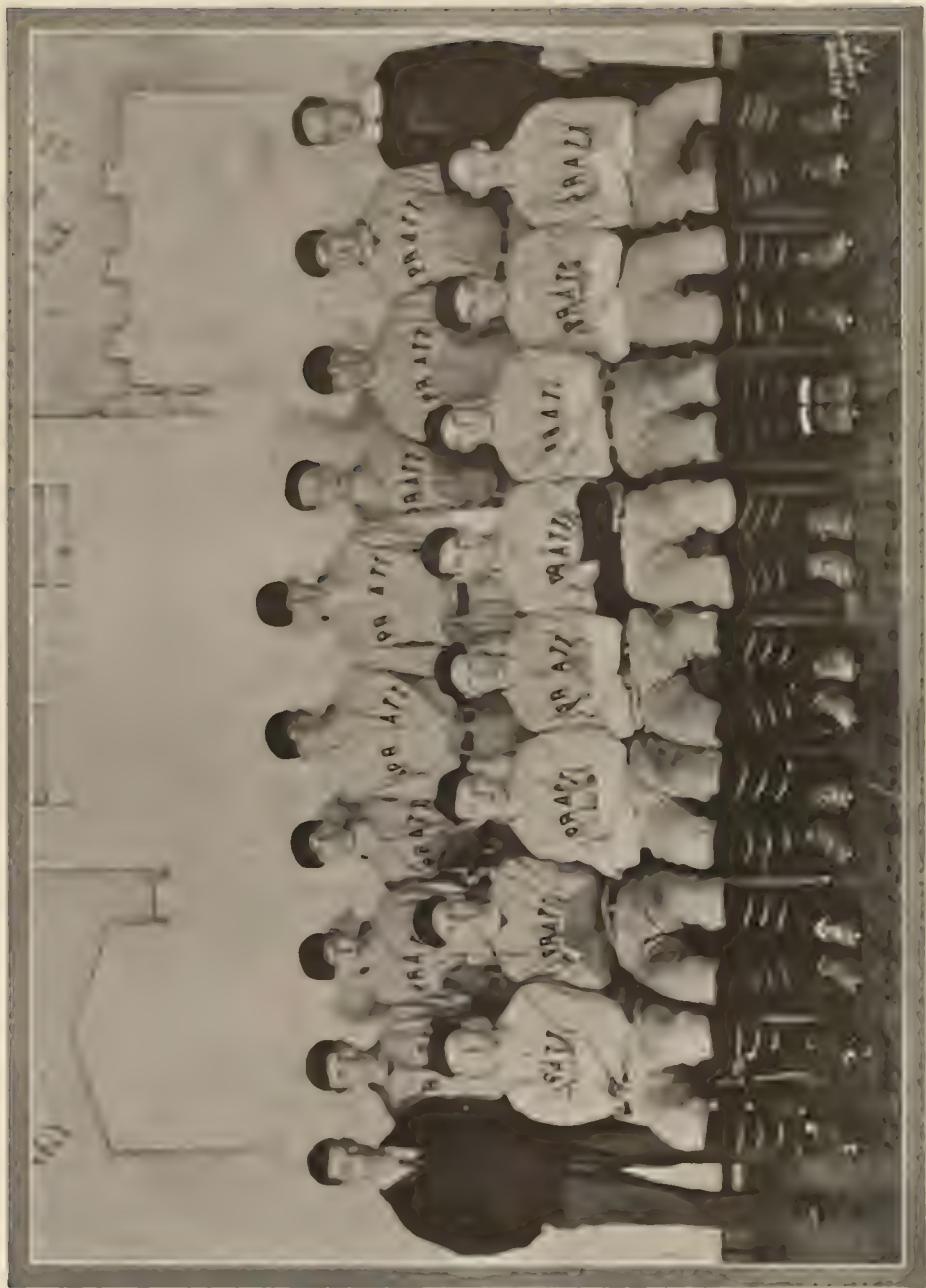

A huge crowd of enthusiastic alumni and undergraduates attended this popular annual event and made it a successful athletic and social function. At no time was the Varsity quintet seriously threatened and all of the Junior Varsity squad received a chance to play. The game was notable in that four past Pratt basketball captains played on the alumni team at one time.

Brooklyn Poly—22

Pratt—39

Again our old rivals were decisively beaten by Pratt. The game was played on Poly's narrow court and the superiority of the Pratt quintet was readily apparent in all the plays. Captain Orr generalized his men to a snappy lead at the start which was kept up during the entire game. At half-time Pratt stood ahead by twenty to eight. Doley, Fuller, Lafferandre and Orr played their last basketball game for their Alma Mater.

BASEBALL SQUAD, 1930

VARSITY BASEBALL

AT the first call for the squad, approximately fifty men turned out for the varsity nine. Only two regulars returned to play this year, but Manager Modig reports a very promising outlook for the almost new team.

The initial game, with Long Island University, was played before a large gallery. Heavy hitting in the first two innings, by both sides, kept the score even, but as the game went on, Pratt gradually pulled ahead. The final score being 13—10. A home run by Malewski helped to swell the score.

The Pratt nine proved to be a troublesome opponent for the City College of New York. Boemerman pitched an excellent game and kept the C. C. N. Y. boys well in check until the seventh inning, when they scored three runs, making the final count 6—2.

In our third game of the season Cathedral College was overwhelmingly defeated by a score of 21—7. In the early part of the game, the two teams were evenly matched in the scoring but starting with the fourth inning, Pratt, by some very heavy batting, took all hopes of Cathedral winning out of sight. Boemerman again pitched an excellent game and Gale hit the only home-run of the game, bringing in two men with him.

Manager Modig has arranged the following schedule for the season:

- April 5—Long Island University
- April 10—City College of New York
- April 12—Cathedral College
- April 19—Connecticut Aggies
- April 22—Muhlenberg
- April 26—Crescent A. C.
- May 3—Stevens
- May 9—Rensselaer Poly
- May 17—Alumni

CHEER LEADERS

IMMEDIATELY following the soccer season Varsity cheer-leader Donderi issued the call for able assistants. Ten talented live wires responded and "Shadow" Alt, "Vin" Kramer, "Bill" McLaughlin and "Fred" Powell were chosen to whoop up the coming basketball season. The Cooper Union game showed that the basketball season was to go over with a bang. The cheerleaders did a great deal to stir up enthusiasm and vocal support.

Shortly after the Harvard game cheer-leader Donderi left school and the squad received a serious setback, but undaunted the leaders finished the season very successfully.

It was announced at the Athletic Association Banquet that Vincent Kramer would carry on the good work next year.

VARSITY TENNIS, 1930

After passing through a very successful season last year, varsity tennis was greeted with fresh enthusiasm this year. Four of last season's seven matches were won by the Pratt racqueeteers and this year's schedule promises to show an even better record.

Three veterans returned to the team, Captain Ruzicka, Johnson and Lafandre. The new men are showing good tennis form and all indications point to a strong squad next year. They are: Baptiste, Garniss, Gross, Leong and Raynor.

The loss of the old tennis courts was expected to retard the progress of this sport at Pratt, but the contrary proved to be true. A fine new court has been constructed by the Athletic Council and is in great demand by players.

Manager Cox announces the following schedule for this year:

April 19	Cooper Union

INTERCLASS BASKETBALL

INTERCLASS basketball, one of the liveliest sports at Pratt, passed through another very successful season. The keenest of rivalry was found among the classes and many excellent teams were developed. Interest was further heightened due to the fact that the E. C. Sireci trophy, an interclass basketball championship cup, was at stake.

Contrary to all expectations and prophecies the second year Electricals lifted the championship and thereby surprised everyone. This class had not won a championship in a great many years and their suddenly displayed skill was wholly unsuspected.

The yearling Electricals turned out to be runners up, furnishing another surprise. In the play-off the seniors defeated their younger classmates by two straight victories. All indications for next year point to a similarly interesting season.

FRATTORIA

BIG PINS

THE second year Industrial Mechanical Engineers, in their customary manner, again upheld the tradition of the class by winning the interclass "big pin" bowling championship. The "boiler-makers" seem to take to bowling like ducks to water. Their victories were not limited to the day school only, for in defeating the best of the night school, they became champions of the Institute.

This enviable record was produced by the combination of Elmendorf, McCabe, Chase, Kellert and Pease, ably led by Manager Hawkins.

SPATTONIA

DUCK PINS

DUCK pins, as well as big pins, seem to be a sport success, which is reserved for the exclusive use of Mechanical Seniors. Again, as per tradition, the second year "boiler-makers" did their duty by their class and captured the duck pin championship. Discouragement is rife among the rival bowlers, for the Mechanicals seem to be as firmly impregnable as ever before. The "boiler-makers" are doing little worrying about next year for their yearlings were runners up.

The usual team of Elmendorf, Kellert, Linder, McCabe and Pease officiated and Manager Hawkins took charge of the business end of the meets.

PRATT ATHLETICS

BOXING

THESE aspirants for pugilistic honors under the guiding hand of Coach Eben Wooley, have given boxing a high place in the roster of Pratt Athletics. Large classes in boxing are regularly held on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons providing everyone a chance to learn to box well. The regular class consists of nearly thirty men and Coach Wooley reports that there are an exceptional number of talented new boxers, chief of whom are Donohue, Hughes and Spinney.

For the first time the boxing squad is in possession of a ring, and matches are held in regular professional style. Complete equipment is on hand and a standing invitation is extended to men to come out for this real sport.

Pratt Yearbook

FENCING

FENCING has reached the largest growth this year in the history of Pratt athletics. Under the leadership of Conant, Espenshied and Westeren, several matches have been held with outside organizations.

A large number of enthusiasts of both sexes have taken up this interesting and instructive sport. The women's fencing club, "Fleurette d'Or" and the men's, "Masqueraders," hold regular practice periods and candidates are readily admitted to these circles.

The able support of the Athletic Council has permitted the fencers to secure complete equipment for the pursuit of their sport.

ATTONIA 1930

INTERCLASS SWIMMING

SWIMMING started off with a bang this season, a great deal of interest being stirred up by the prospect of a new pool in the near future.

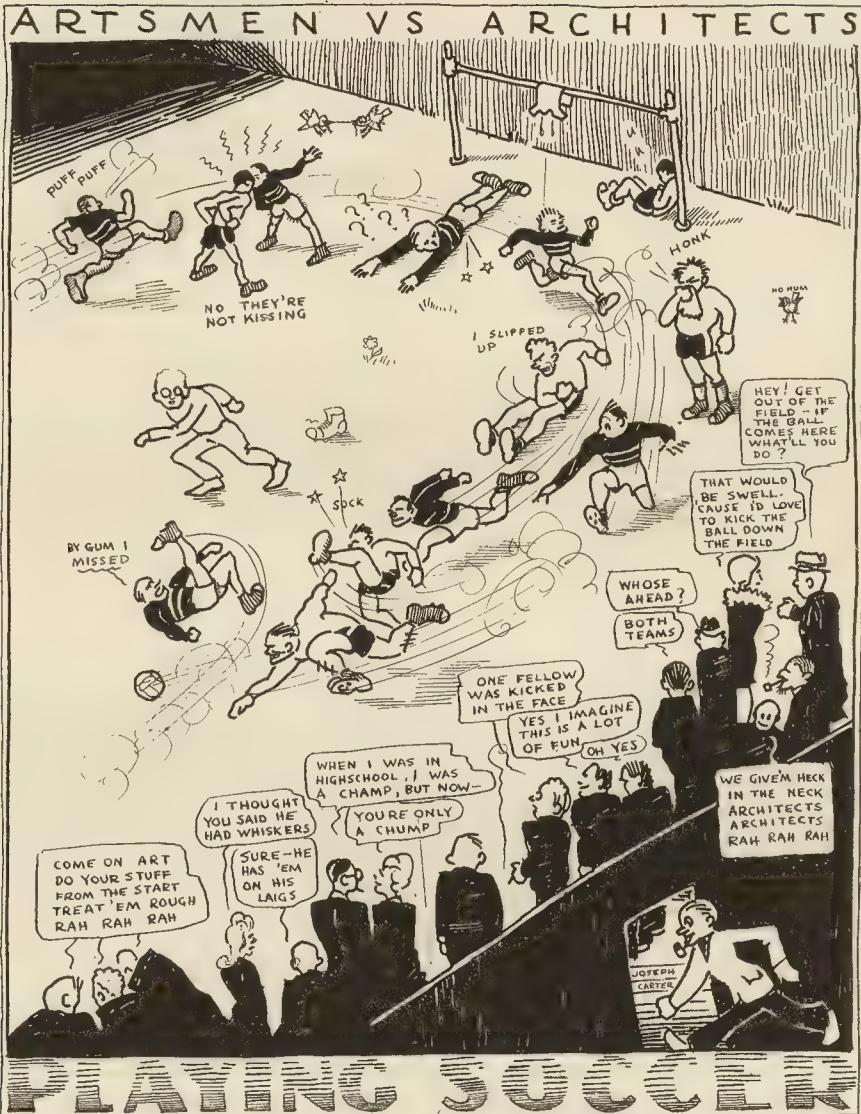

The schedule of meets was full of exciting matches and many close heats were fought. The Artsmen finally emerged victorious, holding the championship for the second consecutive time. The Architects were runners up and gave the artists some good fights, but the swimming of Stahlhut, Krickorian, Andrews, Cooke, Rice and Temple was too much for them.

Henry Stahlhut, in his last meet for the Artsmen, broke one of the school records.

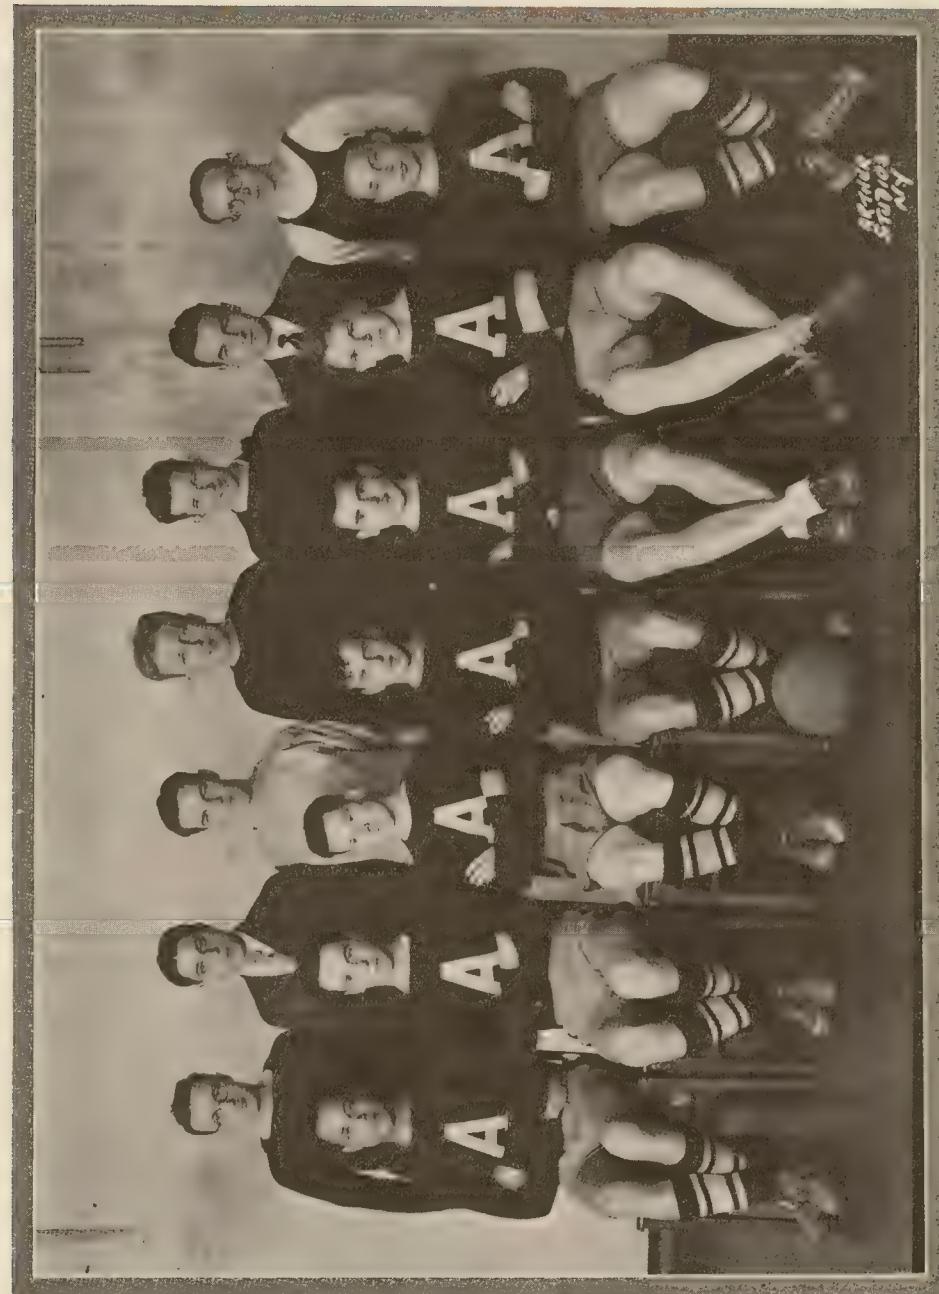

Mr. Wright bravely endured the splashing and conducted the meets. Manager Wurret took able charge of the season.

INTERCLASS SOCCER

ALL classes went out for soccer in a serious manner, this year. The teams were nicely matched and it was usually anyone's game until the final whistle blew. Their seriousness and enthusiasm were shown by the close scores resulting from most games. Considering that the majority of men on these teams had never played before coming to Pratt, a very good brand of soccer was displayed.

The abounding class-spirit of the Architects carried their team through to victory without a single defeat or tie. Machine-like team-work and the squad discipline of Manager Jacobsen turned the trick.

The Chemists, last year's victors, were runners-up and had a good season marred only by one defeat and one tie. M. E. I and M. E. II tied for third place, each team winning and losing three games.

The most interesting game was undoubtedly the championship fracas between the two leading teams. It was a hard fought, closely contested game and only by the most skillful head and foot work were the Architects able to overcome their rivals.

The surprise of the season was the unexpected soccer talent displayed by the first year Mechanicals. The youngsters put a real scare into the senior teams. They used a fast, aggressive type of play that will prove dangerous to their competitors next year.

Tentative plans for a Varsity soccer squad were in motion, utilizing the pick of the class squads. Games with other colleges were scheduled, by Manager Pape, but the length of the interclass season and the inclemency of the weather forbade the carrying out of this schedule.

B EING ill and going to an infirmary is never a pleasant thought for a student—that is where the Pratt student has a decided advantage. When he is sick, or just tired, he can go to the Rest House; get into a comfortable bed, and receive most attractive trays. He is the recipient of every comfort possible.

Miss Hale and Mrs. Hatch are temporary mothers to all of us, and their care exemplifies patience and comfort.

We never fear the ordeal of sickness while at Pratt with such a well organized Rest House—a trip there is almost a pleasure.

STAR	One of those twinkling luminaries which help the moon to weave its magic spell.	The laurel given for a perfect Gym. record.	The abode of a quantity of alleged food. Greek cuisine a specialty.
STUDENTS' BULLETIN	All the doings of our dear old Alma Mater.	Registry of Vital Statistics.	We know not from whence it comes. Found every Friday at the Men's Club.
RECESS	Comes once every thirty minutes and lasts for half an hour.	A term which we can apply only to the part time courses.	Something which happened way back when "Bud" was a boy.
ART STUDENT	One of the chosen few. The ne plus ultra of humanity.	Something to be tolerated. A necessary evil.	The height of uselessness,—similar to a rubber boot on a duck.
BOILERMAKER	The lowest form of genus homo. Seven insects lower than the flea.	One of those big, strong, silent men who can stand the ravages of a dietitian's culinary efforts.	To one-third of the S. & T. a bunch of little tin gods; to the other two-thirds, a bunch of swelled heads.
CO-ED	Necessary to give the course its refining influence.	Raw material for future housewives.	The main reason why boilermakers use the Ryerson street entrance.
MATRIMONY	A thing of the future for us, when we have become Rockwells or better.	The reason why a great many of us have taken Pratt courses.	The result of guard duty at the Ryerson street gate.
TEN DOLLARS	A distasteful subject. These worldly details are too gross to include in our art.	A new hat, a pair of shoes or two weeks' room rent.	Sixty-five beers in Hoboken and enough left to get back home—if you are able.

HORACE WILMER MARSH
SCHOOL OF SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

1897 - 1929

THIS page is dedicated to the memory of a man who, through his untiring devotion to duty, his unfailing sympathy and kindness, and his unswerving loyalty to the principles of the Founder, contributed greatly to the growth and development of this School during its formative years. Horace Wilmer Marsh will live in the years ahead as an essential part of the training which the Science and Technology students received and has left to Pratt Institute as a legacy, a remarkable life.

ELIZABETH McJUNKIN

SCHOOL OF HOUSEHOLD SCIENCE AND ARTS

1889 - 1929

MISS ELIZABETH McJUNKIN died very suddenly, in her fortieth year of service as instructor in dressmaking, on the morning of July 4, 1929. It is always difficult to place a true estimate on an individual. Time only can do that. Forty years of service to Pratt Institute is one evidence of her sterling worth, to which should be added a quiet but strong and helpful influence on her students that is increasingly evident as time goes on and a respect that is only given to those who give truly of themselves.

GRADUATION

ETHELYN FENNER SHAURMAN

SCHOOL OF FINE AND APPLIED ARTS

1890 - 1929

FOR thirty-nine years her unfailing devotion was a constant source of inspiration. She gave of herself unsparingly; no effort was too great, nor time too much that might bring to her students an appreciation of all that was beautiful and true. Intensely interested in her work, she awakened a like ardour in those about her. Teaching those who were to become teachers, she infused them with the qualities of her own mind and heart, and opened to them the treasures of a rich experience. In passing away she leaves in the hearts of her friends an enduring monument to a rare character and beautiful spirit.

IN MEMORIAM

HONEST and loyal always, capable of efficient and superior workmanship, these three men continued in their jobs until just before the end; each one satisfied, I think, with what his trade had given to his life. It is a fine record.
